The Columbia Documentary History of American Women Since 1941 Harriet Sigerman, 2003 From the Hoover vacuum cleaner to the fax machine from the pill to reproductive rights from Rosie the Riveter to Martha Stewart and Hillary Rodham Clinton American women have grappled with a sometimes dizzying rate of social and economic change and continually shifting conceptions of gender This collection of documents seeks to chronicle the exciting and tumultuous recent history of American women beginning with the watershed event of World War II and the lasting impact of the war effort on women's social and economic opportunities. Subsequent documents speak to the ideas and changes brought about by the women's movement, the challenges to and defense of reproductive rights, the backlash against feminism in the name of family values, and new visions for women's lives in the twenty-first century. Social Feminism

Naomi Black, 2019-05-15. In light of the history of three influential women's organizations in the United States, England, and France, Naomi Black offers a provocative new interpretation of feminism. She perceives two inherently different types of feminist thought: equity feminism, which incorporates women into existing male-dominated ideologies such as liberalism, Marxism, and socialism; and the less familiar social feminism, which emphasizes women's distinctive experiences and values. Examining the development of organizations previously considered traditional and nonpolitical—the League of Women Voters, the Women's Co-operative Guild, and the Union féminine civique et sociale—Black concludes that the social feminism which characterizes these groups is a genuinely radical approach to social change. Fictions of the Past Scott Bravmann, 1997-10-09. In Queer Fictions of the Past, Scott Bravmann explores the complexity of lesbian and gay engagement with history and considers how historical discourses animate the present. Characterising historical representations as dynamic conversations between then and now, he demonstrates their powerful role in constructing present identities, differences, politics, and communities. In particular, this is the first book to explore the ways in which lesbians and gay men have used history to define themselves as social, cultural, and political subjects. Teaching to Transcend Cheryl L. Sattler, 2000-07-27. Teaching to Transcend explores a particular kind of safe space for the education of women: domestic violence shelters. Women in shelters are literally taught concepts from self-worth to financial management, parenting, and feminist values of equality and rights. They also learn more subtly through counseling, interaction, and affirmation of their own stories and survival. The ways in which women in shelters are educated are based upon the concepts of feminist pedagogy, such as intent listening, empowering voice, and radical social action. Teaching to Transcend expands both the concept of feminist spaces and feminist pedagogy and our understanding of the connections between education and politics, particularly the political economy of social knowledge and non-school-based education spaces. Re-reading Jose

Martí (1853-1895) Julio Rodríguez-Luis, 1999-06-24. Re-evaluates José Martí's contribution to Latin America's literature and political evolution. Family Ambiguity and Domestic Violence in Asia Maznah Mohamad, Saskia Wieringa, 2013. Domestic violence in Asia is explored in this analysis through questions of family ambiguity and the relationship between concept law and strategy Comparative experiences in the Asian context enable an examination of the effectiveness of family regulations and laws in diverse national cultural and religious settings Key questions relate to the limits and relevance of the human rights discourse in resolving family conflicts the extent to which power and control in intimate relationships can actually be regulated by a set of inanimate homogeneous and uniform policies and legislations and how the state relates to the family as an ambiguous unit given state rules of governance that perpetuate unequal gender relations Carefully considering the many components of domestic violence such as state intervention versus the private domain and differences in legislation across Asia the book offers new theoretical insights to the conceptualization of the family culture and law and provides reasoned new perspectives on the effectiveness or inadequacy of present policies and enforcement strategies against domestic violence in Asia

Forging Radical Alliances Across Difference Jill M. Bystydzienski, Steven P. Schacht, 2001 As we enter the twenty first century scholars activists and others concerned with social change increasingly realize that in order to transform society effective coalitions among different groups working for social justice need to be created and maintained However most of the research and writing about coalitions provide rather limited approaches to the study and understanding of radical alliances i e coalitions whose goals are to fundamentally change interpersonal relations and social structure in order to achieve equality and true social justice This anthology challenges dominant approaches of explaining social movements and coalition building Based on numerous case studies of alliances created between disparate peoples and among a variety of groups the authors show that both resource mobilization theories and identity politics frameworks for the most part are inadequate for conceptualizing how alliances have been and can be created across boundaries of gender race ethnicity class nationality ideology sexual orientation and age The theoretical approach we propose suggests that coalitions are fluid sites of collective behavior where the blending of multiple identities with political activism interact with structural conditions to influence the development of commitments strategies and specific actions This analogy makes a contribution to a body of knowledge that aims to understand and explain how radical coalitions work in order to enable the development of visions and plans for change that advance and sustain political and social activity

Perceiving Gender Locally, Globally, and Intersectionally Vasilikie (Vicky) Demos, Marcia Texler Segal, 2009-06-26 Addresses questions about how feminist scholars conceptualize gender and view it in relationship to other attributes of individuals and of social systems This book strives for intersectional analyses broadening that approach beyond the gender race and class paradigm to include sexuality employing a variety of methodologies

Lesbian Feminism Niharika Banerjee, Kath Browne, Eduarda Ferreira, Marta Olasik, Julie Podmore, 2019-08-15 Drawing on the incredible wealth of diversity of languages cultures and movements in which lesbian feminisms have been articulated this book confronts the historic devaluation of lesbian feminist politics within Anglo American discourse and ignites a transnational and transgenerational discussion regarding the relevance of lesbian feminisms in today's world a discussion that challenges the view of lesbian feminism as static and essentialist Through careful consideration of contemporary debates these writers theorists academics and activists consider the wider place of lesbian feminisms within queer theory post colonial feminism and the movement for LGBT rights It considers how lesbian feminisms can contribute to discussions on intersectionality engage with trans activism and the need for trans inclusion to ultimately show how lesbian feminisms can offer a transformative approach to today's sexual and gender politics
