A Newspaper for China? Barbara Mittler, 2020-03-23 In 1872 in the treaty port of Shanghai British merchant Ernest Major founded one of the longest lived and most successful of modern Chinese language newspapers the Shenbao His publication quickly became a leading newspaper in China and won praise as a department store of news a forum for intellectual discussion and moral challenge and an independent mouthpiece of the public voice Located in the International Settlement of Shanghai it was free of government regulation Paradoxically in a country where the government monopolized the public sphere it became one of the world's most independent newspapers As a private venture the Shenbao was free of the ideologies that constrained missionary papers published in China during the nineteenth century But it also lacked the subsidies that allowed these papers to survive without a large readership As a purely commercial venture the foreign managed Shenbao depended on the acceptance of educated Chinese who would write for it read it and buy it This book sets out to analyze how the managers of the Shenbao made their alien product acceptable to Chinese readers and how foreign style newspapers became alternative modes of communication acknowledged as a powerful part of the Chinese public sphere within a few years In short it describes how the foreign Shenbao became a newspaper for China
