

The background of the cover features a silhouette of a Native American woman in profile, looking out over a landscape at sunset. The sky is a gradient of orange and yellow, while the land below is dark and silhouetted. The woman's hair is styled in a traditional manner, and her expression is contemplative.

Native Women Land Narratives Dispossession:

Native Women and Land Stephanie J. Fitzgerald, 2015-03-15 Dispossession and removal are major subjects in understanding the relationship of American Indians to their ancestral lands This book is the first treatment of these complex topics to focus on women writers The author's emphasis on environmental issues makes her book as important to ecocritics as to students of literary criticism women's studies and Native American studies from dust jacket We Are the Stars Sarah Hernandez, 2023-02-21 After centuries of colonization this important new work recovers the literary record of Oceti Sakowin historically known to some as the Sioux Nation women who served as their tribes traditional culture keepers and culture bearers In so doing it furthers discussions about settler colonialism literature nationalism and gender Women and land form the core themes of the book which brings tribal and settler colonial narratives into comparative analysis Divided into two parts the first section of the work explores how settler colonizers used the printing press and boarding schools to displace Oceti Sakowin women as traditional culture keepers and culture bearers with the goal of internally and externally colonizing the Dakota Nakota and Lakota nations The second section focuses on decolonization and explores how contemporary Oceti Sakowin writers and scholars have started to reclaim Dakota Nakota and Lakota literatures to decolonize and heal their families communities and nations Indigenous Research of Land, Self, and Spirit Throne, Robin, 2020-12-04

Indigenous cultures meticulously protect and preserve their traditions Those traditions often have deep connections to the homelands of indigenous peoples thus forming strong relationships between culture land and communities Autoethnography can help shed light on the nature and complexity of these relationships Indigenous Research of Land Self and Spirit is a collection of innovative research that focuses on the ties between indigenous cultures and the constructs of land as self and agency It also covers critical intersectional feminist and heuristic inquiries across a variety of indigenous peoples Highlighting a broad range of topics including environmental studies land rights and storytelling this book is ideally designed for policymakers academicians students and researchers in the fields of sociology diversity anthropology environmentalism and history Trauma and Resilience in the Lives of Contemporary Native Americans Hilary N. Weaver, 2019-03-18 Indigenous Peoples around the world and our allies often reflect on the many challenges that continue to confront us the reasons behind health economic and social disparities and the best ways forward to a healthy future This book draws on theoretical conceptual and evidence based scholarship as well as interviews with scholars immersed in Indigenous wellbeing to examine contemporary issues for Native Americans It includes reflections on resilience as well as disparities In recent decades there has been increasing attention on how trauma both historical and contemporary shapes the lives of Native Americans Indigenous scholars urge recognition of historical trauma as a framework for understanding contemporary health and social disparities Accordingly this book uses a trauma informed lens to examine Native American issues with the understanding that even when not specifically seeking to address trauma directly it is useful to understand that trauma is a common experience that can shape many aspects of life Scholarship on trauma and trauma informed care is integrated with scholarship on historical trauma providing a framework for examining contemporary issues for Native American populations It should be considered essential reading for all human service professionals working with Native American clients as well as a core text for Native American studies and classes on trauma or diversity more generally

Louise Erdrich's Justice Trilogy Connie A. Jacobs, Nancy J. Peterson, 2021-10-01 Louise Erdrich is one of the most important prolific and widely read contemporary Indigenous writers Here leading scholars analyze the three critically acclaimed recent novels The Plague of Doves 2008 The Round House 2012 and LaRose 2016 that make up what has become known as Erdrich's justice trilogy Set in small towns and reservations of northern North Dakota these three interwoven works bring together a vibrant cast of characters whose lives are shaped by history identity and community Individually and collectively the essays herein illuminate Erdrich's storytelling abilities the complex relations among crime punishment and forgiveness that characterize her work and the Anishinaabe contexts that underlie her presentation of character conflict and community The volume also includes a reader's guide to each novel a glossary and an interview with Erdrich that will aid in readers' navigation of the justice novels These timely original and compelling readings make a valuable contribution to Erdrich scholarship and subsequently to the study of Native literature and women's authorship as a whole

The Routledge Handbook of Ecofeminism and Literature Douglas A. Vakoch, 2022-09-19 The Routledge Handbook of Ecofeminism and Literature explores the interplay between the domination of nature and the oppression of women as well as liberatory alternatives bringing together essays from leading academics in the field to facilitate cutting edge critical readings of literature. Covering the main theoretical approaches and key literary genres of the area, this volume includes Examination of ecofeminism through the literatures of a diverse sampling of languages including Hindi, Chinese, Arabic, and Spanish; native speakers of Tamil, Vietnamese, Turkish, Slovene, and Icelandic. Analysis of core issues and topics offering innovative approaches to interpreting literature including activism, animal studies, cultural studies, disability, gender, essentialism, hegemonic masculinity, intersectionality, material ecocriticism, postcolonialism, posthumanism, postmodernism, race, and sentimental ecology. Surveys key periods and genres of ecofeminism and literary criticism including chapters on Gothic, Romantic, and Victorian literatures; children and young adult literature; mystery and detective fictions; including interconnected genres of climate fiction, science fiction, and fantasy; and distinctive perspectives provided by travel writing, autobiography, and poetry. This collection explores how each of ecofeminism's core concerns can foster a more emancipatory literary theory and criticism now and in the future. This comprehensive volume will be of great interest to scholars and students of literature, ecofeminism, ecocriticism, gender studies, and the environmental humanities.

