of the liberal elite's hypocrisy when it comes to food Ban trans fats Outlaw Happy Meals Tax Twinkies What's next Affirmative action for cows A catastrophe is looming Farmers are raping the land and torturing animals Food is riddled with deadly pesticides hormones and foreign DNA Corporate farms are wallowing in government subsidies Meat packers and fast food restaurants are exploiting workers and tainting the food supply And Paula Deen has diabetes Something must be done So says an emerging elite in this country who think they know exactly what we should grow cook and eat They are the food police Taking on the commandments and condescension the likes of Michael Pollan Alice Waters and Mark Bittman The Food Police casts long overdue skepticism on fascist food snobbery debunking the myths propagated by the food elite You'll learn Organic food is not necessarily healthier or tastier and is certainly more expensive Genetically modified foods haven't sickened a single person but they have made farmers more profitable and they do hold the promise of feeding impoverished Africans Farm policies aren't making us fat Voguish locavorism is not greener or better for the economy Fat taxes won't slim

our waists and fixing school lunch programs won't make our kids any smarter Why the food police hypocritically believe an iPad is a technological marvel but food technology is an industrial evil So before Big Brother and Animal Farm merge into a socialist nightmare read The Food Police and let us as Americans celebrate what is good about our food system and take back our forks and foie gras before it's too late The Fault Lines of Farm Policy Jonathan Coppess, 2018-12-01 At the intersection of the growing national conversation about our food system and the long running debate about our government's role in society is the complex farm bill American farm policy built on a political coalition of related interests with competing and conflicting demands has proven incredibly resilient despite development and growth In The Fault Lines of Farm Policy Jonathan Coppess analyzes the legislative and political history of the farm bill including the evolution of congressional politics for farm policy Disputes among the South the Great Plains and the Midwest form the primordial fault line that has defined the debate throughout farm policy's history Because these regions formed the original farm coalition and have played the predominant roles throughout this study concentrates on the three major commodities produced in these regions cotton wheat and corn Coppess examines policy development by the political and congressional interests representing these commodities including basic drivers such as coalition building external and internal pressures on the coalition and its fault lines and the impact of commodity prices This exploration of the political fault lines provides perspectives for future policy discussions and more effective policy outcomes Thinking with Soils Juan Francisco Salazar, Céline Granjou, Matthew Kearnes, Anna Krzywoszynska, Manuel Tironi, 2020-06-25 This book presents a novel and systematic social theory of soil and is representative of the rising interest in the material in social sciences Bringing together new modes of critical description with speculative practices and methods of inquiry it contributes to the exploration of current transformations in socioecologies as well as in political and artistic practices in order to address global ecological change The chapters in this edited volume challenge scholars to attend more carefully to the ways in which they think about soil both materially and theoretically Contributors address a range of topics including new ways of thinking about the politics of caring for soils the ecological and symbiotic relations between soils how the productive capacities and contested governance of soils are deployed as matters of political concern and indigenous ways of knowing and being with soil Perspectives on Human-Animal Communication Emily Plec, 2013-01-04 Despite its inherent interdisciplinarity the Communication discipline has remained an almost entirely anthropocentric enterprise This book represents early and prominent forays into the subject of human animal communication from a Communication Studies perspective an effort that brings a discipline too long defined by that fallacy of division human or nonhuman into conversation with animal studies biosemiotics and environmental communication as well as other recent intellectual and activist movements for reconceptualizing relationships and interactions in the biosphere This book is a much needed point of entry for future scholarship on animal human communication as well as the whole range of communication possibilities among the more than human world It offers a groundbreaking transformation of higher education by charting new directions for communication research policy formation and personal and professional practices involving animals

