M. Z. Hossain

Associate Professor, Department of Statistics, Shahjalal University of Science & Technology, Sylhet-3114, Bangladesh

Introduction

A study of migration is of key importance in social science, particularly in population studies. The importance emerges not only from the movement of people between places but also from its influence on the lives of individuals and urban growth. Broadly migration is a relocation of residence of various duration and various nature. But, generally, rural-urban dominates the domain of research and planning as its role in changing the lives of migrant families both at the place of origin and destination.

Urbanisation has been one of the dramatic global social transformations of the 20th century. The accelerating rate of urbanisation is high among the least developed countries of Asia. For the period 1970 to 1990, the average annual growth rate of urban population was 6.5 per cent for Bangladesh, 3.4 per cent for India and 4.2 per cent for both Pakistan and Sri Lanka (Hugo, 1992). However, the urban growth rate is dominated mainly by rural-urban migration and it contributes between three-fifths to two-thirds of this growth (UN, 1993). Though the incidence of rural-urban migration in any developing country is higher, a distinct selectivity with respect to age, sex, caste, marital status, education, occupation etc., occurs and the propensity of migration differs significantly among these socio-economic groups (Lee, 1966; Sekhar, 1993; Yadava, 1988). Long rural development efforts neither could reverse the trend in rural-urban migration nor could it minimise uneven economic opportunities such as off-farm employment and earning (Robert and Smith, 1977).

Migration differentials have significant role in identifying the nature and strength of the socio-economic and demographic impacts of the population concerned. Many researchers have tried to establish some uniformly applicable migration patterns for all countries at all times. However, only migration by age has been found to be more or

URBAN OUT- MIGRATION Dr. Sunitha V Ganiger,2020-06-11 Introduction Migration is a multi faceted phenomenon which is of vital importance in the process of economic development man power planning urbanization and social change Rao M S B 1986 It is a pragmatic and a ubiquitous phenomena as through out the globe we find that migration is contributing to the socio economic development which enables man to overcome the tyranny of political social economic and psychological fluctuations of a region Like for instance the partition of India and Pakistan was one of the major catalysts for migration during late 1940 s when millions of persons abandoned this land and migrated to Pakistan and vice versa Similarly of late many Indian computer engineers are migrating to western countries thus leading to brain drain which is causing a severe menace of the millennium Since time immemorial man has been ruthlessly migrating from one place to another and nowadays because of the increased transportation and communication man is more agile Thus migration is entirely determined by the human yearning for the decision to move Individual migration also brings changes in the process of family formation and growth Once migration has occurred from the land of origin both the household and the local population must adapt to the loss or gain However the impact of an individual migration on the origin depends on the duration of absence and remittances returned David P L 1996 migration is one of the most important aspects of social sciences Throughout human history people have migrated to escape poverty and persecution and to improve their life chances and living standards Migration or more exactly mobility of some form is a universal experience and it is rare for anyone to spend his or her entire life within the boundaries of a single village or city ward and when this does occur it is more likely to be due to some physical or mental handicap than to choice Ronald 1997 On the whole different parts of the world have experienced different types of mobility caused by various socio economic conditions Since a better life and livelihood are at the root of the decision to migrate WHO 2006 As per World Bank statistics around 3 4 per cent of the world populations are living out of their countries of birth constituting more than 247 million migrant population World Bank 2016

Tribal Migration Yashwant Govind Joshi, 1997 Study conducted at Jh bua district of Madhya Pradesh

In Search of Livelihood Yashwant Govind Joshi, D. K. Verma, 2004 Migration studies have been a domain of sociologists economists and geographers alike However interdisciplinary studies are few Based on the empirical data covering 1498 households from 100 sample villages this interdisciplinary study analyses the quantum nature and direction of seasonal labour migration from Chhattisgarh together with its effects on the society in general and the family of the migrants in particular Seasonal labour out migration is today a regional character of the area involving nearly a million population which barring few southern states moves nearly to all parts of the country The labour migration from this area can not be categorized as development migration based on maximization of the profit but is a part of household survival strategy of the marginal farmers and land less workers who are unable to find work locally from December to June Nevertheless migrating out for work has become an essential component of household economy for a large section of poor population and therefore it is necessary to change the attitude of both the media and administration towards migration which is erroneous called as palayan The study is quite comprehensive and analytical The recommendations are based on grass root realities necessitating the role of the state to act as facilitator to enable the workers to have a better deal and to reduce the problems faced by them Besides providing deep insight into this phenomena in the present context the study will be useful to various agencies involved in regional planning and human resource development Indian Book Industry ,1986 Third Survey of Research in Sociology and Social Anthropology ,2000 Coverage for years 1980 1987 Rural Demography ,1980 Recent Advancement in Geographical Research Jayanta Das,Asraful Alam,2025-09-26 Geographical studies have undergone significant developments in recent times offering new and exciting avenues for exploration The proceeding of the International Seminar on Recent Advancement in Geographical Research Instances from India offers a comprehensive exploration of the latest developments in the field of geography These proceedings encompass a wide spectrum of topics insights and methodologies from both physical and human geography demonstrating the multidimensional nature of the field The first part of the proceeding Recent Advancements in Physical Geography deals with the evolving landscape of physical geography emphasizing technological and scientific advancements Notable chapters include research on environmental degradation assessment sustainable agriculture through geospatial analysis groundwater potential mapping innovation management in natural risk prevention and the analysis of land use and land cover changes Cutting edge techniques and technologies such as remote sensing and machine learning underpin these investigations The second part Recent Advancements in Human Geography focuses on human geography exploring the intricate relationships between human societies and their environments Chapters encompass a wide array of topics including migration s impact on agriculture household food security and urbanization s effect on wetland ecosystems the dynamics of urban growth and sustainable tourism and destination loyalty These investigations reveal the social economic and cultural dimensions of geography and provide insights into contemporary challenges and opportunities in the field These proceedings represent the collective efforts of researchers practitioners and students who are pushing the boundaries of geographical knowledge Together they contribute to our understanding of the world s complex dynamics providing valuable insights for addressing real world challenges and fostering sustainable development Rural Migration In Developing Nations Calvin Goldscheider,2019-07-11 What is the relationship between migration and rural social structure How does the selective movement out of rural areas affect the economic and social conditions of migrants their families and their places of origin Addressing these and other questions the contributors to this book consider rural migration patterns in
