Partnerships for Empowerment Carl Wilmsen, William F. Elmendorf, Larry Fisher, Jacquelyn Ross, Brinda Sarathy, Gail Wells, 2012-05-23 Participatory research has emerged as an approach to producing knowledge that is sufficiently grounded in local needs and realities to support community based natural resource management CBNRM and it is often touted as crucial to the sustainable management of forests and other natural resources This book analyses the current state of the art of participatory research in CBNRM Its chapters and case studies examine recent experiences in collaborative forest management harvesting impacts on forest shrubs watershed restoration in Native American communities civic environmentalism in an urban neighborhood and other topics Although the main geographic focus of the book is the United States the issues raised are synthesized and discussed in the context of recent critiques of participatory research and CBNRM worldwide The book's purpose is to provide insights and lessons for academics and practitioners involved in CBNRM in many contexts The issues it covers will be relevant to participatory research and CBNRM practitioners and students the world over

Partnerships for Empowerment Carl Wilmsen, 2008 Participatory research has emerged as an approach to producing knowledge that is sufficiently grounded in local needs and realities to support community based natural resource management CBNRM and it is often touted as crucial to the sustainable management of forests and other natural resources This book analyses the current state of the art of participatory research in CBNRM Its chapters and case studies examine recent experiences in collaborative forest management harvesting impacts on forest shrubs watershed restoration in Native American communities civic environmentalism in an urban neighborhood and other topics

Community-Based Archaeology Sonya Atalay, 2012-10 Community Based Participatory Research in archaeology finally comes of age with Atalay's long anticipated volume She promotes a collaborative approach to knowledge gathering interpretation and use that benefits descendant communities and archaeological practitioners contributing to a more relevant rewarding and responsible archaeology This is essential reading for anyone who asks why we do archaeology for whom and how best can it be done George Nicholas author of Being and Becoming Indigenous Archaeologists Sonya Atalay shows archaeologists how the process of Community Based Participatory Research can move our efforts at collaboration with local communities beyond theory and good intentions to a sustainable practice This is a game changing book that every archaeologist must read Randall H McGuire author of Archaeology as Political Action

Community Biodiversity Management Walter Simon de Boef, Abishkar Subedi, Nivaldo Peroni, Marja Thijssen, Elizabeth O'Keeffe, 2013-03-12 The conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity are issues that have been high on the policy agenda since the first Earth Summit in Rio in 1992 As part of efforts to implement in situ conservation a methodology referred to as community biodiversity management CBM has been developed by those engaged in this arena CBM contributes to the empowerment of farming communities to manage their biological resources and make informed decisions on the conservation and use of agrobiodiversity This book is the first to set out a clear overview of CBM as a methodology for meeting socio environmental changes CBM is shown to be a key strategy that promotes community resilience and contributes to the conservation of plant genetic resources The authors present the underlying concepts and theories of CBM as well as its methodology and practices and introduce case studies primarily from Brazil Ethiopia France India and Nepal Contributors include farmers leaders of farmers organizations professionals from conservation and development organizations students and scientists The book offers inspiration to all those involved in the conservation and use of agrobiodiversity within livelihood development and presents ideas for the implementation of farmers rights The wide collection of experiences illustrates the efforts made by communities throughout the world to cope with change while using diversity and engaging in learning processes It links these grassroots efforts with debates in policy arenas as a means to respond to the unpredictable changes such as climate change that communities face in sustaining their livelihoods

The Community-Based PhD Sonya Atalay,Alexandra C McCleary,2022-03-15 This volume explores the complex and nuanced experience of doing community based research as a graduate student Contributors from a range of scholarly disciplines share their experiences with CBPR in the arts humanities social sciences public health and STEM fields

Science by the People Aya H. Kimura,Abby Kinchy,2019-09-13 Longlisted for the Fleck Prize from the Society for Social Studies of Science 4S Citizen science research involving nonprofessionals in the research process has attracted both strong enthusiasts and detractors Many environmental professionals activists and scholars consider citizen science part of their toolkit for addressing environmental challenges Critics however contend that it represents a corporate takeover of scientific priorities In this timely book two sociologists move beyond this binary debate by analyzing the tensions and dilemmas that citizen science projects commonly face Key lessons are drawn from case studies where citizen scientists have investigated the impact of shale oil and gas nuclear power and genetically engineered crops These studies show that diverse citizen science projects face shared dilemmas relating to austerity pressures presumed boundaries between science and activism and difficulties moving between scales of environmental problems By unpacking the politics of citizen science this book aims to help people negotiate a complex political landscape and choose paths moving toward social change and environmental sustainability

Inevitably Toxic Brinda Sarathy,Janet Brodie,Vivien Hamilton,2018-10-30 Not a day goes by that humans aren't exposed to toxins in our environment be it at home in the car or workplace But what about those toxic places and items that aren't marked Why are we warned about some toxic spaces substances and not others The essays in Inevitably Toxic consider the exposure of bodies in the United States Canada and Japan to radiation industrial waste and pesticides Research shows that appeals to uncertainty have led to social inaction even when evidence e.g the link between carbon emissions and global warming stares us in the face In some cases influential scientists engineers and doctors have deliberately manufactured doubt and uncertainty but as the essays in this collection show there is often no deliberate deception We tend to think that if we can't see contamination and experts deem it safe then we are okay Yet having knowledge about the uncertainty behind expert claims can awaken us from a false sense of security and alert us to decisions and practices that may in fact cause harm In the epilogue Hamilton and Sarathy interview Peter Galison a prominent historian of science whose recent work explores the complex challenge of long term nuclear waste storage

