Forest Ecology Dan Binkley, 2021-07-26 Forest Ecology Forest Ecology An Evidence Based Approach Forest ecology is the science that deals with everything in forests including plants and animals and their interactions the features of the environment that affect plants and animals and the interactions of humans and forests All of these components of forests interact across scales of space and time Some interactions are constrained deterministic and predictable but most are indeterminant contingent and only broadly predictable Forest Ecology An Evidence Based Approach examines the features common to all forests and those unique cases that illustrate the importance of site specific factors in determining the structure function and future of a forest The author emphasizes the role of evidence in forest ecology because appealing simple stories often lead to misunderstandings about how forests work A reliance on evidence is central to distinguishing between appealing stories and stories that actually fit real forests The evidence based approach emphasizes the importance of real world observable science in forests Classical approaches to ecology in the twentieth century often over emphasized appealing concepts that were not sufficiently based on real forests The vast amount of information now available on forests allows a more complete coverage of forest ecology that relies on a strong empirical foundation Forest Ecology An Evidence Based Approach is the ideal companion text for the teaching of upper level undergraduate and graduate courses in forest ecology

Interaction theory in forest ecology and management Rolfe A. Leary, 2012-12-06 As I understand it a book

Preface is where the author explains to the reader how the book in hand came about something of the personal reasons for having inflicted such extended duress on one's self to complete the manuscript and other items that are fit to say but do not fit in the text. This book had its conceptual beginnings in the 1970s with my studies in scientific synthesis at the North Central Forest Experiment Station, St. Paul, Minnesota. Ours is clearly the age of analysis. But I felt we must soon begin frameworks for synthesis or a synthesis would never be possible. In short, I hoped to develop interaction as an integrative principle in forestry. As work progressed on the manuscript, other subthemes developed. First there was the vague feeling on my part that the forestry profession was losing ground in the contest to see who should manage the forests of the world. This was happening not because foresters do not know how to manage forests in a reasonable manner but because the public seemed to be losing faith in the judgement of foresters as professional responsible wise land managers. Several well-known incidents of poor judgement in timber harvesting methods on national forests in the United States did little to help the forester's image.
