Education, Privatisation and Social Justice Ian Macpherson, Susan Robertson, Geoffrey Walford, 2014-05-12 The involvement of private actors in education is not new yet in the last decade critical issues have arisen that demand close scrutiny This volume explores emerging forms of the private through case studies from Africa South Asia and South East Asia and makes three related observations First what is new about these manifestations is their scale scope and penetration into almost all aspects of the education endeavour from the administrative apparatus to policymaking and from formal provision in education settings to out of school activities such as private tutoring Second what is particularly controversial about these developments is how education itself is being recast as a sector it is increasingly being opened up to profit making and trade and to agenda setting by private commercial interests Third the learner is increasingly conceptualised as a consumer and education a consumer good The case studies therefore enable us to see more clearly how different forms of the private in education alter what is at stake for whom and with what outcomes and the consequences for individuals and societies In turn these raise the very important question about what they mean for our conceptualisations of education learning and teaching on the one hand and for education as a site and means for emancipation on the other These are profound social justice concerns and ones that make this volume distinctive This book sets out to address these hard but urgent questions and will be of interest to academics and students of education education researchers government personnel and policymakers

At what Cost Nicholas Freudenberg,2021 An incisive and powerful investigation of corporate impact on human and planetary well being Freedom of choice lies at the heart of American society Every day individuals decide what to eat which doctors to see who to connect with online and where to educate their children Yet many Americans don t realize that these choices are illusory at best By the start of the 21st century every major industrial sector in the global economy was controlled by no more than five transnational corporations and in about a third of these sectors a single company accounted for more than 40 percent of global sales The available options in food healthcare education transportation and even online presence are largely constructed by corporations whose sweeping influence have made them the public face and executive agents of 21st century capitalism At What Cost confronts how globalization financial speculation monopolies and control of science and technology have enhanced the ability of corporations and their allies to overwhelm influences of government family community and faith As corporations manipulate demand through skillful marketing and veto the choices that undermine their bottom line free consumer choice has all but disappeared and with it the personal protections guarding our collective health At What Cost argues that the world created by 21st century capitalism is simply not fit to solve our most serious public health problems from climate change to opioid addiction However author and public health expert Nicholas Freudenberg also shows that though the road is steep human and planetary well being constitute a powerful mobilizing idea for a new social movement one that will restore the power of individual voice to our democracy With impeccably detailed research and an eye towards a better future At What Cost arms ordinary citizens activists and health professionals with an understanding of how we ve arrived at the precipice and what we can do to ensure a healthier collective future

Planning for Technology Bruce M. Whitehead,Devon F. N. Jensen,Floyd Boschee,2013-09-20 Stay a step ahead of technological change so that every student can flourish Students and classrooms are growing more technologically savvy every semester which presents you with an essential choice Will you let these learning tools sit idle or will you unleash the power of technology for your students and staff The first edition of Planning for Technology created leaders who empowered students to master the technological tools now required for success

This second edition will prepare you for the coming decade when the pace of change will be much faster In addition to the core methods and exercises this book includes Revisions addressing essential digital developments of the past decade that school leaders must learn to utilize New content covering guidelines for addressing the new Common Core State Standards distributed leadership adult learning theory digital citizenship cybersecurity cloud computing and more A new chapter on creating a culture of technology that goes beyond user manuals to create responsible tech savvy students Technology is no longer optional it is a requirement for success in the 21st century Planning for Technology is the go to resource for ensuring your students thrive This book is about how to plan for technology promote it pay for it and take steps to ensure that it really is improving student achievement This book makes school administrators consider more thoughtfully how they are using technology for teaching and learning and why It helps the reader understand how to plan for and implement technology in a more effective way Patricia L Tucker Retired Regional Superintendent District of Columbia Public Schools DC The reflective activities at the end of every chapter prompt leaders to think about diverse areas they may have not thought about before Frances L O Reilly Assistant Professor of Educational Leadership The University of Montana Missoula Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature ,1922 Structuring Inequality Tracy L. Steffes,2024-04-02 As in many American cities inequality in Chicago and its suburbs is mappable across its neighborhoods Anyone driving west along Chicago Avenue from downtown can tell where Austin turns into Oak Park without looking at a map These borders are not natural of course they are carefully maintained through policies like zoning and school districting some neighborhoods even annex themselves into distinct municipalities In other words they are all policy decisions In Structuring Inequality historian Tracy Steffes explores how metropolitan inequality was structured contested and naturalized through public policy in the Chicagoland area especially through public education and state government This metropolitan inequality deepened even amid civil rights mobilizations and efforts to challenge racial discrimination and promote equal opportunity She argues that educational and metropolitan inequality were mutually constitutive unequal schools and unequal places cocreated and reinforced one another School districts not only reflected the characteristics and inequalities between places but they also played an active role in shaping those communities over time Throughout the Chicago metropolitan area school districts defined community in part by reinforcing or undermining racial and economic segregation Their perceived quality shaped the identity and value of the community and schooling and its costs could drive development decisions including what kind of property to allow and residents to attract Decisions about school construction student assignment and school support were often important components of development strategy By denaturalizing policy to explore the choices that have brought us here and looking at efforts to challenge them this history helps us understand the inequality we live with today and inspire us to change it
