O Bon In Chimunesu A Community Remembered:

O-bon in Chimunesu Catherine Lang, 2002-07-01 O Bon in Chimunesu A Community Remembered is a moving tribute to a community of Japanese Canadians and the way they lived their lives Prior to the Second World War when Canada's official policy of internment changed the lives of Japanese Canadians forever the Vancouver Island town of Chemainus Chimunesu was home to a thriving Japanese Canadian community whose members struggled to adapt to the difficulties of life in a new country while at the same time keeping their own traditions alive During the war Japanese Canadians on the west coast were shunted off to internment camps in the British Columbia interior and were not permitted to return until 1949 Most decided to take up new roots elsewhere and what had been a significant community in Chemainus was relegated to memory Catherine Lang was a freelance reporter working on a story when she attended a 1991 reunion of Chemainus former Japanese Canadian community The reunion occurred during O bon the annual Buddhist festival for the dead in which burning candles light the way for the souls of ancestors Lang couldn't resist such a meaningful encounter with living history O Bon in Chimunesu consists of poignant personal narratives of former residents of Chemainus Japanese Canadian community They include the stories of Shige Yoshida who after being refused entry into the Boy Scouts formed his own troop made up entirely of Japanese boys Matsue Taniwa who moved to Chemainus after an arranged marriage to raise children and tend a store and Kaname Izumi who remembers as a boy throwing candy from his boat to the children at the Native residential school on Kuper Island Winner of the Hubert Evans Non Fiction Prize Banana Bending Tseen-ling Khoo, 2003-06-01 This is the first book ever to present a comparative reading of East Asian Australian and East Asian Canadian novels while addressing the literary and political cultures of Australia and Canada Generally the book examines the limits and possibilities for these diasporic literatures in multicultural societies and their placement in relation to national literatures Issues discussed in the book include citizenship belonging community images of suburbia tensions in gender sexuality and recycling traditional folklore for contemporary situations The book offers new perspectives on Australian and Canadian life and society addressing contemporary anxieties about citizenship cohesion in multicultural communities ideas of homeland and the cultural potential of the melting pot The author offers extensive background information so that those unfamiliar with either Australian or Canadian material can quickly acquaint themselves with the necessary contexts as well as delving further into their details Its comparative approach offers a unique way to deal with issues of diasporic asian ness a dynamic area of study and national stereotypes The book also provides a useful counter point to recent discussions of Asian American literature Tseen Khoo offers a fascinating and insightful study of the politics and poetics of literary production by Asian Australian and Asian Canadian writers and image makers The comparative methodology including the contrasts made to the Asian American context usefully resituates debates about nationalism cultural policies and diasporic histories away from narrow nationalist frameworks to afford a more global perspective Jacqueline Lo School of Humanities Australian National University This is an original and timely contribution to debates in diasporic Asian literatures The author knows her Australian material extremely well and situates these within important and very relevant discussions concerning both cultural and political issues The comparisons with Canada and to some degree Asian American material are also very well informed Overall the book is a pleasure to read Professor Sneja Gunew Professor of English and Women s Studies University of British Columbia One Hundred Years' History of the Chinese in Singapore Ong Siang Song, 1923 Remembering Kakaako, 1910-1950 University of Hawaii at Manoa.
