Manufacturing Citizenship Veronique Benei, 2007-04-11 In recent years citizenship has emerged as a very important topic in the sciences mainly as a result of the effects of migration population displacements and cultural heterogeneity This book focuses on educational enterprise and how it affects national ambitions cultural preferences and political trends It also examines the major effects of globalisation the large scale movements of populations and the impact this all has in terms of education and citizenship With contributions from an array of international scholars including Etienne Balibar and featuring various international case studies Manufacturing Citizenship will be extremely interesting to the education academic community as well as many readers within cultural studies and politics

Locating the Field Simon Coleman, Peter Collins, 2020-09-09 Are reports of the death of conventional fieldwork in anthropology greatly exaggerated This book takes a critical look at the latest developments and key issues in fieldwork The nature of locality itself is problematic for both research subjects and fieldworkers on the grounds that it must now be maintained and represented in relation to widening and fragmenting social frames and networks Such developments have raised questions concerning the nature of ethnographic presence and scales of comparison From the social space of a cybercafe to cities in India the UK and South Africa among others this book features a wide range of ethnographic studies that provide new ways of looking at the concepts of locality and site It shows that rather than taking key fieldwork processes such as globalization and mobility for granted anthropologists are well placed to examine and critique the totalizing assumptions behind these notions
