One Big Self Prisoners Of Louisiana:

One Big Self Deborah Luster, C. D. Wright, 2003 In 1998 photographer Deborah Luster and poet C D Wright set out to produce a record of Louisiana's prison population through image and text One Big Self is a document to ward off forgetting an opportunity for those inmates to present themselves as they would be seen bringing what they own or borrow or use work tools objects of their making messages of their choosing their bodies themselves The photographer has been commissioned in a sense by the inmates to make portraits for their loved ones trying to ensure a balance between photograph and subject to connect the viewer whether mother child friend or stranger to the prisoner The view is inherently personal Luster's finished portraits are printed on metal in the manner of tintypes durable snapshot mementos popularized during the 1860s and 70s The persistent gaze of both inmate and documentarian are what we see The text testifies to what is in and out of view Luster and Wright have set out to explore the dimensions of prisoners' lives beyond the crimes that have come to define them They suggest that our punitive models reflect who we are just as much as our reward systems do Everyone somehow is implicated

Photographic Returns Shawn Michelle Smith, 2020-01-03 In Photographic Returns Shawn Michelle Smith traces how historical moments of racial crisis come to be known photographically and how the past continues to inhabit, punctuate and transform the present through the photographic medium in contemporary art Smith engages photographs by Rashid Johnson, Sally Mann, Deborah Luster, Lorna Simpson, Jason Lazarus, Carrie Mae Weems, Taryn Simon and Dawoud Bey among others Each of these artists turns to the past whether by using nineteenth century techniques to produce images or by re-creating iconic historic photographs as a way to use history to negotiate the present and to call attention to the unfinished political project of racial justice in the United States By interrogating their use of photography to recall, revise and amplify the relationship between racial politics of the past and present Smith locates a temporal recursivity that is intrinsic to photography in which images return to haunt the viewer and prompt reflection on the present and an imagination of a more just future

Wreading Jed Rasula, 2022-03-29 Jed Rasula is a preeminent scholar of avant garde poetics noted for his erudition intellectual range and critical independence He's also a gifted writer his recent books have won praise for their entertaining clear prose in addition to their scholarship He is also an alumnus of UAP's distinguished Modern and Contemporary Poetics series which published his Syncopations fifteen years ago Rasula returns to the MCP series with Wreading A collection of essays interviews and occasional writings that reflects the breadth and diversity of his curiosity One of the referees likened Wreading to a victory lap but one that sets its own further record in the taking This is a collection of highlights from Rasula's shorter critical pieces but also a carefully assembled and revised intellectual autobiography Wreading consists of two parts an assortment of Rasula's solo criticism and selected interviews and conversations with other critics and scholars Evelyn Reilly Leonard Schwartz Tony Tost Mike Chasar Joel Bettridge and Ming Qian Ma The collection opens with a trio of essays that complicate the idea of a poet By interrogating the selection of poets for anthologies in the 20th century Rasula identifies a host of forgotten poets once prominent but now forgotten Another essay on the state of the poetry anthology reveals how much influence literary gatekeepers have and what a reimagination of the anthology form could make possible In subsequent chapters Rasula finds surprising overlap between Dada and Ralph Waldo Emerson charts the deep links between image and poetic inspiration and reckons with Ron Silliman's The Alphabet a UAP classic In the book's second half Rasula engages in detailed conversations with a roster of fellow critics Their exchanges confront ecopoetics the corporate university the sheer volume of contemporary poetry and more This substantial set of dialogues gives readers a glimpse inside a master critic's deeply informed critical practice and lists his intellectual touchstones. The balance between essay and interview achieves a distillation of Rasula's long established idea of wreading. In his original use the term denotes how any act of criticism inherently adds to the body of writing that it purports to read. How Rasula couldn't help but participate in his favorite poems. In this latest form Wreading captures a critical perception that sparks insight and imagination no matter what it sees.

One With Others C.D. Wright, 2012-12-11
Honored in Best Books of the Year listings from The New Yorker National Public Radio Library Journal and The Huffington Post. One With Others represents Wright's most audacious experiment yet. The New Yorker: A book that defies description and discovers a powerful mode of its own. National Public Radio: A searing dissection of hate crimes and their malignant legacy. Booklist Today: Gentle Reader, the sermon once again. Segregation After Death: Showers in the a.m. The threat they say is moving from the east. The sheriff's club says: Not now. Not no kind of how. Not never. The children's minds say: Never waver. Air fanned by a flock of hands in the old funeral home where the meetings were called because Mrs. Oliver owned it free and clear and that selfsame air sanctified and doomed rent with racism and it percolates up from the soil itself. In this National Book Award finalist and National Book Critics Circle Award finalist, C. D. Wright returns to her native Arkansas and examines explosive incidents grounded in the Civil Rights Movement. In her signature style, Wright interweaves oral histories, hymns, lists, interviews, newspaper accounts, and personal memories, especially those of her incandescent mentor Mrs. Vittitow, with the voices of witnesses, neighbors, police, and activists. This history leaps howling off the page. C. D. Wright has published over a dozen works of poetry and prose. Among her honors are the Griffin Poetry Prize and a MacArthur Fellowship. She teaches at Brown University and lives outside of Providence, Rhode Island.
