NW Zadie Smith, 2012-09-04 Twenty first century London rich and poor black and white joyful and melancholy boring and deviant occasionally lethal Somewhere in the northwest of the city stands the Caldwell housing estate a relic of 70s urban planning Leah an administrator for the lottery grew up there So did her best friend Natalie now a barrister and Felix an MG car mechanic Thirty years later these Caldwell kids and their partners live only a few streets apart yet inhabit separate worlds Until the day a desperate local woman comes to Leah's door seeking help and forces Leah out of her isolation But is Shar a stranger or a friend Sincere or a fraud A connection to the past or a threat to the future From private dinner tables to public parks at work and at play in this delicate but devastating novel of encounters Zadie Smith's Londoners find themselves navigating an increasingly atomized society For some the city remains a place of happy accidents and chance good fortune while for others it is darker terrain in which the main streets hide the back alleys and taking the high road can sometimes lead to a dead end NW brilliantly depicts this modern urban zone familiar to city dwellers everywhere in a tragicomic novel as mercurial as the city itself year or this decade A N Wilson Absolutely brilliant So electrically authentic Time Captivating Funny sexy weird full of acute social comedy She s up there with the best around Evening Standard Marvellous crackles with reflections on race music and migration A lyrical fiction for our times Spectator Undeniably brilliant rush out and buy this book Observer Topothesia Ameeth Vijay,2023-05-02 SHORTLISTED 2024 MSA FIRST BOOK PRIZE Topothesia reads urban planning as a mode of speculative fiction one inextricably linked to histories of British colonialism and liberalism through a particular understanding of place The book focuses on town planning from the late nineteenth century to the present day showing how the contemporary geography of Britain sharply unequal and marked by racial division continues ideologies of place established in colonial contexts Specifically planning allows for the speculative construction of future places that are both utopian in their ability to resolve political disagreement and at the same tantalizingly realizable able to be produced in concrete reality This speculative imaginary I argue is only possible within the ideological framework of colonialism and the history of empire within which it developed Topothesia refers to a rhetorical device employing the vivid depiction of an often imaginary place This device Vijay shows helps us understand urban planning as a narrative genre one that even in its most mundane documents is compelled to produce elaborate fantasies of future places The book examines specific planning movements over time to understand the form and the stakes of their speculative worlds In building these worlds the book shows planners continually coopted literary critiques of the present and reveries of the future retaining literature s aesthetics while eschewing its politics At the same time Vijay shows writers and artists have dwelled within and against these colonial imaginaries to seek other means of representing place This is the Canon Joan Anim-Addo,Deirdre Osborne,Kadija Sesay,2021-10-28 A vital and timely introduction to some of the best books I ve ever read Perfectly curated and filled with brilliant literature Nikesh Shukla The ultimate introduction to post colonial literature for those who want to understand the classics and the pioneers in this exciting area of books Symeon Brown These are the books you should read This is the canon Joan Anim Addo Deirdre Osborne and Kadija Sesay have curated a decolonized reading list that celebrates the wide and diverse experiences of people from around the world of all backgrounds and all races It disrupts the all too often white dominated required reading collections that have become the accepted norm and highlights powerful voices and cultural perspectives that demand a place on our shelves From literary giants such as Toni Morrison and Chinua Achebe to less well known but equally vital writers such as Caribbean novelist Earl Lovelace or Indigenous Australian author Tony Birch the novels recommended here are in turn haunting and lyrical innovative and inspiring edgy and poignant The power of great fiction is that readers have the opportunity to discover new worlds and encounter other beliefs and opinions This is the Canon offers a rich and multifaceted perspective on our past present and future which deserves to be read by all bibliophiles whether they are book club members or solitary readers self educators or teachers Textual and Contextual Voices of Translation Cecilia Alvstad,Annjo K. Greenall,Hanne Jansen,Kristiina Taivalkoski-Shilov,2017-10-15 The notion of voice has been used in a number of ways within Translation Studies Against the backdrop of these different uses this book looks at the voices of translators authors publishers editors and readers both in the translations themselves and in the texts that surround these translations The various authors go on a hunt for translational agents voice imprints in a variety of textual and contextual material such as literary and non literary translations book reviews newspaper articles academic texts and e mails While all stick to the principle of studying text and context together the different contributions also demonstrate how specific textual and contextual circumstances require adapted methodological solutions ending up in a collection that takes steps in a joint direction but that is at the same time complex and pluralistic The book is intended for scholars and students of contemporary cosmopolitan character's urban mobility and wandering consciousness in interaction with the global and the local Posthuman cosmopolitanism also extends the meaning of cosmopolitan which comes to embrace the nonhuman alongside the human element Defining narrative glocality political hyper awareness and narrative immediacy the book thoroughly explores how cosmopolitan narration forges direct responses to the contemporary world in postmillennial cosmopolitan novels All of these concepts are elaborated in Ian McEwan's Saturday 2005 Zadie Smith's NW 2012 Salman Rushdie's The Golden House 2017 and Kazuo Ishiguro's Klara and the Sun 2021 to which world engagement is central

