Occupying Subjectivity Being And Becoming Radical In The 21st Century:

Occupying Subjectivity Chris Rossdale, 2017-10-02 This book explores a variety of forms of radical political subjectivity. It takes its cue from the 2011 uprisings in the Middle East and North Africa, the Occupy Movement and the European Anti Austerity Movement alongside the wider opposition to authoritarian and neoliberal forms of governance from which they sprang in order to ask an urgent series of questions about the subject of radical politics: Who or what is it that engages in resistance? Who or what should they be? And how are we to negotiate the many complexities of that second question? The contributions, drawing on a wide range of theoretical traditions, offer a rich series of provocations towards new ways of conceptualising, evaluating and imagining radical political praxis. They engage different kinds of subjects including protestors, dancers, self-burners, academics, settlers and humans in order to think through the ways in which contemporary subjects are constituted within and work to unsettle dominant relations of power. Together, the chapters open up spaces to think about how political and intellectual commitment to social change can be enlivened through attention to the subject of radical politics. This book was published as a special issue of Globalizations. Lacan, Deleuze and World Politics Andreja Zevnik, 2016-02-26 This book aims to re-think the way in which the subject is inscribed in the modern political and does so by exploring the potentiality of Lacan's Deleuzian theoretical framework. It concerns a different ontology and a non-dualist understanding of political and legal existence by focusing on questions such as how to think alternative notions of political existence and what kind of political, social and legal order do these come to create. This investigation into political appearance of subjects through concepts of law, body and life is led and influenced by the thought of Gilles Deleuze and Jacques Lacan as well as Alain Badiou, Antonio Negri and Slavoj Žižek. The book takes on various conceptualisations of life, explores the relationship between law and life and develops an alternative notion of legal and political existence in particular in the context of rights. On the back of Guantanamo's legal and political discourses, this work aims to show why and how the problems of world politics or the limitations of human rights discourse require an engagement with questions such as what it means to exist as a human being, what forms of life are politically recognised, which are not, and why this distinction. By pointing to a different ontology for thinking and understanding global politics and demonstrating how a trans-disciplinary and philosophical approach can foster the debates in world politics, this book will be of interest to postgraduates and scholars working on critical normative ideas in international politics, critical security studies and critical legal studies. The New Global Politics Harry E. Vanden, Peter N. Funke, Gary Prevost, 2017-03-16 Over the past decade there has been an unprecedented mobilization of street protests worldwide from the demonstrations that helped bring progressive governments to power in Latin America to the Arab Spring to Occupy movements in the United States and Europe to democracy protests in China. This edited volume investigates the current status, nature and dynamics of the new politics that characterizes social movements from around the world that are part of this revolutionary wave. Spanning case studies from Latin America, North and South Africa the Middle East Asia Europe and North America this volume examines the varied manifestations of the current cycle of protest which emerged from the Global South and spread to the North and highlights their interconnections the globalized nature of these social movements Analytically converging around Sidney Tarrow s emphasis on protest cycles political opportunity structures and identity the individual chapters investigate processes such as global framing internationalization diffusion scale shifts externalizations and transnational coalition building to provide an analytic cartography of the current state of social movements as they are simultaneously globalizing while still being embedded in their respective localities Looking at new ways of thinking and new forms of challenging power this comprehensive volume will be of great interest to graduates and scholars in the fields of globalization social movements and international politics

Time, Globalization and Human Experience Paul Huebener, Susie O'Brien, Tony Porter, Liam Stockdale, Yanqiu Rachel Zhou, 2016-11-03 This edited volume focuses on the intersection of time and globalization as manifested across a variety of economic political cultural and environmental contexts Since David Harvey s influential characterization of globalization as time space compression ample research has looked at the spatial aspect of the phenomenon yet few have focused on globalization s temporal aspects Meanwhile other publications have analysed problems of speed acceleration and the commodification of time but while it often serves as the implicit or explicit backdrop for these studies of time globalization is not investigated as a problem or a question in its own right In response this volume develops these conversations to consider how time shapes globalization and how globalization affects our experience of time The interplay between varying aspects of the human experiences of time and globalization requires the type of interdisciplinary approach that this volume takes The contributors advance an understanding of global time s as an arena of contestation with social political ecological and cultural implications for human and other lives In considering the diverse valences of time and globalization they illuminate problems as well as possibilities Topics covered include emerging infectious diseases temporal sovereignty worker exploitation and resistance chronobiology energy politics activism and hope and literary and cinematic representations of counter temporalities offering a rich and varied account of global times This volume will be of great interest to students and researchers from a range of disciplines including anthropology cultural studies globalization international relations literary studies political science social theory and sociology