Cultivating Food Justice Alison Hope Alkon, Julian Agyeman, 2011-10-21 Documents how racial and social inequalities are built into our food system and how communities are creating environmentally sustainable and socially just alternatives Popularized by such best selling authors as Michael Pollan Barbara Kingsolver and Eric Schlosser a growing food movement urges us to support sustainable agriculture by eating fresh food produced on local family farms But many low income neighborhoods and communities of color have been systematically deprived of access to healthy and sustainable food These communities have been actively prevented from producing their own food and often live in food deserts where fast food is more common than fresh food Cultivating Food Justice describes their efforts to envision and create environmentally sustainable and socially just alternatives to the food system Bringing together insights from studies of environmental justice sustainable agriculture critical race theory and food studies Cultivating Food Justice highlights the ways race and class inequalities permeate the food system from production to distribution to consumption The studies offered in the book explore a range of important issues including agricultural and land use policies that systematically disadvantage Native American African American Latino and Asian American farmers and farmworkers access problems in both urban and rural areas efforts to create sustainable local food systems in low income communities of color and future directions for the food justice movement These diverse accounts of the relationships among food environmentalism justice race and identity will help guide efforts to achieve a just and sustainable agriculture

A Rainbow Palate Carolyn Cobbold, 2024-05-31 We live in a world saturated by chemicals our food our clothes and even our bodies play host to hundreds of synthetic chemicals that did not exist before the nineteenth century By the 1900s a wave of bright coal tar dyes had begun to transform the Western world Originally intended for textiles the new dyes soon permeated daily life in unexpected ways and by the time the risks and uncertainties surrounding the synthesized chemicals began to surface they were being used in everything from clothes and home furnishings to cookware and food In A Rainbow Palate Carolyn Cobbold explores how the widespread use of new chemical substances influenced perceptions and understanding of food science and technology as well as trust in science and scientists Because the new dyes were among the earliest contested chemical additives in food the battles over their use offer striking insights and parallels into today's international struggles surrounding chemical food and trade regulation

The Agricultural Dilemma Glenn Davis Stone, 2022-06-30 The Agricultural Dilemma questions everything we think we know about the current state of agriculture and how to or perhaps more importantly how not to feed a world with a growing population. This book is about the three fundamental forms of agriculture: Malthusian expansion, industrialization, and external input dependent and intensification labor based. The best way to understand the three agricultures and how we tend to get it wrong is to consider what drives their growth. The book provides a thoughtful critical analysis that upends entrenched misconceptions such as that we are running out of land for food production and that our only hope is the development of new agricultural technologies. The book contains engaging and enlightening vignettes and short histories with case studies drawn from across the globe to bring to life this important debate and dilemma. The book concludes by arguing there is a viable alternative to industrial agriculture which will allow us to meet the world's needs and it ponders why such alternatives have been downplayed, obscured, or hidden from view. This important book is essential reading for all studying and researching food production and agriculture and more broadly for all interested in ensuring we are able to feed our growing population.

Abundance Peter H. Diamandis, Steven Kotler, 2014-09-23 The authors document how four forces: exponential technologies, the DIY innovator, the Technophilanthropist, and the Rising Billion are conspiring to solve our biggest problems. Abundance establishes hard targets for change and lays out a strategic roadmap for governments, industry, and entrepreneurs, giving us plenty of reason for optimism.

Climate-Challenged Society John S. Dryzek, Richard B. Norgaard, David Schlosberg, 2013-10-24 This book is an original, accessible, and thought-provoking introduction to the severe and broad-ranging challenges that climate change presents and how societies can respond. It synthesizes and deploys cutting-edge scholarship on the range of social, economic, political, and philosophical issues surrounding climate change. The treatment is introductory, but the book is written with attitude for nobody has yet charted in coherent, integrative, and effective fashion a way to move societies beyond their current paralysis as they face the challenges of climate change. The coverage begins with an examination of science, public opinion, and policy making, with special attention to organized climate change denial. The book then moves to economic analysis and its limits, different kinds of policies, climate justice, governance at all levels from the local to the global, and the challenge of an emerging Anthropocene in which the mostly unintended consequences of human action drive the earth system into a more chaotic and unstable era. The conclusion considers the prospects for fundamental transition in ideas, movements, economics, and governance.

