

$$R(R_A) = R_A + (D/V)(R_A - R_F) = R_A - (D/V)(R_A - R_F)$$

where R_A = the return on assets, R_F = the return on the risk-free security, D = the value of the firm's debt, and V = the value of the firm's equity.

Equation (11.1) shows that the return on the firm's equity is equal to the return on the firm's assets minus the return on the firm's debt.

Chew,2025-02-18 Why did the stagflation of the 1970s the improbable combination of high unemployment and runaway inflation prove so painful and protracted What explains the U S stock market s remarkable forty year run of 12 percent average annual returns since then Why is Japan still mired in a decades long recession and the Chinese economy in a tailspin And what accounts for the resilience of U S stock and labor markets in the wake of the COVID 19 pandemic and in the face of the Fed s record interest rate hikes Donald H Chew Jr argues that answers to these questions lie in the principles and methods of modern corporate finance Ideas formulated and tested by finance scholars notably an efficient stock market in which prices reflect the long run values of public companies and a market for corporate control that exerts continuous pressure on management informed and spurred the investor driven capitalism that has created the world's most productive and valuable companies. Drawing on his career long relationships with leading academics and practitioners, Chew profiles key figures in the development of modern corporate finance while emphasizing their counterintuitive lessons for shareholders, companies, and countries. Lively and provocative, this book makes corporate finance approachable and even admirable for readers interested in how the success and failure of companies affect their lives.

The Lunacy of Modern Finance Theory and Regulation Les Coleman,2014-08-01 This provocative book provides insight into a finance industry that is run for the benefit of banks and service providers who rely on Beatles era theories and regulation which are totally unsuited to the modern world The author has a near unique perspective based on over 30 years of working literally around the globe for corporates fund managers and as finance academic In his last role his research has focused on investment decisions and during 2012 he interviewed 34 fund managers in Istanbul London New York and Melbourne He blends rich understanding of finance theory and practice to unravel the investment industry's structure and show how banks and other finance institutions privilege themselves at investors' expense The book highlights that finance industry self regulation is weak Risks from inexperience theft bad data and other sources are high Regulation of the industry appears to be ineffectual with the setting of such a high bar that it is virtually impossible to successfully prosecute even the most blatant and egregious offenders The book closes with the simple suggestion that corporations' regulations be altered to introduce the strict liability offence of being a director or officer of a large bank that becomes bankrupt This follows the strategy of legislation that has been effective in cleaning up the environment making workplaces safer and reducing crime by punishing those responsible for an offence
