mother together with the knowledge and critique she has garnered through her studies. She offers insight on the core questions of motherhood: what it means to be a good mother, the role of mothers in the family and in society, and how motherhood has been redefined throughout time. Kinser examines how the changing world of motherhood fits into feminist activism and speculates on the future directions of these identities.

Matricentric Feminism: Theory, Activism, Practice. The 2nd Edition Andrea O'Reilly, 2021-04-04. The 2nd edition includes a new preface that considers how matricentric feminism in positioning mothering as a verb affords a gender neutral understanding of motherwork and allows for an appreciation of how motherwork is deeply gendered and how this may be challenged and changed through empowered mothering. The book argues that the category of mother is distinct from the category of woman and that many of the problems mothers face are specific to women's role and identity as mothers. Indeed, mothers are oppressed under patriarchy as women and as mothers. Consequently, mothers need a feminism of their own—one that positions mothers' concerns as the starting point for a theory and politics of empowerment. O'Reilly terms this new mode of feminism matricentric feminism, and the book explores how it is represented and experienced in theory, activism, and practice.

Embodying the Problem Jenna Vinson, 2017-12-11 The dominant narrative of teen pregnancy persuades many people to believe that a teenage pregnancy always leads to devastating consequences for a young woman her child and the nation in which they reside Jenna Vinson draws on feminist and rhetorical theory to explore how pregnant and mothering teens are represented as problems in U S newspapers political discourses and teenage pregnancy prevention campaigns since the 1970s Vinson shows that these representations prevent a focus on the underlying structures of inequality and poverty perpetuate harmful discourses about women and sustain racialized gender ideologies that construct women s bodies as sites of national intervention and control Embodying the Problem also explores how young mothers resist this narrative Analyzing fifty narratives written by young mothers the recent NoTeenShame social media campaign and her interviews with thirty three young women Vinson argues that while the stigmatization of teenage pregnancy and motherhood does dehumanize young pregnant and mothering women it is at the same time a means for these women to secure an audience for their own messages More information on the author s website <https://jennavinson.com>