U.S. Food Policy Lisa Markowitz,John A. Brett,2013-09-13 Inequity of control over food systems is a particularly insidious form of injustice Collectively the contributors to this volume posit that this inequity is rooted in power asymmetries in the U S food system and codified through U S food policies This process puts the public at risk in the U S and via trade and foreign aid policies in the Global South Inequities are manifest in the allocation of food and food producing resources in favor of the wealthy exploitation of the natural environment for short term gain of private interests over long term public ones the framing of public discussion on food and food deprivation and finally the deflection of moral challenges posed by human rights to food The contributors draw on long term anthropological field research to examine these tensions and their on the ground outcomes in diverse cultural and national contexts The authors insightful analyses span a wide variety of topics including dietary change food insecurity livestock production and organic farming in the light of U S trade food labor and agricultural policies and food assistance programs The collection highlights the obstacles to and the dilemmas and inconsistencies in shaping policy in the public interest This book was originally published as a special issue of Food Foodways

The ^ACritique of Commodification Christoph Hermann,2021-07-05 In The Critique of Commodification Christoph Hermann argues that commodification entails production for profit rather than provision for need The focus on profits Hermann shows means that social needs are met in a way that excludes those who cannot pay and ensures high profits In going through the damaging effects of commodification Hermann also discusses alternatives based on the satisfaction of needs rather than maximization of profits Ethical Omnivores Samantha Noll,2025-02-25 This book provides a detailed overview of ethical omnivorism as well as the philosophical foundations of this movement and diet Many eaters are concerned about the impact that their food choices have on the environment animals and human health Ethical omnivorism is at once a new food ethic diet and global movement aimed at providing a flexible path for eaters committed to bringing about lasting change one meal at a time While publications in food ethics are largely dominated by vegetarian titles this book explores the viability of omnivorism a dietary choice which is not devoid of animal products but one which embraces eating local eating organic and eating humanely raised food products In doing so this diet builds on the local food movement s desire to know where food comes from and stresses the importance of maintaining high animal welfare and environmental standards Overall this book provides a foundational overview of ethical omnivorism as a food movement and guidance for those interested in eating ethically while recognizing that many factors influence dietary choices This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of food studies food agriculture and animal ethics environmental philosophy and those more widely interested in making ethical food choices Between Nature and Culture Emily Brady, Isis Brook, Jonathan Prior, 2018-10-26 Within philosophy a new interest in aesthetics beyond the arts has encouraged the rapid growth of environmental aesthetics Within this literature however less attention has been given to the spaces and places that emerge from various nature culture interactions This has meant the relative neglect of types of environments to which the majority of people have access and interact with in a sustained manner In this respect these are the environments in which many of us understand and value nature Through a greater understanding of how humans interact with these environments and the types of relationships that emerge through this interaction we address seek to address this gap Between Nature and Culture provides a systematic philosophical account of the main issues and problems that pertain to the aesthetics of modified environments as well as new insights concerning the generation and appreciation of landscapes and environments that fall between non human nature and human culture including gardens agricultural and ecologically restored landscapes and land and ecological art works Upsetting Food Jeffrey Haydu, 2021-05-28 Compares U S food reform campaigns through historical social movements each driven by capitalism but shaped by activism Cultural Values in Political Economy J.P. Singh, 2020-08-25 This masterful collection illuminates many of the all important interfaces between culture and economy These insights have never been more important W Lance Bennett author of News The Politics of Illusion The backlash against globalization and the rise of cultural anxiety has led to considerable rethinking among social scientists This book provides multiple theoretical historical and methodological orientations to examine these issues While addressing the rise of populism worldwide the volume provides explanations that cover periods of both cultural turbulence and stability Issues addressed include populism and cultural anxiety class religion arts and cultural diversity global environment norms international trade and soft power The interdisciplinary scholarship from well known contributors questions the oft made assumption in political economy that holds culture constant which in practice means marginalizing it in the explanation The volume conceptualizes culture as a repertoire of values and alternatives Locating human interests in underlying cultural values does not make political economy s strategic or instrumental calculations of interests redundant The instrumental logic follows a social context and a distribution of cultural values while locating forms of decision making that may not be rational
