Euro-Atlantic Discourse in Georgia Frederik Coene, 2016-04-14 How have discourses of Euro Atlanticism been used in domestic and international affairs by the political elite in Georgia? After the 2003 Rose Revolution as relations with Russia soured a Euro Atlantic orientation portrayed as a single and coherent strategy became the cornerstone of Georgian foreign policy as well as a model for domestic reforms. This promise of a prosperous future offered new hope to the Georgian population. Scepticism or critical thinking towards President Saakashvili and his government were equated to pro Russian treason and pro western orientation and impressive reforms promoted as being modelled along European standards emerged simultaneously with an outspoken rhetoric and active symbolism. References to Europe and the Euro Atlantic structures became ubiquitous as European flags were brandished throughout the country. Addressing a gap in the existing literature the author examines a large volume of data extracted from news items from 20 different Georgian and International media channels over a ten year period. Through this he identifies patterns in the discourse to explain the intentions of the Georgian elite and examines the effectiveness of the rhetoric.

Building Peace United States Institute of Peace, 1994 Biennial Report of the United States Institute of Peace United States Institute of Peace, Regional Leadership in Post-Soviet Eurasia Irina Busygina, Svetlana Krivokhizh, 2023-05-22 This book explores power in international relations in a world characterized by the growing competition of major powers for smaller nations. Focusing on the major powers and smaller countries of Eurasia it argues that power in international relations is different from coercion and is rather a social contract between a leader state and follower states where reciprocity is key and where leadership relationships cannot be adequately explained by focusing solely on the leader. It challenges the perception that genuine regional leadership is quite common contending instead that it is rare that much more often major powers make claims for leadership and that regional leadership does not indicate the status of a particular state but rather the social role of the leader which is recognized by its followers a role which is always relative and based on communication and constant interaction with followers. The book highlights the important role followers play in recognizing regional power the importance for a state's regional leadership strategy in creating and holding a valuable position attractive for followers and delivering greater value to followers compared to other potential leaders.

The United States Institute of Peace Journal, 1993-04 Gender and Peacebuilding Maureen P. Flaherty, Thomas G. Matyók, Sean Byrne, Hamdesa Tusso, 2015-10-16 The twenty first century has brought with it a shift from the notion of human security being located in secure national borders to the need to secure the safety freedom and dignity of all Despite efforts to equalize women s status in the world evidenced by changes in many international projects requiring a gender focus women and men experience most of the world in very different ways according to gender Further the reality is that humans who do not all fall neatly into one of these categories male or female often find their lives further challenged In the 1980s Peace and Conflict Studies first began to acknowledge and study the different experiences males and females have during war and peace Since then there have been books about women and war women working at grassroots levels to build peace women and transitional justice women and peace education and women s views of human security All of these works have contributed to the discourse of our changing world This book brings together some of those themes and voices and adds more with the final product being more than the sum of its parts We add to the conversation a book that considers foundational fundamental issues that span from the interpersonal to the global Many of the chapters describe empirical research completed with author and community shared here for the first time Part One is a collection of case studies documenting challenges and responses to peacebuilding by women from various parts of the world Part Two focuses on Peace and Conflict Studies PACS as a discipline examining not only what is but also what should be taught This section critiques today s efforts at teaching Peace and Conflict Studies and provides suggestions of how this important work might be shared in more open and equitable ways Part Three enters territory found even less in the PACS literature In this section our authors confront patriarchy engage in a discussion about the contribution queer theory makes to PACS and tussle with the notion of inclusivity with considerations of both gender and disability It then ends with a discussion about the contribution feminist methodologies make to PACS
