Migration and Diversity in Asian Contexts Ah Eng Lai, Francis Leo Collins, Brenda S. A. Yeoh, 2013 This volume makes an important and unique contribution to scholarly understandings of migration and diversity through its focus on Asian contexts Current scholarship and literature on processes of migration and the consequences of diversity is heavily concentrated on Western contexts and their concerns with multiculturalism integration rights and responsibilities social cohesion social inclusion and cosmopolitanism In contrast there has been relatively little attention given to migration and growing diversity in Asian contexts which are constituted by highly distinct and varied histories cultures geographies and political economies This book fills this significant gap in the literature on migration studies with a concentrated focus on communities cities and countries in the Asian region that are experiencing increased levels of population mobility and subsequent diversity Not only does it offer analyses of the policies and processes of migration it also addresses the outcomes and implications of migration and diversity these include a focus on multiculturalism and citizenship in the Asian region the emerging complex forms of governance in response to increased diversity discussions of different settlement experiences and the practices of everyday life and encounters in increasingly diverse locales Global Asian City Francis L.

Immigrant Integration In Contemporary Singapore: Solutioning Amidst Challenges Mathews Mathew, Melvin Tay, 2023-01-17 Singapore's success as a global city is in no small part attributable to its stance on foreign labour and immigrants illustrated by a largely welcoming but discerning immigration regime to fulfil vital socio economic needs However this fairly liberal policy on immigration has been met with substantial disquiet over the last decade Xenophobic tendencies have surfaced periodically and have been compounded by the Covid 19 pandemic This edited volume spotlights these contemporary issues on immigrant integration in Singapore and adopts a functional approach by explicitly bridging academic and practitioner perspectives The chapters are organised into three sections The first section on Challenges discusses various dominant trends obstacles to immigrant integration based on ethnicity culture and religion and the fear and associated emotions that characterise reactions to immigration The second section focuses on Communities their perspectives and lived experiences in Singapore society The latter differ substantially depending on migrant statuses and are contingent on social capital defined in relation to locals in the city state The last section seeks to illustrate the various Solutioning endeavours in tandem with the contentious nature of immigration These concrete efforts range from ground up initiatives community based collaborative approaches and government programming all seeking to advance immigrant integration in Singapore

Managing Diversity In Singapore: Policies And Prospects Mathews Mathew, Wai Fong Chiang, 2016-05-11 Singapore society is increasingly becoming diverse During the first few decades of nation building policies were designed to homogenise aspects of Singaporean society while enshrining principles to allow restricted amounts of diversity Fast forward to the present and fifty years after independence the number of areas where diversity is profoundly apparent remains copious and its manifestations more varied This book provides an updated account on the tensions posed by diversity in Singapore and how this is being managed primarily by the state through policies and programmes but also by communities who attempt to negotiate these tensions Such an enquiry is crucial especially at this juncture when the nation is finding ways to embrace the different forms of diversity brought about through external impetuses as well as manage internal reactions from the various communities The book chapters highlight important considerations if Singapore's diversity management strategies will hold promise for the future

Grassroots Integration in Multicultural Singapore Rebecca Grace Tan, 2025-01-24 This book studies the role that grassroots volunteers play in the integration and naturalization process in Singapore With increasing migration the topics of migrant integration and belonging are of perennial academic and public interest However much of the existing literature on the subject is largely focused on European and North American cases By focusing on the single case of Singapore this project provides a story of how a city state grapples with the issue of managing increasing cultural diversity while seeking to maintain a cohesive identity As a city Singapore has many ubiquitous features of other urban centres for migration such as a rapidly diversifying population and an economy that is heavily reliant on foreign labour At the same time being a city state means that the demographic and cultural changes experienced in Singapore also coincide with questions of national belonging and membership in the nation state in contrast to larger countries with rural urban divides or more decentralized systems of migration management and integration Examining this simultaneously typical yet unique case study means that this project is able to examine the processes where state and society have managed migration and cultural diversity at the level of the nation state For example this project discusses how Singapore's policy of multiracialism complements nation building efforts adding to existing public and academic debate about whether societies can concurrently embrace cultural difference yet maintain a cohesive national identity

Public Commissions on Cultural and Religious Diversity Solange Lefebvre, Patrice Brodeur, 2017-05-08 Due to growing negative perceptions about relations between historically entrenched dominant populations and various minority groups issues relating to the need to better manage cultural and religious diversity have been intensifying in many countries These negative perceptions have recently led to a significant increase in popular support for right and extreme right nationalist discourses and have created so much public tension that national governments have had no choice but to respond In the last two decades in several Western contexts in particular the issues raised by such combined challenges have culminated in the creation of government initiated or private national commissions This book presents the results of a multidisciplinary analysis from a broader framework that includes the national public commissions which have addressed the challenges of managing cultural and religious diversity in Belgium Britain Canada Quebec France Morocco and Norway including also other cases of public management in Australia and Singapore It includes in depth studies of the issues and controversies examined by each of the commissions such as the ways they perceived the issues their results and impact the key political players involved the media debates and reception surrounding each commission the communication strategies and difficulties their leaders encountered as well as the legal aspects each commission has raised The reports represent a rich body of work charting the fundamental questions nations face about their nature history and future while the impact on peoples lives tells us much about different approaches to the issues of cultural identity between countries