History and Hope in American Literature Benjamin Railton, 2016-11-10 Throughout history, creative writers have often tackled topical subjects as a means to engage and influence public discourse. American authors, those born in the States and those who became naturalized citizens, have consistently found ways to be critical of the more painful pieces of the country's past yet have done so with the patriotic purpose of strengthening the nation's community and future. In History and Hope in American Literature: Models of Critical Patriotism, Ben Railton argues that it is only through an in-depth engagement with history, especially its darkest and most agonizing elements, that one can come to a genuine form of patriotism that employs constructive criticism as a tool for civic engagement. The author argues that it is through such critical patriotism that one can imagine and move toward a hopeful, shared future for all Americans. Railton highlights twelve works of American literature that focus on troubling periods in American history, including John Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath, David Bradley's The Chaneysville Incident, Louise Erdrich's Love Medicine, Tony Kushner's Angels in America, Junot Díaz's The Brief Wondrous Life of Oscar Wao, and Dave Eggers's What Is the What. From African and Native American histories to the Depression and the AIDS epidemic, Caribbean and Rwandan refugees and immigrants to global climate change, these works help readers confront, understand, and transcend the most sorrowful histories and issues. In so doing, the authors of these books offer hard-won hope that can help point people in the direction of a more perfect union. History and Hope in American Literature will be of interest to students and practitioners of American literature and history.

Native Lands Shari M. Huhndorf, 2024-08-13 Native Lands analyzes the role of visual and literary culture in contemporary Indigenous campaigns for territorial rights. In the post-1960s era, Indigenous artists and writers have created works that align with the goals and strategies of new Native land based movements These works represent Native histories and epistemologies in ways that complement activist endeavors while also probing the limits of these political projects especially with regard to gender The social marginalization of Native women was integral to dispossession And yet its enduring consequences have remained largely neglected even in Native organizing as a pressing concern associated with the status of Indigenous people in settler nation states The cultural works discussed in this book provide an urgent Indigenous feminist rethinking of Native politics that exposes the innate gendered dimensions of ongoing settler colonialism They insist that Indigenous campaigns for territorial rights must entail gender justice for Native women

Indigenous Cities Laura M. Furlan, 2017 In Indigenous Cities Laura M Furlan demonstrates that stories of the urban experience are essential to an understanding of modern Indigeneity She situates Native identity among theories of diaspora cosmopolitanism and transnationalism by examining urban narratives such as those written by Sherman Alexie Janet Campbell Hale Louise Erdrich and Susan Power along with the work of filmmakers and artists In these stories Native peoples navigate new surroundings find and reformulate community and maintain and redefine Indian identity in the postrelocation era These narratives illuminate the changing relationship between urban Indigenous peoples and their tribal nations and territories and the ways in which new cosmopolitan bonds both reshape and are interpreted by tribal identities Though the majority of American Indigenous populations do not reside on reservations these spaces regularly define discussions and literature about Native citizenship and identity Meanwhile conversations about the shift to urban settings often focus on elements of dispossession subjectivity and assimilation Furlan takes a critical look at Indigenous fiction from the last three decades to present a new way of looking at urban experiences that explains mobility and relocation as a form of resistance In these stories Indian bodies are not bound by state imposed borders or confined to Indian Country as it is traditionally conceived Furlan demonstrates that cities have always been Indian land and Indigenous peoples have always been cosmopolitan and urban

Making Space for Indigenous Feminism, 2nd Edition Joyce Green, 2020-07-10T00:00:00Z The first edition of Making Space for Indigenous Feminism proposed that Indigenous feminism was a valid and indeed essential theoretical and activist position and introduced a roster of important Indigenous feminist contributors This new edition builds on the success and research of the first and provides updated and new chapters that cover a wide range of some of the most important issues facing Indigenous peoples today violence against women recovery of Indigenous self determination racism misogyny and decolonization Specifically new chapters deal with Indigenous resurgence feminism amongst the Sami and in Aboriginal Australia neoliberal restructuring in Oaxaca Canada's settler racism and sexism and missing and murdered Indigenous women and girls in Canada Written by Indigenous feminists and allies this book provides a powerful and original intellectual and political contribution demonstrating that feminism has much to offer Indigenous women and all Indigenous peoples in their struggles against oppression
