System Kids Lauren J. Silver, 2015-02-23 System Kids considers the daily lives of adolescent mothers as they negotiate the child welfare system to meet the needs of their children and themselves Often categorized as dependent and delinquent

these young women routinely become wards of the state as they move across the legal and social borders of a fragmented urban bureaucracy Combining critical policy study and ethnography and drawing on current scholarship as well as her own experience as a welfare program manager Lauren Silver demonstrates how social welfare silos construct the lives of youth as disconnected reinforcing unforgiving policies and imposing demands on women the system was intended to help As clients of a supervised independent living program they are expected to make the transition into independent adulthood but Silver finds a vast divide between these expectations and the young women s lived reality Digging beneath the bureaucratic layers of urban America and bringing to light the daily experiences of young mothers and the caseworkers who assist them System Kids illuminates the ignored work and personal ingenuity of clients and caseworkers alike Ultimately reflecting on how her own understanding of the young women has changed in the years since she worked in the same social welfare program that is the focus of the book Silver emphasizes the importance of empathy in research and in the formation of welfare policies

About Criminals Mark Pogrebin, 2011-12-09 This book presents students with recent and important research on criminal behavior The articles in this anthology all based on actual field studies provide the reader with a realistic portrayal of what actual offenders say about crime and their participation in it The offenders voices along with the researchers analyses offer students a real life view of what how and why various criminals behave the way they do Imagining Black Womanhood Stephanie D. Sears, 2010-09-01 Imagining Black Womanhood illuminates the experiences of the women and girls of the Girls Empowerment Project an Afrocentric womanist single sex after school program located in one of the Bay Area s largest and most impoverished housing developments Stephanie Sears carefully examines the stakes of the complex negotiations of Black womanhood for both the girls served by the project and for the women who staffed it Rather than a multigenerational alliance committed to women s and girls empowerment the women and girls often appeared to struggle against each other with the girls politics of respect often in conflict with the staff s politics of respectability a conflict especially highlighted in the public contexts of dance performances This ground breaking case study offers significant insights into practices of resistance identity work youth empowerment cultural politics and organizational power

Adolescence and Beyond Patricia K. Kerig, Marc S. Schulz, Stuart T. Hauser, 2011-12-28 While the period of transition from adolescence to adulthood has become a recent focus for developmental psychologists and child mental health practitioners the full role of the family during this period is only beginning to be explored Many compelling questions of interest to anyone involved in adolescence research remain unanswered To what extent do family experiences influence the way one navigates through emerging adulthood How do we begin to understand the interplay between adolescents contexts and their development and well being Adolescence and Beyond Family Processes and Development offers an accessible synthesis of research theories and perspectives on the family processes that contribute to development Chapters from expert researchers cover a wide variety of topics surrounding the link between family processes and individual development including adolescent romantic relationships emotion regulation resilience in contexts of risk and socio cultural and ethnic influences on development Drawing on diverse research and methodological approaches that include direct family observations interviews and narrative analyses this volume presents cutting edge conceptual and empirical work on the key developmental tasks and challenges in the transition between adolescence and adulthood Researchers practitioners and students in social developmental and clinical psychology as well as those in social work psychiatry and pediatrics will find this book an invaluable summary of important research on the link between family process and individual development

Reclaiming Migrant Motherhood Maria D. Lombard, 2022-02-18 The global landscape is dotted with border crossings that can be particularly perilous for displaced women with children in tow These mothers are often described by their various legal statuses like refugee migrant immigrant forced or voluntary but their lived experiences are more complex than a single label Reclaiming Migrant Motherhood looks at literature film and original ethnographic research about the lived experiences of displaced mothers This volume considers the context of the global refugee crisis forced migration and resettlement as backdrops for the representations and identity development of displaced women who mother. Situated within motherhood studies this book is at the interdisciplinary intersection of literature, life writing, gender, migration, refugee and cultural studies. Contributors examine literary fiction, memoirs and children's literature by Ocean Vuong, Nadifa Mohamed, Laila Halaby, Susan Muaddi Darraj, Terry Farish, Thanh Lai, Bich Minh Nguyen, Julie Otsuka, V. V. Ganeshananthan, Shankari Chandran and Mary Anne Mohanraj. The book also explores ethnographic research, creative writing and film related to refugee studies. The border crossings discussed in the volume are often physical with stories from Afghanistan, Syria, Vietnam, Japan, Iraq, Canada, Greece, Somalia, Palestine, Sri Lanka and America. The borders that displaced mothers face are examined through frameworks of postcolonialism, nationalism, feminism and diaspora studies.

