Monkeyluv And Other Essays On Our Lives As Animals:

Monkeyluv Robert M. Sapolsky, 2005-09-20 How do imperceptibly small differences in the environment change one's behavior? What is the anatomy of a bad mood? Does stress shrink our brains? What does People magazine's list of America's 50 Most Beautiful People teach us about nature and nurture? What makes one organism sexy to another? What makes one orgasm different from another? Who will be the winner in the genetic war between the sexes? Welcome to Monkeyluv, a curious and entertaining collection of essays about the human animal in all its fascinating variety from McArthur fellow Robert M. Sapolsky, America's most beloved neurobiologist/primatologist. Organized into three sections each tackling a Big Question in natural science, Monkeyluv offers a lively exploration of the influence of genes and the environment on behavior, the social and political and of course sexual implications of behavioral biology and society's shaping of the individual. From the mating rituals of prairie dogs to the practice of religion in the rain forest, the secretion of pheromones to bugs in the brain, Sapolsky brilliantly synthesizes cutting-edge scientific research with wry, erudite observations about the complexity of being human. Thoughtful, engaging, and infused with pop-cultural insights, this collection will appeal to the inner monkey in all of us.

Information Processing and Biological Systems Samuli Niiranen, Andre Ribeiro, 2011-03-10 Living beings require constant information processing for survival. In cells, information is being processed and propagated at various levels, from the gene regulatory network to chemical pathways to the interaction with the environment. How this is achieved and how information is coded is still poorly understood. For example, what a cell interprets as information in the temporal level of an mRNA and what is interpreted as noise remains an open question. Recently, information-theoretical methods and other tools developed in the context of engineering and natural sciences have been applied to study diverse biological processes. This book covers the latest findings on how information is processed in various biological processes, ranging from information processing and propagation in gene regulatory networks to information processing in natural language. An overview is presented of the state of the art in information processing in biological systems and the opinion of current leaders in this research field on future research directions.

Storytelling Apes Mary Sanders Pollock, 2015-05-04 The annals of field primatology are filled with stories about charismatic animals native to some of the most challenging and remote areas on earth. There are, for example, the chimpanzees of Tanzania whose social and family interactions Jane Goodall has studied for decades; the mountain gorillas of the Virungas chronicled first by George Schaller and then later more obsessively by Dian Fossey; various species of monkeys, Indian langurs, Kenyan baboons, and Brazilian spider monkeys studied by Sarah Hrdy, Shirley Strum, Robert Sapolsky, Barbara Smuts, and Karen Strier; and finally the orangutans of the Bornean woodlands whom Birutė Galdikas has observed passionately. Humans are, after all, storytelling apes. The narrative urge is encoded in our DNA along with large brains, nimble fingers, and color vision traits we share with lemurs, monkeys, and apes. In Storytelling Apes, Mary Sanders Pollock traces the development and evolution of primatology field narratives while reflecting upon the development of the discipline and the changing conditions within natural primate habitat Like almost every other field primatologist who followed her Jane Goodall recognized the individuality of her study animals defying formal scientific protocols she named her chimpanzee subjects instead of numbering them thereby establishing a trend For Goodall Fossey Sapolsky and numerous other scientists whose works are discussed in Storytelling Apes free living primates became fully realized characters in romances tragedies comedies and never ending soap operas With this work Pollock shows readers with a humanist perspective that science writing can have remarkable literary value encourages scientists to share their passions with the general public and inspires the conservation community

Monkeyluv Robert M. Sapolsky, 2006-10-10 A collection of original essays by a leading neurobiologist and primatologist share the author's insights into behavioral biology including discussion of the physiology of genes and the factors that shape human social interaction

