papers were usually reviewed by experts in the paper's topic. As a consequence, reviews were usually quite extensive and contained many suggestions for improvements. I would like to thank all the members of the Program Committee for their hard work, which I am sure contributed to improving the quality of the final articles.

This book provides a state-of-the-art look at the applied biomechanics of accidental injury and prevention. The editors, Drs. Narayan Yoganandan, Alan M. Nahum, and John W. Melvin, are recognized international leaders and researchers in injury biomechanics, prevention, and trauma medicine. They have assembled renowned researchers as authors for 29 chapters to cover individual aspects of human injury assessment and prevention. This third edition is thoroughly revised and expanded with new chapters in different fields. Topics covered address automotive, aviation, military, and other environments. Field data collection, injury coding, scaling, injury epidemiology, mechanisms of injury, human tolerance to injury, simulations using experimental, complex computational models, finite element modeling, and statistical processes, anthropomorphic test device design, development, and validation for crashworthiness applications in topics cited above, and current regulations are covered. Risk functions and injury criteria for various body regions are included. Adult and pediatric populations are addressed. The exhaustive list of references in many areas, along with the latest developments, is valuable to all those involved or intend to pursue this important topic on human injury biomechanics and prevention. The expanded edition will interest a variety of scholars and professionals, including physicians, biomedical researchers in many disciplines, basic scientists, attorneys, and jurists involved in accidental injury cases and governmental bodies. It is hoped that this book will foster multidisciplinary collaborations by medical and engineering researchers and academicians and practicing physicians for injury assessment and prevention and stimulate more applied research, education, and training in the field of accidental injury causation and prevention.
