

Șerban Dragomirescu 1932-2022

On May 3, 2022, Șerban Dragomirescu, long-term Romanian UNGEGN expert, geographer, toponymist, secretary of the Commission of the Romanian Academy for the standardization of geographical names and member of the Romanian place-name commission that prepared the Romanian place-name law of 2001, passed away. The UNGEGN community, the community of toponymists at large and the community of geographers mourns the loss of an outstanding member.

Born into a family of distinguished Bucharest intellectuals, Șerban Dragomirescu graduated 1955 as a geographer at the University of Bucharest and started working at the Institute of Meteorology. Most of his professional activity, however, took place at the Institute of Geography of the Romanian Academy of Sciences, where he worked until 1990 and where he was particularly engaged in the geographical journals "Revue Roumaine de Géographie" and "Studies and Research in Geography" [Studii și Cercetări de Geografie] as well as, being fluent in French, German, English and Russian, in relations of the Institute with geographers from other countries, earning the reputation of an "ambassador of Romanian geography". After 1990 he was appointed scientific secretary of the Section of Geonomic Sciences of the Romanian Academy of Sciences, a position he held until 2000, and continued to be scientifically active.

Remarkable in Șerban Dragomirescu's work was its thematic diversity comprising geomorphology, history of geography, geography of tourism, toponymy, cartography, and political geography. His historical-geographical expertise justified his participation in the editorial team of the two editions of the Historical-geographical Atlas of Romania [Atlasul istorico-geografic al României], and he contributed essentially to the Geographical Dictionary of Romania [Dicționarul geografic al României] as well as to the Historical Atlas of Romanian Cities [Atlas istoric al orașelor din România].

In the field of toponymy, Șerban Dragomirescu's focus was on standardization in general and the rendering of Romanian exonyms. From 1970 to 1979 he functioned as the coordinator of the Romanian place-name board and was member of the Commission for Tourist Maps of the National Geographical Atlas. From 1972 onward, he represented Romania in UNGEGN as the head of the Romanian delegation, as a member of UNGEGN's Romano-Hellenic and French-speaking divisions as well as in United Nations Conferences on the Standardization of Geographical Names (UNCSGN). He attended in these functions the UNGEGN sessions No. 4 1972 in Geneva [Genève], No. 5 1973 in New York, No. 16-17 1992 and 1994 in New York, No. 18 1996 in Geneva, and No. 19-20 1998 and 2000 in New York as well as the 2nd UNCSGN 1972 in London, the 6th UNCSGN 1992 in New York, the 8th UNCSGN 2002 in Berlin, and the 9th UNCSGN 2007 in New York. He was also a very active member of the UNGEGN Working Group on Exonyms from its foundation in 2002.

At the national level one of Șerban Dragomirescu's major merits is certainly his essential contribution to the Romanian place-name law of 2001 (Monitorul Oficial al României, anuș XIV, Nr. 936/2002) which can be regarded as minority-friendly and very much in line with UN resolutions on place names in minority languages. He worked for it as a member of a scientific commission composed of two experts from the Romanian Academy of Sciences and one each from the University of Iasi and the Geographical Institute of the Romanian Army. It was installed on request of the government to define place names in minority languages and arrived at the remarkable result that place names used by minorities speaking languages written in non-Roman alphabets (in Romania: Russian-Lipovanians and Ukrainians) had not to be converted to Roman script to be shown on town signs and elsewhere in public space. In 2006-2007, Șerban Dragomirescu was also member of the coordinating group of the Dictionary of Geographical Names of Romania, the Romanian