Women's Lives around the World Susan M. Shaw, Nancy Staton Barbour, Patti Duncan Ph.D., Kryn Freehling-Burton Ph.D., Jane Nichols, 2018-01-04. Providing an in depth look at the lives of women and girls in approximately 150 countries, this multivolume reference set offers readers transnational and postcolonial analysis of the many issues that are critical to the success of women and girls. For millennia, women around the world have shouldered the responsibility of caring for their families. But in recent decades, women have emerged as a major part of the global workforce, balancing careers and family life. How did this change happen? And how are societies in developing countries responding and adapting to women's newer roles in society? This four volume encyclopedia examines the lives of women around the world with coverage that includes the education of girls and teens, the key roles women play in their families, careers, religions and cultures, how issues for women intersect with colonialism, transnationalism, feminism and established norms of power and control. Organized geographically, each volume presents detailed entries about the lives of women in particular countries. Additionally, each volume offers sidebars that spotlight topics related to women and girls in specific regions or focus on individual women's lives and contributions. Primary source documents include sections of countries' constitutions that are relevant to women and girls, United Nations resolutions and national resolutions regarding women and girls, and religious statements and proclamations about women and girls. The organization of the set enables readers to take an in depth look at individual countries as well as to make comparisons across countries.

Contemporary Families: Therapeutic Support for New Challenges Sara Skandrani, Ricarda Mewes, Marion Feldman, 2022-07-26

Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, Ecological Settings and Processes, 2015-03-31. The essential reference for human development theory, updated and reconceptualized. The Handbook of Child Psychology and Developmental Science, a four volume reference, is the field defining work to which all others are compared. First published in 1946 and now in its Seventh Edition, the Handbook has long been considered the definitive guide to the field of developmental science. Volume 4, Ecological Settings and Processes in Developmental Systems, is centrally concerned with the people, conditions and events outside individuals that affect children and their development. To understand children's development it is both necessary and desirable to embrace all of these social and physical contexts. Guided by the relational developmental systems meta-theory, the chapters in the volume are ordered from proximal contexts in which children find themselves and moving through to distal contexts that influence children in equally compelling if less immediately manifest ways. The volume emphasizes that the child's environment is complex, multi-dimensional and structurally organized into interlinked contexts; children actively contribute to their development; the child and the environment are inextricably linked; and contributions of both child and environment are essential to explain or understand development. Understand the role of parents, other family members, peers, and other adults, teachers, coaches, mentors in a child's development. Discover the key neighborhood, community, and institutional settings of human development. Examine the role of activities, work, and media in child and adolescent development. Learn about the role of medicine, law, government, war, and disaster, culture, and history in contributing to the processes of human development. The scholarship within this volume and as well across the four volumes of this edition illustrate that developmental science is in the midst of a very exciting period. There is a paradigm shift that involves increasingly greater understanding of how to describe, explain, and optimize the course of human life for diverse individuals living within diverse contexts. This Handbook is the definitive reference for educators, policy makers, researchers, students, and practitioners in human development, psychology, sociology, anthropology, and neuroscience.

Adolescents in Contemporary Indonesia Lyn Parker, Pam Nilan, 2013-07-18. The youth demographic is a large and growing cohort in Indonesia and adolescents embody the currents of social change. Throughout the twentieth century they were significant agents of social protest leading to social and political transformation. This book looks at the importance of adolescents in contemporary Indonesia and how they are spearheading not just globalisation and a growing consumer youth culture but also the Islamisation movement. The book explores both the inner worlds and social selves of Indonesian adolescents. It presents an in-depth knowledge of Indonesian society and culture in various parts of Indonesia and discusses national patterns and trends. Grounded in two field sites, the book enables an analysis of young people's local ethnic and religious identities and their commitment to the Indonesian nation state. It goes on to look at the physical age bracket of youth, the definitions used by the Indonesian state and other agencies, and the perceptions of youth themselves about adolescence and adulthood. Providing a comprehensive study of young people in contemporary Indonesia, the book addresses gender relations, the importance of education for youth, and youth engagement with popular culture and the moral issue concerning the sexual propriety of young people. It is a useful contribution for students and academics of Asian Studies, Sociology, and Cultural Studies.

Pregnant Bodies, Fertile Minds Wendy Luttrell, 2014-05-22. Focusing on fifty girls enrolled in a model public school program for pregnant teens, Luttrell explores how pregnant girls experience society's view of them and also considers how these girls view themselves and the choices they've made Also includes an 8 page color insert Transition and Transgression Judith Inggs, 2015-12-07 This book conveys the story of a society in the throes of restructuring itself and struggling to find a new identity A particularly attractive aspect of this study is the focus on young adult literature and its place in post apartheid South Africa as well as its potential use in the classroom and lecture hall Intersecting these two topics provides a compelling lens for refocusing debate on young adult fiction while offering a new and novel angle on debates in South Africa after the end of apartheid The multilingual and multicultural South African society has resulted in fiction that differs from other parts of the English speaking world This work presents a holistic critique of South African young adult fiction and addresses issues such as change and transformation identity politics sexuality and the issue of the right of white writers to represent and write characters of different races

Embracing the Beat of Appearance: An Psychological Symphony within Negotiating Identities The Transition To Motherhood In Young Urban Adolescent Mothers