Criminal Cities Molly Slavin, 2023-05-24 Why does crime feature at the center of so many postcolonial novels set in major cities This book interrogates the connections that can be found between narratives of crime cities and colonialism to bring to light the ramifications of this literary preoccupation as well as possibilities for cultural aesthetic and political catharsis Examining late twentieth and twenty first century novels set in London Belfast Mumbai Sydney Johannesburg Nairobi and urban areas in the Palestinian West Bank Criminal Cities considers the marks left by neocolonialism and imperialism on the structures institutions and cartographies of twenty first century cities Molly Slavin suggests that literary depictions of urban crime can offer unique capabilities for literary characters as well as readers to process and negotiate that lingering colonial violence while also providing avenues for justice and forms of reparations

Postmodern Literature and Race Len Platt, Sara Upstone, 2015-02-19 Postmodernism Literature and Race explores the question of how dramatic shifts in conceptions of race in the late twentieth and early twenty first centuries have been addressed by writers at the cutting edge of equally dramatic transformations of literary form An opening section engages with the broad question of how the geographical and political positioning of experimental writing informs its contribution to racial discourses while later segments focus on central critical domains within this field race and performativity race and the contemporary nation and postracial futures With essays on a wide range of contemporary writers including Bernadine Evaristo Alasdair Gray Jhumpa Lahiri Andrea Levy and Don DeLillo this volume makes an important contribution to our understanding of the politics and aesthetics of contemporary writing

Post millennial writings function as a useful prism through which we can understand contemporary English culture and its compulsion to revisit the immediate past The critical practice of hauntology turns to the past in order to make sense of the present to understand how we got to this place and how to build a better future Since the Year 2000 popular culture has been inundated with representations of those who occupy a space between being and non being and defy ontological criteria This Pivot explores a range of contemporary English literatures from the poetry of Simon Armitage and the drama of Jez Butterworth to the fiction of Zadie Smith and the stories of David Peace that collectively unite to represent a twenty first century world full of specters reminiscence and representations of spectral encounters These specters become visible and significant as they interact with a range of social political and economic discourses that continue to speak to the contemporary period The enduring fascination with the spectral offers valuable insights into a contemporary English culture in which spectral manifestations signal towards larger social anxieties as well as to specific historical events and recurrent cultural preoccupations The specter confronts the contemporary with the necessity of participation encouraging the realisation that we must engage with it in order to create meaning Narrative agency is the primary motivating force of its return and the repetition of the specter functions to highlight new meanings and perspectives Harnessing hauntology as a lens through which to consider the specters haunting twenty first century English writings this Pivot examines the emergence of a vein of hauntological literature that profiles the pervasive presence of the past in our new millennium
