Politics of Anxiety Emmy Eklundh, Andreja Zevnik, Emmanuel-Pierre Guittet, 2017-04-26 From the threats posed by austerity and the fears around global migration to the unsettled notion of resistance our political world is permeated with anxieties But what does this mean for our everyday lived political experience Do governments provoke or encourage a sense of anxiety as a form of control and power How do citizens react to comply with or resist this sense of anxiety This book interrogates the different faces of anxiety and provides a systematic engagement with its different manifestations It uses different disciplinary approaches and methodologies to study political and social phenomena in order to paint a picture of the impact of anxiety and how it governs and mobilises individuals The key strength of these contributions comes from their theoretically informed analysis of empirical problems Moving beyond the concept of the risk society and the recurrence of cyclical capitalist crises this book challenges the notion of the status quo to consider urges and desires for political change By highlighting that anxiety is different from fear the book examines new implications for the study of political events protest politics and social movements led by a group of women the Mothers who were inadvertently drawn into South Korea s democratization movement from the 1970s to the 2000s The Mothers were female family members of political dissidents of varying backgrounds and ages college students political and religious leaders writers and factory workers Women who initially had very little in common developed a bond as the days of their families detentions accumulated and their ordeals continued This led them to form a quasi organization prayer meeting group in the 1970s which eventually developed into permanent Mothers organizations in the mid 1980s The Mothers in this book include both the early and late comers to the movement as the membership has undergone many changes since its inception in the 1970s While the individual Mothers are the primary focus this book explores beyond their individual concerns and activities It discusses various methods the individual Mothers employed to promote their causes and attempts to study how the activities of the organizations founded by the inexperienced Mothers have affected the process of Korea s democratization and how they remain active decades later

Affirmative Advocacy Dara Z. Strolovitch,2008-09-15 The United States boasts scores of organizations that offer crucial representation for groups that are marginalized in national politics from women to racial minorities to the poor Here in the first systematic study of these organizations Dara Z Strolovitch explores the challenges and opportunities they face in the new millennium as waning legal discrimination coincides with increasing political and economic inequalities within the populations they represent Drawing on rich new data from a survey of 286 organizations and interviews with forty officials Strolovitch finds that groups too often prioritize the interests of their most advantaged members male rather than female racial minorities for example or affluent rather than poor women But Strolovitch also finds that many organizations try to remedy this inequity and she concludes by distilling their best practices into a set of principles that she calls affirmative advocacy a form of representation that aims to overcome the entrenched but often subtle biases against people at the intersection of more than one marginalized group Intelligently combining political theory with sophisticated empirical methods Affirmative Advocacy will be required reading for students and scholars of American politics