Environmental Security in Transnational Contexts Harlan Koff, Carmen Maganda, 2019-10-23 Much of the discussion surrounding the definition of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and the post 2015 global development agenda has contextualized sustainable development within the framework of transformation specifically prioritizing concepts such as equity security justice and rights While these debates correctly discussed power imbalances and relational obstacles to human development they have remained abstract because they focused only on the international level In this regard discussions have not adequately examined mechanisms that facilitate or block the emergence of sustainable development as a political priority nor do they address specific policy proposals to link environmental justice to human development strategies This book contends that human and environmental security should be framed in terms of transnational discussions rather than being limited to general international debates in order to examine both governance challenges and potential policy mechanisms that can effectively address environmental security issues that cross national boundaries The chapters in this volume undertake an empirical examination of the relationships between human and environmental security cross border exchanges and regional integration They address the relationships between international norms transnational human and environmental security issues and the regionalization of governance in different parts of the world as the book includes comparative analyses as well as case studies from Europe Asia and the Americas The chapters originally published as a special issue in Globalizations

Global Justice and Resource Curse

Frank Aragbonfoh Abumere, 2021-08-12 This book explores whether any theory alone is sufficiently capable of resolving the complexity of global justice arguing that a combination of statism and cosmopolitanism is needed In current times xenophobia nationalism and populism have amplified othering in both domestic and international politics In global justice the dichotomy between the polis and the cosmopolis separates statism from cosmopolitanism Using resource curse as a complex case of global justice the author demonstrates how neither statism nor cosmopolitanism alone are sufficient but goes on to argue that a combination of the two theories is simultaneously necessary and sufficient to resolve the complexity of global justice He demonstrates how statism is primarily applied to the institutional dimensions of resource curse and only secondarily applied to the interactional dimensions while cosmopolitanism is applied to the interactional dimensions but only secondarily applied to the institutional dimensions and therefore a combination of both theories is needed to resolve the problem of resource curse using the strength of the former to compensate for the weakness of the latter and vice versa Global justice is widely taught and researched as one of the most important areas in political philosophy and political theory This book will be of great interest to students and researchers philosophers and political scientists of African politics political theory political philosophy international relations and international development

The Politics of Destination in the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals

