Expanding the Boundaries of Transformative Learning E. O'Sullivan,A. Morrell,M. O'Connor,2016-04-30 Transformative learning involves experiencing a deep structural shift in the basic premises of thought feelings and actions It is a shift of consciousness that dramatically and permanently alters our way of being in the world Such a shift involves our understanding of ourselves and our self locations our relationships with other humans and with the natural world our understanding of relations of power in interlocking structures of class race and gender our body awarenesses our visions of alternative approaches to living and our sense of possibilities for social justice and peace and personal joy The editors of this collection make several challenges to the existing field of transformative learning the first is to theoreticians who have attempted to describe the nature of transformative learning without regard to the content of transformative learning The editors argue that transformative learning theory cannot be constructed in a content neutral or context free way Their second challenge which assumes the importance content for transformative learning is to educators as practitioners The editors argue that transformative learning requires new educational practices consistent with the content Arts based research and arts based teaching learning practices are one example of such new educational practices Education for the soul or spiritual practices such as meditation or modified martial arts or indigenous peoples forms of teaching learning is another example Each article in the collection presents a possible model of these new practices One Prayer Away Kendra Norman-Bellamy, 2006-08-01 Mitchell Andrews made a bad mistake His failure to cope made it worse He turned to alcohol and his angry outbursts drove his wife away but it drove him to find Christ sobriety and newfound hope He attempts to win back the love of his life but the mistakes of his past threaten to undo his second chance Will he come undone at his weakest moment or will God give him the strength to endure
