Skyscapes Fabio Silva, Nicholas Campion, 2015-03-12 Eleven papers extend discussion of the role and importance of the landscape and the wider environment to past societies and to the understanding and interpretation of their material remains into consideration of the significance of the celestial environment the skyline The role of the sky for past societies has been relegated to the fringes of archaeological discourse Nevertheless archaeoastronomy has developed a new rigour in the last few decades and the evidence suggests that it can provide insights into the beliefs practices and cosmologies of past societies Skyscapes explores the current role of archaeoastronomical knowledge in archaeological discourse and how to integrate the two It shows how it is not only possible but even desirable to look at the skyline to shed further light on human societies This is achieved by first exploring the historical relationship between archaeoastronomy and academia in general and with archaeology in particular The volume continues by presenting case studies that either demonstrate how archaeoastronomical methodologies can add to our current understanding of past societies their structures and beliefs or how integrated approaches can raise new questions and even revolutionise current views of the past

Regional Archaeology in the Inca Heartland R. Alan Covey,2014-01-01 The Cuzco region of highland Peru was the heartland of the Inca empire the largest native state to develop in the Americas Archaeologists have studied Inca monumental architecture for more than a century but it is only in recent decades that regional survey work has systematically sought to reconstruct patterns of settlement subsistence and social organization in the region This monograph presents the results of regional surveys conducted from 2000 to 2008 to the north and west of the city of Cuzco a region of approximately 1200 square kilometers that was investigated using the same field methodology as other systematic surveys in the Cuzco region The study region referred to as Hanan Cuzco in this volume encompasses considerable environmental variations ranging from warm valley bottom lands to snow capped mountains The chapters in this volume present settlement pattern data from all periods of pre Columbian occupation from the arrival of the first hunter gatherers to the transformation of valley bottom fields by the last Inca emperors A chapter on the colonial period discusses how Spanish colonial practices transformed an imperial landscape into a peripheral one Together the chapters in this volume contribute to the archaeological understanding of several central issues in Andean prehistory Aqua Vitae Gerald Augusto Corzo Perez,Laszlo G.
