Dunaway, 2003-04-14 Table of contents Paternalism in a Southern City Edward J. Cashin, Glenn T. Eskew, 2012-02-01

These essays look at southern social customs within a single city in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries In particular the volume focuses on paternalism between masters and slaves husbands and wives elites and the masses and industrialists and workers How Augusta s millworkers homemakers and others resisted exploited or endured the constraints of paternalism reveals the complex interplay between race class and gender One essay looks at the subordinating effects of paternalism on women in the Old South slave free black and white and the coping strategies available to each group Another focuses on the Knights of Labor union in Augusta With their trappings of chivalry the Knights are viewed as a response by Augusta s white male millworkers to the emasculating maternalism to which they were subjected by their own wives and daughters and those of mill owners and managers Millworkers are also the topic of a study of mission work in their communities a study that gauges the extent to which religious outreach by elites was a means of social control rather than an outpouring of genuine concern for worker welfare Other essays discuss Augusta s aristocracy of color who had to endure the same effronteries of segregation as the city's poorest blacks the role of interracial cooperation in the founding of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church as a denomination and of Augusta's historic Trinity CME Church and William Jefferson White an African American minister newspaper editor and founder of Morehouse College The varied and creative responses to paternalism discussed here open new ways to view relationships based on power and negotiated between men and women blacks and whites and the prosperous and the poor

New Approaches to Gone With the Wind, 2015-12-14 Since its publication in 1936 Gone with the Wind has held a unique position in American cultural memory both for its particular vision of the American South in the age of the Civil War and for its often controversial portrayals of race gender and class New Approaches to Gone with the Wind offers neither apology nor rehabilitation for the novel and its Oscar winning film adaptation Instead the nine essays provide distinct compelling insights that challenge and complicate conventional associations Racial and sexual identity form a cornerstone of the collection Mark C Jerng and Charlene Regester each examine Margaret Mitchell's reframing of traditional racial identities and the impact on audience sympathy and engagement Jessica Sims mines Mitchell's depiction of childbirth for what it reveals about changing ideas of femininity in a postplantation economy while Deborah Barker explores transgressive sexuality in the film version by comparing it to the depiction of rape in D W Griffith's earlier silent classic Birth of a Nation Other essays position the novel and film within the context of their legacy and their impact on national and international audiences Amy Clukey and James Crank inspect the reception of Gone with the Wind by Irish critics and gay communities respectively Daniel Cross Turner Keaghan Turner and Rich Richardson consider its aesthetic impact and mythology and the ways that contemporary writers and artists such as Natasha Trethewey and Kara Walker have engaged with the work Finally Helen Taylor sums up the pervading influence that Gone with the Wind continues to exert on audiences in both America and Britain Through an emphasis on intertextuality sexuality and questions of audience and identity these essayists deepen the ongoing conversation about the cultural impact and influence of this monumental work Flawed in many ways yet successful beyond its time Gone with the Wind remains a touchstone in southern studies
