Vivo Glucose Sensing is a key reference for scientists and engineers working on the development of glucose sensing technologies for the management of diabetes and other medical conditions. It discusses the analytical chemistry behind the strategies currently used for measuring glucose in vivo. It focuses on analyzing samples in the real world and discusses the biological complexities that make glucose sensing difficult. Covering current implantable devices, next generation implantable sensing methods, and non-invasive methods for measuring glucose, this book concludes with an overview of possible applications other than diabetes.

The Atlantic Meridional Transect Programme (1995-2023) Andrew Paul Rees, Vanda Brotas, Timothy James Smyth, 2024-01-26

Since 1995 the Atlantic Meridional Transect program (AMT) www.amt.uk.org has undertaken extensive measurements of oceanographic and atmospheric variables on a passage between the UK and destinations in the South Atlantic, Falkland Islands, Chile, Uruguay, and South Africa. This program, which spans up to 100° of latitude, crosses a range of ecosystems from sub-polar to tropical, from eutrophic shelf seas and upwelling systems to oligotrophic mid-ocean gyres. The AMT was originally conceived to utilise the bi-annual passage of the RRS James Clark Ross (JCR) between its home base in the UK and its field base in the Falklands. In 2008, cruises switched from bi-annual to annual, taking place during the boreal autumn/austral spring. Throughout the lifetime of the AMT program, the objectives have evolved to address topical research questions whilst enabling the maintenance of a continuous set of observations relevant to global environmental issues.
