Miga and Foreign Investment Ibrahim F. I. Shihata, 1988 Chapters MIGA and Foreign Direct Investment Gerald T. West, Ethel I. Tarazona, 1998 MIGA Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency China and the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency Yushu Feng, 1999 May 1997 In developing countries with little foreign direct investment FDI the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency MIGA can serve as a catalyst for more such investment In China which now attracts one third of all FDI in developing countries MIGA should perhaps help screen that investment and set up demonstration projects to improve the quality and sustainability of FDI The Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency MIGA established in 1988 is part of the World Bank Group Its mandate is to promote foreign investment in its member countries by providing political risk insurance and technical assistance to promote investment In developing this case study of China s evolving relationship with MIGA Feng asked Why did China decide to seek membership in MIGA What was the outcome of the relationship between China and MIGA How has that relationship affected economic and legal reform in China and the country s integration with the multilateral investment insurance system How can MIGA strengthen its role And how can MIGA prevent potential claims to its portfolio in China MIGA s comparative advantages are its international experience in underwriting and operating its portfolio its neutral position and approach its mediation and legal advice and the fact that its guarantee portfolio is unaffected by bilateral relations Feng suggests that in China MIGA should screen foreign direct investment FDI not just encourage it because some FDI in China has been of poor quality with little transfer of skills and technology Some local partners have conceded too many discounts to foreign investors without considering the cost of key assets such as land and machinery Some foreign investors have taken advantage of local officials eagerness for foreign capital pressuring them to grant guarantees they should not grant and to allow unacceptable levels of environmental pollution in industry China receives one third of all FDI in developing countries To continue attracting such investment it must design a rule based legal system governing FDI making its rules and regulations more transparent uniform and consistent with international practice As a neutral third party MIGA could make policy recommendations that authorities might consider and accept such as policies designed to encourage less investment in labor intensive firms and more in high tech industries This paper a product of the Office of the Vice President and General Counsel Legal Affairs and Claims MIGA is part of a larger effort in the Bank Group to promote foreign investment in its member countries The paper was produced while the author was a visiting research fellow at the Bank The Legal Protection of Foreign Investment Wenhua Shan, 2012-06-14 The law of foreign investment is at a crossroads In the wake of an unprecedented global financial crisis and a sharp surge of investment arbitration cases states around the world are reflecting on the pros and cons of the current liberal investment regime and exploring new ways ahead This book brings together leading investment lawyers from more than 20 main jurisdictions of the world to tackle the challenge of producing a first comparative study of foreign investment law Based on the General and National Reports presented at the Protection of Foreign Investment Session at the 18th International Congress of the International Academy of Comparative Law Washington DC July 2010 the book is a unique resource for investment lawyers Part I of the book presents a comparative overview of key aspects of foreign investment protection in the world today including admission investment contracts treatment standards tax regime and incentives performance requirement property and expropriation monetary transfer and dispute settlement Part II presents in depth and detailed accounts of the investment laws of more than 20 jurisdictions including Argentina Australia Canada China Croatia Czech Republic Ethiopia France Germany Greece Italy Japan South Korea Macau Peru Portugal Russia Singapore Slovenia Turkey the UK and the USA The book will be an invaluable guide to legal and business communities with an interest in the law and practice of foreign investment in the world in general and in these jurisdictions in particular Protecting Foreign Investment Carlos M. Correa, Nagesh Kumar, 2013-07-04 Despite the mounting criticism that globalization is encountering the developed countries continue to lose no opportunity to change the rules of the global economy in their favour regardless of the impact on developing countries and the poor This book examines one of the most important instances of this the rich countries insistence that the WTO not only launch a new round of world trade negotiations but that rules which were supposed to be confined to trade issues now be extended by means of new agreements protecting foreign direct investment What is being proposed would be at the expense of the freedom of developing countries to determine their own policies towards foreign capital in tune with their development policy objectives The two authors of this book have an intimate knowledge of WTO negotiating processes They explain in detail the North's relentless determination to give privileged protection to the overseas investments of its transnational corporations These initiatives have included inter alia the OECD's failed MAI initiative the World Bank sponsored Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency and the WTO's General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS and Agreement on Trade related Investment Measures TRIMS The authors spell out their consequences for developing countries They examine whether there is any real case for a new multilateral framework on investment within the WTO And they propose various options for developing countries to resist what amounts to a new form of Western protectionism including how a development dimension could be incorporated in any new agreement should the member countries of the WTO decide to proceed with negotiations This book provides invaluable information and analysis for diplomats and trade negotiators policy makers and scholars as well as civil society activists concerned with the impact of TNC investments on development The Multilateralization of International Investment Law Stephan W. Schill, 2009-08-20 The book argues that international investment law is a structured body of law based on uniform principles of investment protection China and the Multilateral Investment Guarantee Agency Yushu Feng, 1997 The Development of International Investment Law Yusuf Caliskan, 2008 This dissertation analyses developments in the international regulation of foreign direct investment FDI The international legal framework of investment encompasses numerous binding or non binding legal instruments including customary international law bilateral investment treaties and international organizations decisions and resolutions The rules established by the international legal framework become effective and significant when they are able to be adapted by appropriate and compatible domestic law frameworks Through analyzing the Turkish foreign investment regulations and policies this study concludes that there is a successful and complex interaction between international rules and domestic rules on FDI Like many developing countries since the 1980s Turkey has revamped its FDI regulations in response to changes and developments in international investment law This interaction will reach its culmination if there is a comprehensive multilateral agreement on investment This dissertation examines failures of the OECD MAI draft treaty since there are lessons to be learned from the MAI negotiations Thus it makes some recommendations both in relation to the substance and the procedure for a possible future negotiation of multilateral investment agreement
