

Nile Monitors

A detailed close-up photograph of a Nile Monitor lizard. The lizard's head is the central focus, showing its large, dark eye with a prominent pupil and iris. The skin is covered in intricate patterns of dark brown, black, and light tan spots and scales. The lizard's mouth is slightly open, revealing a pinkish interior. The background is a plain, light blue-grey color.

The ^AAmphibians and Reptiles of New York State James P. Gibbs,Alvin R. Breisch,Peter K. Ducey,Glenn Johnson,the late John Behler,Richard Bothner,2007-04-05 The first guide yet produced to the amphibians and reptiles of New York State this book includes detailed accounts of New York s 69 native species along with supporting chapters on threats legal protections and habitat conservation guidelines as well as the rich folklore of New York State as it pertains to these creatures particularly rattlesnakes Living with Wildlife in Zimbabwe Joshua Matanzima,Beaven Utete,2024-08-17 This book provides a critical analysis of the interactions of humans and wildlife in Zimbabwe. It does not only document conflicts but it also considers opportunities for co-existence that can result in the successful conservation practices within protected areas. The book offers empirically rich case studies from across different areas of Zimbabwe, both urban and rural, where people interact with animals both negatively and positively. Chapters in the book discuss these interactions through the different lenses including the contemporary politico-economic crises prevalent in Zimbabwe, the failures and successes of the CAMPFIRE programme and gender dynamics of conflicts. The book provides an update into the human-wildlife interactions situation in Zimbabwe. Data presented has policy implications within Zimbabwe and beyond. It contributes to different categories: policy and mitigation measures including HWC mitigation strategies as well as conservation policy. Beaven Utete and Joshua Matanzima have brought together a fascinating collection of papers on human-wildlife conflict and coexistence in Zimbabwe. The authors highlight the views, values and needs of people living with wildlife. Voices that are still too often ignored in conservation practice, policy and science. This is essential reading for anyone interested in decolonizing conservation and the future of wildlife in Africa. Professor Jan van der Ploeg, Professor Inclusive Conservation, Van Hall-Larenstein University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands. This is a valuable collection from a country we should hear much more from in the field of human-wildlife interactions studies. In addition to providing interesting case studies and data from Zimbabwe to inform and inspire international conservation efforts, I hope it will galvanize national and local efforts to tackle the complex challenges ahead for biodiversity conservation in Zimbabwe. Professor Simon Pooley, IUCN SSC Specialist Group on Human-Wildlife Conflict and Coexistence.

American Book Publishing Record, 2001 Iguana Invasion! Virginia Aronson, Allyn Szejko, 2010-03-24. Burmese Pythons are crawling across Florida from Lake Okeechobee to Key Largo. Hundreds of thousands of Green Iguanas relax along canals and on pool decks around the southern part of the state. And other non-native animals like seven-foot Nile Monitor Lizards and poop-tossing Rhesus Monkeys are scaring Florida residents. How did all these animals get into our public parks, canals and lakes, undeveloped areas and suburban yards? The unfortunate truth is kids and their parents are partly to blame. Parents are purchasing cute baby animals for their kids, then abandoning the unwanted adult pets in the Everglades and anywhere else they think the animals might survive on their own. Some species are indeed surviving and they are breeding wildly, becoming nuisance species. This book provides identification information for the most common exotic species and has the answers to these questions: What are these animals and how did they get here? What is a humane way to get rid of them? When should a trapper be called? Can I feed them? Are they dangerous? What is the effect of all these exotics on the environment? What can we do to help with the problem? Readers learn how to stay safe, be humane and appreciate nature and are encouraged NOT to purchase exotic animals as pets. Recommended by the National Association of Science Teachers.
