Global Perspectives on Teacher Motivation Helen M. G. Watt, Paul W. Richardson, Kari Smith, 2017-09-08 Many studies of teacher motivation have been conducted in different contexts over time However until fairly recently there has not been a reliable measure available to allow comparisons across samples and settings This has resulted in an abundance of findings which cannot be directly compared or synthesised The FIT Choice instrument offers the opportunity to examine motivations across settings The various studies in this book suggest that people who choose teaching as a career are motivated by a complex interaction of factors embedded within communities and cultural expectations but seem generally to embrace a desire to undertake meaningful work that makes for a better society Unlike some careers where rewards are in the form of salary and status by and large these factors are not strong drivers for people who want to become teachers They want to work with children and adolescents and believe they have the ability to teach

Zelick, 2007 In psychology motivation refers to the initiation direction intensity and persistence of behaviour Motivation is a temporal and dynamic state that should not be confused with personality or emotion Motivation is having the desire and willingness to do something This book presents research in this field Critical Perspectives on Educational Policies and Professional Identities Richard Waller, Jane Andrews, Timothy Clark, 2024-06-04 The collection features the cutting edge work of 14 doctoral graduates from the University of the West of England UWE exploring the issue of education policy and its impact on professional identities including changing professional and policy contexts confronting doctoral candidates and their peers Motivation, Engagement and Educational Performance J. Elliott, N. Hufton, W. Willis, L. Illushin, 2005-08-17 Key factors that impact upon children s educational motivation and engagement are here considered from an international and comparative perspective Based upon a major programme of research undertaken in sites in England the USA and Russia the authors identify interrelated elements operating at international national and local levels These include children s self perceptions goals interests and aspirations curriculum and pedagogy peer and parental influences teacher perceptions school traditions and practices together with the pervasive influence of broader social cultural historical and economic factors The Central Government-Funded Teacher Education Policy in China Yi Liu, 2023-10-20 This book utilises expectancy value theory and undermining effect of extrinsic reward theory to examine the impact of the Central Government Funded Teacher Education CGFTE policy on Chinese pre service teachers motivations for choosing the teaching profession Quantitative data analysis revealed six distinct categories of motivations to teach teacher influence job advantages extrinsic social value altruistic personal interest intrinsic others suggestions and fallback career These categories were further exemplified in ten narrative stories The findings indicate that the CGFTE policy attracts high school graduates with higher intrinsic motivation to enrol in teacher training programs but it seems ineffective in increasing their intrinsic career choice motivation It is argued that the CGFTE policy which emphasises extrinsic benefits but limits professional development does not have a significant negative impact on pre service teachers motivation to choose teaching This conclusion is supported by the offsetting effects of the policy s restrictive and encouraging aspects as explained by expectancy value theory and the qualitative data Nevertheless the intrinsic motivation of policy funded pre service teachers did not improve as much as that of their self supported counterparts indicating potential undermining effects of the policy The study concludes by discussing the implications of these findings for enhancing the CGFTE policy teacher training and career education in China The book will be an essential read for students and scholars of higher education Chinese studies and educational studies in general Handbook of Motivation at School Kathryn R. Contemporary Perspectives on Research in Motivation in Early Childhood Education Olivia Saracho, 2019-03-01

Researchers from different disciplines e.g. physiological, psychological, philosophical have investigated motivation using multiple approaches. For example, in physiology, the scientific study of the normal function in living systems such as biology, researchers may use electrical and chemical stimulation of the brain, the recording of electrical brain wave activity with the electroencephalograph, and lesion techniques where a portion of the brain usually of a laboratory animal is destroyed and subsequent changes in motivation are noted. Petri Cofer 2017. Physiological studies mainly conducted with animals other than humans have revealed the significance of particular brain structures in the control of fundamental motives such as hunger, thirst, sex, aggression, and fear. In psychology, researchers may study the individual's behaviors to understand their actions. In sociology, researchers may examine how individual interactions influence their behavior. For instance, in the classroom, students and teachers behave in expected ways which may differ when they are outside the classroom. Saracho 2003 examined the student's academic achievement when they matched or mismatched their teacher's way of thinking. She identified both the teacher's and student's individual differences and defined consistencies in their cognitive processes. In philosophy, researchers can study the individual's theoretical position such as supporting Maslow's 1943 concept that motivation can create behaviors that augment motivation in the future. Abraham H. Maslow's theory of self-actualization supports this theoretical position. Petri Cofer 2017. These areas and others are represented in this volume. This volume is devoted to understanding mutual and contemporary themes in the individual's motivation and its relationship to cognition. The current literature covers several methods to the multifaceted relationships between motivational and cognitive processes. Comprehensive reviews of the literature focus on prominent cognitive perspectives on motivation with young children which includes ages from birth to eight years of age. The chapters in this special volume review and critically analyze the literature on several aspects of the relationships between motivational and cognitive processes and demonstrate the breadth and theoretical effectiveness of this domain. This brief introduction acknowledges the valuable contributions of these chapters to the study of human motivation. This volume can be a valuable tool to researchers who are conducting studies in the motivation field. It focuses on important contemporary issues on motivation in early childhood education, ages 0 to 8, to provide the information necessary to make judgments about these issues. It also motivates and guides researchers to explore gaps in the motivation literature.

The Sociology of Assessment: Comparative and Policy Perspectives Patricia Broadfoot, 2021-01-26 In the World Library of Educationalists series, international experts themselves compile career-long collections of what they judge to be their finest pieces, extracts from books, key articles, salient research findings, major theoretical and practical contributions, so the world can read them in a single manageable volume. Readers will be able to follow the themes and strands and see how their work contributes to the development of the field. In a collection of her most influential work spanning nearly four decades, Patricia Broadfoot applies her trademark sociological and comparative perspective to empirical studies at every level of the educational system. From her classic long-term study of the impact of changing national assessment policies on pupils and teachers in the classrooms of England and France to her sustained championship of the need for a better understanding of the impact of assessment on learning, Broadfoot has consistently championed the need for a more developed sociological understanding of assessment.
