Passage Making Made Perfect:

Passage Making Made Perfect Alastair Buchan, 2013-05-15 Planning and carrying out a successful safe and enjoyable passage is a real art and this book covers the whole process from planning before setting off to fine tuning once underway. This book shows how planning is about making the most of your time, your crew and giving you the confidence to be more adventurous. Recent regulations issued by the Maritime and Coastguard Agency have also made passage planning a legal requirement for small boats so now it's not just good practice it's something you have to do. Starting with the first glimmerings of an idea through to the safe arrival at the other end, this guide covers not just the initial preparation but also how to put it into practice, continuously adjusting the plans in response to changing conditions at sea, all resulting in a safe, seamanlike and enjoyable voyage. Looking at day offshore and ocean sailing, each part of the book covers sources of information, e.g. weather and tides, creating the passage plan, taking into account capabilities and strength of the boat and crew, preparing the boat, equipment, crew and skipper, fine tuning whilst underway, approaching the destination and arrival, dealing with emergencies. With practical text, case studies, checklists, flow charts and photographs, this book gives readers the tools and confidence they need to carry out successful passages wherever and whenever they might be. Practice Makes

Practice Makes Perfect: Level 9: Preparation for State Reading Assessments, A Christian Spirituality and Psychotherapy Richard H. York, 2009-06-01 This book describes a method of therapy based upon the Christian spirituality and psychotherapy perspective developed by Dr Richard York. This clinical theology perspective is a phenomenological approach that integrates spiritual, theological and psychological concepts and was developed in large part through York's own experience of being relieved of depression and anxiety through interweaving of psychotherapy, prayer and meditation, spiritual direction and the relationship with his Indwelling Spirit. Because human beings are the products of relationships, York critiques approaches to psychology premised upon the subject-object epistemology of empirical science that study human behavior. He suggests instead that a relational ontology research method offers an approach superior to that of standard psychotherapy and uses experience in relationship as the fundamental concept in this clinical theology. Because people are prone to hurt themselves and others, York also argues that standard approaches to psychology need to develop a psychology of sin and evil, including some form of a Higher Power as essential parts of the spiritual aspect of psychotherapy. York critiques Christian theologians for developing theology that seldom uses empirical data and that is irrelevant to the process of helping people heal and grow. He criticizes those pastoral ministers who moralize with people instead of listening to them, as well as those who preach more about sin and suffering than God's presence and saving grace through the forgiveness of sins. While he acknowledges that most of his perspective is not new, York does offer a unique contribution to the field of psychotherapy through the concept of the Indwelling Spirit He describes how the Indwelling Spirit works in psychotherapy and the various techniques to access it He further argues that his experience as a gay psychologist is an essential aspect of his method because in being healed through his experience with his Indwelling Spirit he was able to define this experience for use in psychotherapy an insight used by very few straight therapists York challenges the notion of how a gay man who worships God regularly found healing through a relationship with Christ in the Holy Spirit of God and developed the concept of the Indwelling Spirit for psychotherapy could be considered objectively disordered and intrinsically evil by the Roman Catholic Magisterium Furthermore York describes a new principle of moral theology for sexual relationships based on love rather than procreation and suggests seven research hypotheses to study the phenomenon of the Indwelling Spirit and the love that is exhibited in both same sex and opposite sex relationships tacking and a tacktical methodology Louisa Bufardeci,2024-10-02 How can artists and others who find themselves in positions of privilege think differently about the way they do what they do in order to create the conditions for better more just relations to flourish Finding an answer to that question is at the heart of this book After critiquing the relationship between contemporary art race and privilege the author brings together First Nation and feminist philosophies of relationality the game of string figuring and her own history as an artist to propose an alternate methodology that puts relation at the centre of practice She introduces the multivalent concept of tacking a movement at an oblique angle to prevailing winds in order to traverse the waters of contemporary art to challenge power and create a more just future The Quarterly journal of prophecy ,1857