Clive Gabay, Suzan Ilcan, 2018-08-13 This book represents an unusual intervention in debates about the nature of contemporary international development where the majority of scholarship tends to concern itself with measuring or collating goal performance Through a series of analyses of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals this book explores development as a political construct and is concerned with the kinds of epistemological hegemonic or politico economic assumptions built into contemporary development policy and the ensuing effectiveness the SDGs will have in terms of addressing or perpetuating the historical impoverishment of large groups of people living in poverty The contributors to the book take issue with many of the assumptions upon which SDGs rest while also broadening the conversation to pay attention to knowledge production modernity colonialism exclusion citizenship and other conceptual insights In this context the book raises questions about the discourses and practices of the SDGs especially in relation to how they can define the limits of what can be said and what can be done shape development logics through notions of division and forms of exclusion construct political problems as technical problems create certain spaces of imagination as a field of activity and endorse particular ideas and forms of knowledge in models for sustainable development This book was originally published as a special issue of Globalizations Localization in Development Aid Thorsten Bonacker, Judith von Heusinger, Kerstin Zimmer, 2016-11-25 This edited volume brings together the work of scholars from different disciplines including sociology political science and anthropology and analyses how global institutions are embedded in local contexts within development aid It examines theoretical and empirical implications of the diffusion and anchoring of world polity institutions at the local and global levels The volume furthers the understanding of the dynamics of norm negotiation and glocalization processes in culturally varied societies in an era of globalization Themes and topics covered include children and human rights gender mainstreaming multi level actor partnerships anti corruption programming local ownership land rights and corporate social responsibility Bringing together expert contributors this comprehensive volume will be an invaluable resource for all scholars of localization and globalization studies as well as those in the field of international relations The Politics of Food Sovereignty Annie Shattuck, Christina Schiavoni, Zoe VanGelder, 2018-07-26 Food sovereignty has been a fundamentally contested concept in global agrarian discourse over the last two decades as a political project and campaign an alternative a social movement and an analytical framework It has inspired and mobilized diverse publics workers scholars and public intellectuals farmers and peasant movements NGOs and human rights activists in the global North and South The term food sovereignty has become a challenging subject for social science research and has been interpreted and reinterpreted in a variety of ways It is broadly defined as the right of peoples to democratically control or determine the shape of their food system and to produce sufficient and healthy food in culturally appropriate and ecologically sustainable ways in and near their territory However various theoretical issues remain sovereignty at what scale and for whom How are sovereignties contested What is the relationship between food sovereignty and human rights frameworks What might food sovereignty mean extended to a broader set of social relations in urban contexts How do the principles of food sovereignty interact with local histories and contexts This comprehensive volume examines what food sovereignty might mean how it might be variously construed and what policies it implies This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Globalizations Globalization and Global Citizenship Irene Langran, Tammy Birk, 2016-06-10 Globalization and Global Citizenship examines the meaning and realities of global citizenship as a manifestation of recent trends in globalization In an interdisciplinary approach the chapters outline and analyse the most significant dimensions of global citizenship including transnational historical and cultural variations in its practice foreign and domestic policy influences and its impact on personal identities The contributions ask and explore questions that are of immediate relevance for today s scholars including How does globalization in its current form present a new set of challenges for states non state actors and individual citizens How has globalization diminished expanded or complicated notions of citizenship What rights could exist outside the context of state sovereignty How can social accountability be imagined beyond the borders of towns cities or states What forms of political representational legitimacy could be productive on the global level When is it useful possible or desirable for individuals to identify with global political communities Drawing together a broad range of contributors and cutting edge research the volume offers chapters that seek to reflect the full spectrum of approaches and topics providing a valuable resource which highlights the value of an extended and thoughtful study of the idea and practice of global citizenship within a broader consideration of the processes of globalization It will be of great use to graduates and scholars of international relations sociology and global studies affairs as well as globalization

Brexit and the Political Economy of Fragmentation Jamie Morgan, Heikki Patomäki, 2018-12-07 Brexit means Brexit and other meaningless mantras have simply confirmed that confusion and uncertainty have dominated the early stages of this era defining event Though there has been a lack of coherent and substantive policy goals from the UK government this does not prevent analysis of the various causes of Brexit and the likely constraints on and consequences of the various forms Brexit might take Is Brexit a last gasp of neoliberalism in decline Is it a signal of the demise of the EU Is it possible that the UK electorate will get what they thought they voted for and what was that Will a populist agenda run foul of economic and political reality What chance for the UK of a brave new world of bespoke trade treaties straddling a post geography world Is the UK set to become a Singapore lite tax haven What is the difference between a UK centric and a UK centred point of view on Brexit Will Brexit augment disintegrative tendencies in the European and world economy These are some of the questions explored in this timely set of essays penned by some of the best known names in political economy and international political economy The chapters in this book originally published as a special issue in Globalizations

The Role of Religion in Struggles for Global Justice Peter J. Smith, Katharina Glaab, Claudia Baumgart-Ochse, Elizabeth Smythe, 2019-10-23 Struggles for global justice are being fought by civil society groups across the globe addressing global inequalities challenging neoliberal market driven globalization and demanding to remedy its negative implications This book examines the roles religious communities and organizations in particular play in the struggles for global justice roles too often ignored by scholars of the Global Justice Movement GJM It has two central themes the role religion and religious actors play in global justice struggles and the idea that justice is a contested concept among both religious and secular actors which requires some sort of faith from its proponents These chapters transcend simplistic either/or binaries highlighting the difficulties of clearly distinguishing between religious and secular progressive and conservative or rational and irrational motives and norms in struggles for justice Challenging the secularization paradigm that marginalizes the role religious actors play in public life these chapters show how these actors engage with a broad range of justice issues how deeply contested justice is and how its meaning may vary and change among religious actors as a result of the social or political context within
