What is a function?

What is a function?

A function is a rule that assigns to each input exactly one output. It is a relationship between a set of inputs and a set of outputs, where each input is associated with exactly one output.

Functions are used to model real-world situations and are a fundamental concept in mathematics and science.

For example, the function $f(x) = 2x + 1$ represents a linear relationship where the output is twice the input plus one.
