

A black and white photograph showing the aftermath of a disaster, likely Hurricane Katrina. A small, single-story house is severely damaged, with its roof partially collapsed and debris scattered around it. Several power lines and poles are visible, some leaning precariously. The scene is desolate and captures the scale of the destruction.

Noir started to come in it became increasingly clear to us that what was taking shape was not just some collection of dark stories set in old Stamboul but a rich portrait of the city itself or at the very least a particularly revealing series of snapshots Mind you it is a city shaped largely by the often vicious ebb and tide of the nation's politics Although Ankara may be the capital of the Republic of Turkey the truth of the matter is with a good twelve million people and thus a fifth of its population Istanbul is the throbbing often bleeding heart of the country's politics And it shows Lying at the crossroads of East and West Istanbul belongs to neither and to both and it is precisely this elusive in betweenness upon which the city thrives No matter how much blood is spilled trying to conform to Western standards they just don't stick in this slippery city Here you don't break the rules you forge a loophole through them A den of sin and a bastion of virtue Istanbul is a fog covered playground of power and resistance denial and repression and if you don't know the tricks of the game you'll likely feel the urge to abandon your marbles and go
