The sixteenth edition, with considerable additions and improvements* Mrs. Sarah TRIMMER, 1813 An Easy Introduction to the Knowledge of Nature, and Reading the Holy Scriptures Sarah Trimmer, 1813 An Easy Introduction to the Knowledge of Nature, and Reading the Holy Scriptures Mrs. Trimmer (Sarah), 1799 Picturing the Book of Nature Sachiko Kusukawa, 2012-05-21 Because of their spectacular naturalistic pictures of plants and the human body Leonhart Fuchs's De historia stirpium and Andreas Vesalius's De humani corporis fabrica are landmark publications in the history of the printed book But as Picturing the Book of Nature makes clear they do more than bear witness to the development of book publishing during the Renaissance and to the prominence attained by the fields of medical botany and anatomy in European medicine Sachiko Kusukawa examines these texts as well as Conrad Gessner's unpublished Historia plantarum and demonstrates how their illustrations were integral to the emergence of a new type of argument during this period a visual argument for the scientific study of nature To set the stage Kusukawa begins with a survey of the technical financial artistic and political conditions that governed the production of printed books during the Renaissance It was during the first half of the sixteenth century that learned authors began using images in their research and writing but because the technology was so new there was a great deal of variety of thought and often disagreement about exactly what images could do how they should be used what degree of authority should be attributed to them which graphic elements were bearers of that authority and what sorts of truths images could and did encode Kusukawa investigates the works of Fuchs Gessner and Vesalius in light of these debates scrutinizing the scientists' treatment of illustrations and tracing their motivation for including them in their works What results is a fascinating and original study of the visual dimension of scientific knowledge in the sixteenth century The Book of Nature in Early Modern and Modern History Klaas van Berkel, Arie Johan Vanderjagt, 2006 From 22-25 May 2002 the University of Groningen hosted an international conference on The Book of Nature Continuity and change in European and American attitudes towards the natural world From Antiquity down to our own time theologians philosophers and scientists have often compared nature to a book which might under the right circumstances be read and interpreted in order to come closer to the Author of nature God The reading of this book was not regarded as mere idle curiosity but it was seen as leading to a deeper understanding of God's wisdom and power and it culturally legitimated and promoted a positive attitude towards nature and its study A selection of the papers which were delivered at the conference has been edited in two volumes The first book was published as The Book of Nature in Antiquity and the Middle Ages this second volume is devoted to the history of that concept after the Middle Ages The Norton Book of Nature Writing Robert Finch, John Elder, 1990 W W Norton is pleased to announce that The Norton Book of Nature Writing is now available in a paperback college edition     *An Easy Introduction to the Knowledge of Nature, and reading the Holy Scriptures ... The Third Edition: Carefully Corrected, with Two Tables. To which are Now Added All the Large Notes of Mr. Barbeyrac, Translated from His Last Edition ... in 1712 Samuel Freiherr von Pufendorf,1749     Book of Human Nature Laroy Sunderland,1857     Nature That Makes Us Human Michel Loreau,2023 This book seeks to answer two fundamental questions Why do we keep destroying nature when science makes it clear that in doing so we risk our own destruction How can we stop doing so and regain the unity of humans and nature First the book shows that the inability of modern society to modify its relationship with nature has its roots in the collective fictions that have gradually shaped it since the Neolithic revolution The collective fictions that underpin modernity include in particular the subject object duality the matter mind duality the primacy of rationality and the superiority of the human species over all other living beings These deeply ingrained fictions prevent us from acting in the world in agreement with the needs and knowledge that we have Second the book argues that humans have a nature that defines them as a unique species beyond their cultural differences and this nature is not made only of flesh and bones but also of a set of fundamental needs Fundamental needs connect humans with nature spontaneously because they are the manifestation of life in them They also make it possible to re establish the unity of body and mind and of the different forms of knowledge and to give the economy a new direction focused on the development of the human being and of its living environment Challenging our collective fictions and reconnecting with our deepest nature is essential if we are to overcome the current ecological crisis and allow life on Earth to flourish     The Sacred Books of the Old and New Testament, Recited at Large: ,1739     The Knowledge of the Psychoanalyst Raul Moncayo,2025-09-24 The Knowledge of the Psychoanalyst documents Raul Moncayo s practice of analysis over a period of twenty five years Exploring different aspects of knowledge in the work of Freud and Lacan Moncayo considers themes including not knowing as opposed to non knowing truth and ignorance The book considers unconscious guilt S1 signifiers understandings of history as both linear and circular and the different levels of mind in Mahayana Buddhism and psychoanalysis The book also presents cases of obsessional neurosis and hysteria in the Lacanian sense The book concludes with Moncayo s own interpretation of Lacan s theory in the same way that Lacan had his own interpretation of Freud The Knowledge of the Psychoanalyst will be of great interest to Lacanian analysts in practice and in training and academics and scholars of Lacanian theory     Forcing Nature Kai Friedhoff,Julia Josfeld,Verena Klose,Paul Langeslag,Bente Offereins,Irina Rau,Julia Stumpf,2019 In the dominant world view of the Western Middle Ages natura evoked divine power as manifested in creation Nature was an all pervasive force synonymous with God and his visible handiwork but also a cosmic principle associated with fate and predestination in the Neoplatonic tradition This volume of student essays tackles nature in
