Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice. Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education, it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching, the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident. The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice. In the first part of the book, four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom. In the second part, each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms. Combining two discourses, that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice, the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education, educational research and classroom practices. This book will be key reading for postgraduates, researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education, education research, teacher education and classroom practice. It will also appeal to teacher educators, practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research.

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy. The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans, but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools, which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience.

Philosophy and Education as Action Yusef Waghid, Nuraan Davids, 2017-03-08 Nuraan Davids and Yusef Waghid teach philosophy of education to students who are completing a post graduate certificate in education (PGCE) in order to qualify as teachers. They make the argument that philosophy and education are intertwined as action concepts with the potential to affect teacher education practices. Philosophy and Education as Action: Implications for

Smith,2016-01-04 The past thirty years have seen a rapid expansion of testing exposing students worldwide to tests that are now more than ever standardized and linked to high stakes outcomes The use of testing as a policy tool has been legitimized within international educational development to measure education quality in the vast majority of countries worldwide The embedded nature and normative power of high stakes standardized testing across national contexts can be understood as a global testing culture The global testing culture permeates all aspects of education from financing to parental involvement to teacher and student beliefs and practices The reinforcing nature of the global testing culture leads to an environment where testing becomes synonymous with accountability which becomes synonymous with education quality Underlying the global testing culture is a set of values identified from the increasing literature on world culture These include education as a human right academic intelligence faith in science decentralization and neoliberalism Each of these values highlights different aspects of the dialogue in support of high stakes standardized testing The wide approval of these values and their ability to legitimate various aspects of high stakes testing reinforces the taken for granted notion that such tests are effective and appropriate education practices However a large body of literature emphasizes the negative unintended consequences teaching to the test reshaping the testing pool the inequitable distribution of school resources and teachers attention and reconstructing the role of the student teacher and parent commonly found when standardized census based tests are combined with high stakes outcomes for educators or students This book problematizes this culture by providing critical perspectives that challenge the assumptions of the culture and describe how the culture manifests in national contexts The volume makes it clear that testing per se is not the problem Instead it is how tests are administered used or misused and linked to accountability that provide the global testing culture with its powerful ability to shape schools and society and lead to its unintended undesirable consequences      Cross-nationally Comparative, Evidence-based Educational Policymaking and Reform Alexander W. Wiseman,Petrina M. Davidson,2018-06-29 In this volume scholars and policymakers examine how large scale assessments and quantitative data are used to inform policy making at all levels of education worldwide and how data can be used to better understand specific national and regional educational challenges      Higher Education Pathways Ashwin, Paul,Case, Jennifer M.,2018-12-14 In what ways does access to undergraduate education have a transformative impact on people and societies What conditions are required for this impact to occur What are the pathways from an undergraduate education to the public good including inclusive economic development These questions have particular resonance in the South African higher education context which is attempting to tackle the challenges of widening access and improving completion rates in a system in which the segregations of the apartheid years are still apparent Higher education is recognised in core legislation as having a distinctive and crucial role in building post apartheid society Undergraduate education is seen as central to addressing skills shortages in South Africa It is also seen to yield significant social returns including a consistent positive impact on societal institutions and the development of a range of capabilities that have public as well as private benefits This book offers comprehensive contemporary evidence that allows for a fresh engagement with these pressing issues

Educational Assessment in a Time of Reform Coert Loock, Vanessa Scherman, 2019-11-20 Educational Assessment in a Time of Reform provides background information on large scale examination systems more generally and the South African examination specifically It traces the reforms in the education system of South Africa since 1994 and provides a description of the advances in modern test theory that could be considered for future standard setting endeavours At the heart of the book is the debate on whether the current standard of education in Africa is good enough If not then how can it be improved The aim of this book is to provide a point of departure for discussions on standard setting quality assurance equating of examinations and assessment approaches From this point of departure recommendations for practices in general and the exit level Grade 12 examination results in particular can be made This book is ideal reading for principals teachers academics and researchers in the fields of educational assessment measurement and evaluation

Grid-locked African Economic Sovereignty Victor Warikandwa, Artwell Nhemachena, 2019-02-06 The emergent so called Fourth Industrial Revolution is regarded by some as a panacea for bringing about development to Africans This book dismisses this flawed reasoning Surfacing how investors are actually looting and plundering Africa how the industrial internet of things the gig economies digital economies and cryptocurrencies breach African political and economic sovereignty the book pioneers what can be called anticipatory economics which anticipate the future of economies It is argued that the future of Africans does not necessarily require degrowth postgrowth postdevelopment postcapitalism or sharing solidarity economies it requires attention to age old questions about African ownership and control of their resources Investors have to invest in ensuring that Africans own and control their resources Further it is pointed out that the historical imperial structural creation of forced labour is increasingly morphing into what we call the structural creation of forced leisure which is no less lethal for Africans Because both the structural creation of forced labour and the structural creation of forced leisure are undergirded by transnational neo imperial plunder theft robbery looting and dispossession of Africans this book goes beyond the simplistic arguments that Euro America developed due to the industrial revolutions

Quality education Muchativugwa L. Hove, Martha Matashu, 2021-11-30 This book investigates the intersections between education social justice gendered violence and human rights in South African schools and universities The rich and multifarious tapestry of scholarship and literature emanating from South African classrooms provides a fascinating lens through which we can understand the complex consequences of the economies of education social justice imperatives gendered violence in the lives of women and children and marginalised communities The scholarship in the book challenges readers to imagine alternative futures predicated on the transformational capacity of a democratic South Africa Contributors to this volume examine the many ways in which social justice and gendered violence mirror express project and articulate the larger phenomenon of human rights violations in Africa and how in turn the discourse of human rights informs the ways in which we articulate interrogate conceptualise enact and interpret quality education The book also wrestles with the linguistic contradictions and ambiguities in the articulation of quality education in public and private spaces This book is essential reading for scholars seeking a solid grounding in exploring quality education the instances of epistemic disobedience the political implications of place and power and human rights in theory and practice Annual
