The New I Do Susan Pease Gadoua, Vicki Larson, 2014-09-23 If half of all cars bought in America each year broke down there would be a national uproar But when people suggest that maybe every single marriage doesn't look like the next and isn't meant to last until death there's nothing but a rash of proposed laws trying to force it to do just that In The New I Do therapist Susan Pease Gadoua and journalist Vicki Larson take a groundbreaking look at the modern shape of marriage to help readers open their minds to marrying more consciously and creatively Offering actual models of less traditional marriages including everything from a parenting marriage intended for the sake of raising and nurturing children to a comfort or safety marriage where people marry for financial security or companionship the book covers unique options for couples interested in forging their own paths With advice to help listeners decide what works for them The New I Do acts as a guide to thinking outside the marital box and the framework for a new debate on marriage in the 21st century No

Country for Old Maids? Hannah August,2015-08-07 Hannah August's intelligent and humane study illuminates sometimes uncomfortably the ways in which our demographics are changing and our attitudes are not. This is public intellection that is curious, rigorous, and highly relevant to our time. Eleanor Catton. In 2013 there were over 66,000 more women between the ages of 25-49 living in New Zealand than there were men. This so-called man drought is a hot topic for journalists and academics alike who comment on how the situation might affect New Zealand women's chances of finding love. Yet they rarely stop to ask women their own opinions on the matter. In this BWB Text, Hannah August does just that: integrating interview material, statistics, and cultural commentary in order to demonstrate why we need to talk differently about the man drought.

Polyamorous Elders Kathy Labriola,2022-11-08 This book explores the unique group of elders, ages fifty-five and older, who practice some form of consensual nonmonogamy. It covers both the joys and challenges of multiple relationships for elders and explores how their relationships develop and evolve. Polyamorous elders have the complexities of juggling multiple relationships as well as navigating all the issues of aging: managing medical conditions and disabilities, their own and or their partners; assuming caregiving responsibilities for aging relatives; grieving the deaths of parents, siblings, and partners; retiring from careers and starting new lives, and potentially moving into some form of senior living. Drawing from her extensive clinical and personal experience working with this population, Kathy Labriola provides anecdotes from polyamorous elders' lives, including the constellation of relationships surrounding each individual couple or triad. This guide will help health care and mental health clinicians, researchers, and professionals, as well as polyamorous elders and their loved ones, better understand the concerns and diverse lifestyles of this population to better represent and support them.

Designer Relationships Mark Michaels,2015-09-08 Contemporary relationships are in a state of rapid evolution. These changes can and should empower people with the opportunity to develop partnerships based on their own sexualities, understandings, and agreements. This makes it possible to create what Kenneth Haslam, founder of the Kinsey Institute's Polyamory Archive, has called designer relationships. Designer relationships may encompass people who bond emotionally but not sexually; people who agree to be non-exclusive; single people who have occasional lovers or friends with benefits; multiple partner configurations where long-term bonds exist among all or some partnerships in which people are kinky and that make room to explore kink. The possibilities are limitless, and thinking about a partnership as something people can craft allows for flexibility and change. Relationships can open and close or have varying degrees and kinds of openness as circumstances demand In the context of a designer relationship decisions are made mutually consciously and deliberately Best selling authors and nationally known relationship experts Patricia Johnson and Mark A Michaels are exemplars of this life choice and have studied polyamory for over 20 years This book explains exactly how you and your loved ones can design your own life and love A Clinician's Guide to Systemic Sex Therapy Nancy Gambescia, Gerald R. especially if their relationships contradict the preconceived institutional notions of marriage and the family Improvement in visualizing families of various types and complexities can make affinographs an important new method that can bring together the theory research and application across varied disciplines that comprise family sciences
