An Economist's Guide to Economic History Matthias Blum,Christopher L. Colvin,2018-12-08 Without economic history economics runs the risk of being too abstract or parochial of failing to notice precedents trends and cycles of overlooking the long run and thus misunderstanding how we got here Recent financial and economic crises illustrate spectacularly how the economics profession has not learnt from its past This important and unique book addresses this problem by demonstrating the power of historical thinking in economic research Concise chapters guide economics lecturers and their students through the field of economic history demonstrating the use of historical thinking in economic research and advising them on how they can actively engage with economic history in their teaching and learning Blum and Colvin bring together important voices in the field to show readers how they can use their existing economics training to explore different facets of economic history Each chapter introduces a question or topic historical context or research method and explores how they can be used in economics scholarship and pedagogy In a century characterised to date by economic uncertainty bubbles and crashes An Economist's Guide to Economic History is essential reading For further information visit <http://www.blumandcolvin.org> The Catholic's Ready Answer Michael Peter Hill,1915 Asia in Western and World History: A Guide for Teaching Ainslie T. Embree,Carol Gluck,2015-05-20 A guide aimed at introducing students to the history of Asia in conjunction with Western and world history Across Cultural Borders Eckhardt Fuchs,Benedikt Stuchtey,2002 This innovative work offers the first comprehensive transcultural history of historiography The contributors transcend a Eurocentric approach not only in terms of the individual historiographies they assess but also in the methodologies they use for comparative analysis Moving beyond the traditional national focus of historiography the book offers a genuinely comparative consideration of the commonalities and differences in writing history Distinguishing among distinct cultural identities the contributors consider the ways and means of intellectual transfers and assess the strength of local historiographical traditions as they are challenged from outside The essays explore the question of the utility and the limits of conceptions of modernism that apply Western theories of development to non Western cultures Warning against the dominant tendency in recent historiographies of non Western societies to define these predominantly in relation to Western thought the authors show the extent to which indigenous traditions have been overlooked The key question is how the triad of industrialization modernization and the historicization process which was decisive in the development of modern academic historiography also is valid beyond Europe Illustrating just how deeply suffused history writing is with European models the book offers a broad theoretical platform for exploring the value and necessity of a world historiography beyond Eurocentrism
