Environmental Planning in the Netherlands: Too Good to be True Gert de Roo, 2017-03-02 The Netherlands is one of the most prominent and innovative countries in the field of environmental planning Over the past decade its government has introduced such ground breaking schemes as Integrated Environmental Zoning the City Environment Project the Bubble Concept and Policy Concepts and new approaches to coping with noise odours soil pollution air pollution and safety issues These initiatives and policy tools reflect a rapidly changing and decentralising environmental policy which contrasts with more conventional environmental ideologies However at present little is known of these policies in the international arena De Roo shows how and why in recent years the country's planning system has moved away from its traditional top down structure The resulting changes have had far reaching consequences for the traditional principles of Dutch environmental policy In addition measures for compensating excessive environmental loads are now open to discussion and environmental quality is a subject of negotiation among stakeholders All these developments mean that environmental policy making has become more closely integrated with local initiatives that focus on general location specific qualities In this book this development is referred to as tailor made comprehensive planning which relates closely to the local context is area specific situation dependent and embraces shared governance Air Pollution Modeling and Its Application VIII H. Van Dop, Douw G. Steyn, 2012-12-06 In 1949 when the North Atlantic Treaty was ratified one of its articles explicitly noted that member countries should contribute towards the further development of peaceful and friendly international relations Specific problems related to the human environment were addressed by the Committee of Challenges of Modern Society CCMS of NATO established in 1969 This provided a framework within which a series of International Technical Meetings ITMs on Air Pollution Modelling has been held This volume documents the proceedings of the 18th meeting in this series Science like the arts and sports provides an ideal vehicle for developing peaceful and friendly international relations National boundaries have never been barriers to the movement of air pollution and fortunately this has also proved true of scientists studying the transport of air pollution. It is thus satisfying to record that since the mid seventies it has been commonplace to find Eastern European scientists among attendees at the ITMs which have in a very modest way participated in a precursor to the process which has led to historical changes in Europe and which will undoubtedly lead to a tremendous increase in personal and intellectual exchange on a worldwide basis. National Union Catalog, Includes entries for maps and atlases. Policies for the Containment of Health Care Costs and Expenditures Stuart O. Organized into five sessions encompassing 94 chapters this volume begins with an overview of the atmospheric cycle of nitrogen oxide in terms of source strength destruction rates and atmospheric chemistry. This text then examines the fundamental physical and chemical processes involved in the formation of nitrogen oxides. Other chapters consider the regional pulmonary deposition of nitrogen dioxide in man guinea pigs rats and rabbits by using a general mathematical model formulation for the transport of gases in the lungs. This book discusses as well the emission control methods and systems with low nitrogen oxide capability for possible application in The Netherlands and other parts of Europe. Tarlov, Eric L. Vrijland, 2012-12-06. In most European countries there is a growing imbalance between the supply and demand of medical manpower. Though many national governments international organizations and scientific institutes and also with a view from a different angle doctors associations recognize this problem it appears to be very difficult to bring all people concerned with this problem together in order to find a solution. On this occasion the initiative to arrange an international meeting was taken by the junior doctors associations of The Netherlands and Sweden with the organizational support of the Faculty of Medicine of University Limburg Maastricht The Netherlands and under the auspices of the Permanent Working Group of European Junior Hospital Doctors. The symposium should be considered as a step in a series of continuing activities within the field of health manpower planning. The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development OECD organized a working symposium on Long Range Forecasting and Planning in 1968 Bellagio Italy followed by the Expert Committee of the OECD which produced the New Directives in Education for Changing Health Care System OECD CERI report Paris 1975. The Dutch ministries of Education and Sciences and of Health and Environmental Protection organized a seminar on Cooperation of Health Care and Education at Regional Level Responsibilities and Cost Allocation 1978 Noordwijkerhout The Netherlands Following this the Dutch Association of Junior Hospital Doctors LVAG organized a national conference Today a consultant in training tomorrow an unemployed specialist 1980 Utrecht The Netherlands Acid Rain Research: Do We Have Enough Answers? J.W.
