Casarjian, Ph.D., Diane H. Dillon, Ph.D., 2007-12-18 Mommy Mantras are phrases you can say in your head or out loud if you need to during those trying moments of mothering They act to empower you revive you and remind you that there is always another way to see your situation Buddhist inspired and psychologically grounded these snippets of wisdom come through entertaining and universal stories of unpredictable life with children Here are a few examples of how a mantra can help you control your reactions to those mothering circumstances largely out of your control When it seems like everyone else s children are better behaved and doesn t it always feel that way you can remind yourself to narrow your focus or stop comparing your children to others which is only bound to make you miserable When the monotony of caring for a toddler gets to you remembering to surrender to the goat as one mother did when her son insisted on feeding the same goat at the petting zoo every day for hours will help you recognize the importance of being in the moment and will help you endure and even enjoy the sometimes tedious routines When you begin to resent that you do more housework than your spouse despite your best intentions and all the nagging in the world you can learn to ignore the score or let go of keeping track which can become an unhealthy and unhelpful obsession When your mantras seem to fail you you can always remind yourself that I am not Buddha Motherhood is not something we can master We can only try to be more mindful Even so some days are harder than others Mantras are the deceptively simple words we can use to diffuse stress and choose appropriate constructive behavior so we can recognize ourselves find our center and be more mindful and compassionate mothers