Gender and Wildfire Christine Eriksen, 2013-11-20 In pursuit of lifestyle change affordable property and proximity to nature people from all walks of life are moving to the wildland urban interface Tragic wildfires and a predicted increase in high fire danger weather with climate change have triggered concern for the safety of such amenity led migrants in wildfire prone landscapes This book examines wildfire awareness and preparedness amongst women men households communities and agencies at the interface between city and beyond It does so through an examination of two regions where wildfires are common and disastrous and where how to deal with them is a major political issue southeast Australia and the west coast United States It follows women s and men s stories of surviving fighting evacuating living and working with wildfire to reveal the intimate inner workings of wildfire response and especially the culturally and historically distinct gender relations that underpin wildfire resilience Wildfire is revealed as much more than a natural hazard it is far from gender neutral Rather wildfire is an important means through which traditional gender roles and power relations are maintained despite changing social circumstances Women s and men s subjectivities are shaped by varying senses of inclusion exclusion engagement and disengagement with wildfire management This leads to the reproduction of gender identities with clear ramifications for if how and to what extent women and men prepare for wildfire

Space, Place and Inclusive Learning Judy Hemingway, Felicity Armstrong, 2016-04-08 This collection explores ways in which theories of space and place can be used in understanding processes of exclusion and inclusion in education The contributions foreground how the spatial turn and geographical knowledges can inform debates on the relationships between learning space and place understandings of the ways in which space and place affect education and learning familiar research agendas through the application of conceptual perspectives from different disciplines The ten chapters which make up this book are by contributors from Australia Italy and the United Kingdom who draw in very different ways on spatial theory as a means of exploring processes of inclusion and exclusion in education Each one of the authors not only seeks to challenge growing orthodoxies in their respective field but is interested in cross disciplinarity and spatial theory in education This book provides key readings for experienced and beginning teachers studying for bachelors masters and research degrees or professional qualifications It will be particularly useful to equality and diversity post holders lecturers researchers and policy makers working in all education establishments which take issues of inclusion seriously The international content of the diverse papers in Space Place and Inclusive Learning will be of interest not only to those practising in the United Kingdom but to educationists working in other countries who seek to understand how space and place modulate opportunities for inclusion This book was originally published as a special issue of the International Journal of Inclusive Education

Social Science and Sustainability Iain Walker, Heinz

Schandl,2017-06 Sustainability policies shape the ways that society and the economy interact with the environment natural resources and ecosystems and address issues such as water energy and food security and climate change These policies are complex and are at times obscured by contestation uncertainty and sometimes ignorance Ultimately sustainability problems are social problems and they need to be addressed through social and policy change Social Science and Sustainability draws on the wide ranging experience of CSIRO s social scientists in the sustainability policy domain These researchers have extensive experience in addressing complex issues of society nature relationships usually in interdisciplinary collaboration with natural scientists This book describes some of the evidence based concepts frameworks and methodologies they have developed which may guide a transition to sustainability Contributions range from exploring ways to enhance livelihoods and alleviate poverty to examining Australians responses to climate change to discussing sociological perspectives on sustainability and how to make policy relevant Researchers policy makers and decision makers around the globe will find this book a valuable and thought provoking contribution to the sustainability literature It is also suited to academics and students in postgraduate level courses in social sciences and sustainability or in courses in applied sociology applied social psychology and other applied social sciences

Traditional Forest-Related Knowledge John A. Parrotta,Ronald L. Trosper,2011-10-14 Exploring a topic of vital and ongoing importance Traditional Forest Knowledge examines the history current status and trends in the development and application of traditional forest knowledge by local and indigenous communities worldwide It considers the interplay between traditional beliefs and practices and formal forest science and interrogates the often uneasy relationship between these different knowledge systems The contents also highlight efforts to conserve and promote traditional forest management practices that balance the environmental economic and social objectives of forest management It places these efforts in the context of recent trends towards the devolution of forest management authority in many parts of the world The book includes regional chapters covering North America South America Africa Europe Asia and the Australia Pacific region As well as relating the general factors mentioned above to these specific areas these chapters cover issues of special regional significance such as the importance of traditional knowledge and practices for food security economic development and cultural identity Other chapters examine topics ranging from key policy issues to the significant programs of regional and international organisations and from research ethics and best practices for scientific study of traditional knowledge to the adaptation of traditional forest knowledge to climate change and globalisation

The Future of Inclusive Education Valentina Migliarini,Brent C. Elder,2024-01-10 This book addresses the tensions of existing theories and practices of inclusive education from an international perspective Adopting Disability Critical Race Theory in Education DisCrit and Critical Disability Studies CDS the authors expose how race neutral knowledge characterizes inclusive education and exhorts readers to consider how intersectional perspectives provide more complex and nuanced understandings about ways in which racism and ableism simultaneously circulate as intersecting oppressions in schools and societies and across geographical borders The authors begin by engaging in a critical analysis of the genesis of inclusive education before exploring how existing policies and practices of inclusive education in the global North evade the collusive nature of oppressions faced by minoritized students with disabilities and are uncritically transferred into the global South Ultimately the book encourages readers to reconceptualize inclusive education and move towards developing and sustaining transformative notions of global justice