Agents, Games, and Evolution Steven Orla Kimbrough, 2011-12-19 Games or contexts of strategic interaction pervade and suffuse our lives and the lives of all organisms How are we to make sense of and cope with such situations How should an agent play When will and when won't cooperation arise and be maintained Using examples and a careful digestion of the literature Agents Games and Evolution Strategies at Work and Play addresses these encompassing themes throughout and is organized into four parts Part I introduces classical game theory and strategy selection It compares ideally rational and the naturalist approach used by this book which focuses on how actual agents chose their strategies and the effects of these strategies on model systems Part II explores a number of basic games using models in which agents have fixed strategies This section draws heavily on the substantial literature associated with the relevant application areas in the social sciences Part III reviews core results and applications of agent based models in which strategic interaction is present and for which design issues have genuine practical import This section draws heavily on the substantial literature associated with the application area to hand Part IV addresses miscellaneous topics in strategic interaction including lying in negotiations reasoning by backward induction and evolutionary models Modelled after the authors Agents Games and Evolution course at the University of Pennsylvania this book keeps mathematics to a minimum focusing on computational strategies and useful methods for dealing with a variety of situations of thinking deconstructing and constructing at the same time This volume considers Freudian ideas and their implications today while focusing on the contradictions and gaps in Freud's proposals The question of the coexistence between religion and psychoanalysis as well as the place of ideals belief illusion and imagination and no less important the benevolent and destructive aspects of religion also come into play Emotional Sobriety Tian Dayton,2010-01-01 Picking up right at the point where Janet Woititz's 1990 hit book Adult Children of Alcoholics left off clinical psychologist Tian Dayton's latest contribution contains fresh perspectives and new analysis on how to gain back emotional stability after growing up with the trauma of addiction abuse and dysfunction Dr Dayton accomplishes this by presenting and explaining the latest research in neuropsychology and the role trauma plays on chemically altering the brain With compassion and clear explanations and her own personal journey Dayton teaches readers how to undo the neuropsychological damage of trauma to rewire the brain and reverse the negative effects trauma has on our future relationships and behaviors to gain emotional sobriety In Emotional Sobriety Dr Dayton teaches readers How to understand the mind-body relationship of addiction and relationship trauma How to rewire your brain to undo the negative effects trauma has on personal career and romantic relationships How changing the way one lives and perceives adult relationships can change the way one thinks and feels and vice versa *Unf*ckology* Amy Alkon,2025-06-25 Amy Alkon presents *Unf*ckology* a science help book that knocks the self-help genre on its unscientific ass You can finally stop fear from being your boss and put an end to your lifelong social suckage Have you spent your life shrinking from opportunities you were dying to seize but feel that's just who I am Well screw that You actually can change and it doesn't take exceptional intelligence or a therapist who's looking forward to finally buying Aruba after decades of listening to you yammer on Transforming yourself takes revolutionary science help from Amy Alkon who has spent the past 20 years translating cutting-edge behavioral science into highly practical advice in her award-winning syndicated column In *Unf*ckology* Alkon pulls together findings from neuroscience behavioral science evolutionary psychology and clinical psychology She explains everything in language you won't need a psych prof on speed dial to understand and with the biting dark humor that made *Good Manners for Nice People Who Sometimes Say F*ck* such a great read She debunks widely accepted but scientifically unsupported notions about self-esteem shame willpower and more and demonstrates that Thinking your way into changing as so many therapists and self-help books advise is the most inefficient way to go about it The mind is bigger than the brain meaning that your body and your behavior are your gym for turning yourself into the new confident you Fear is not just the problem it's also the solution By targeting your fears with behavior you make changes in your brain that reshape your habitual ways of behaving and the emotions that go with them Follow Amy Alkon's groundbreaking advice in *Unf*ckology* and eventually you'll no longer need to act like the new you you'll become the new you And how totally f*cking cool is that The Compassionate Instinct: The Science of Human Goodness Dacher Keltner,Jason Marsh,Jeremy Adam Smith,2010-01-04 Leading scientists and science writers reflect on the life-changing perspective-changing new science of human goodness Where once science painted humans as self seeking and warlike today scientists of many disciplines are uncovering the deep roots of human goodness At the forefront of this revolution in scientific understanding is the Greater Good Science Center based at the University of California Berkeley The center fuses its cutting edge research with inspiring stories of compassion in action in Greater Good magazine The best of these writings are collected here and contributions from Steven Pinker Robert Sapolsky Paul Ekman Michael Pollan and the Dalai Lama among others will make you think not only about what it means to be happy and fulfilled but also what it means to lead an ethical and compassionate life

The Score Faye Flam, 2008-06-12 A smart witty and fresh look at the male side of the male female relationship from a science writer at The Philadelphia Inquirer In The Score Faye Flam examines how the desire to score has profoundly shaped males over millions of years Sweeping from the origin of the sexes to the sexual foibles of twenty first century humans Flam a science writer at The Philadelphia Inquirer shows how a small difference in the size of the first sperm and eggs resulted in an evolutionary tradeoff that has affected both males and females Because males of most species invest less in reproduction than females they have to invest more up front to get sex whether by jumping through hoops to prove that they ll be a good father fighting to near death with rivals or paying a couple thousand dollars for a class on how to pick up chicks la the pickup artists in Neil Strauss s The Game Within this tug of war context Flam explores a wide range of male behaviors and courtship strategies and ultimately reveals that males have been shaped by competing for the preferences of the female sex But after all this sex propelled evolution we re still stuck in a troublesome suspension between monogamy and promiscuity and it s this tension that explains the contradictions of the modern man

Multiple Pathways to the Student Brain Janet Zadina, 2014-06-09 From an award winning neuroscience researcher with twenty years of teaching experience Multiple Pathways to the Student Brain uses educator friendly language to explain how the brain learns Steering clear of neuro myths Dr Janet Zadina discusses multiple brain pathways for learning and provides practical advice for creating a brain compatible classroom While there are an abundance of books and workshops that aim to integrate education and brain science educators are seldom given concrete actionable advice that makes a difference in the classroom Multiple Pathways to the Student Brain bridges that divide by providing examples of strategies for day to day instruction aligned with the latest brain science The book explains not only the sensory motor pathways that are familiar to most educators visual auditory and kinesthetic it also explores the lesser known pathways reward survival language social emotional frontal lobe and memory attention and how they can be tapped to energize and enhance instruction Educators are forever searching for new and improved ways to convey information and inspire curiosity and research suggests that exploiting different pathways may have a major effect on learning Multiple Pathways to the Student Brain allows readers to see brain science through the eyes of a teacher and teaching through the eyes of a brain scientist

Guitar Zero Gary Marcus, 2012-12-24 Just about every human being knows how to listen to music but what does it take to make music Is musicality something we are born with Or a skill that anyone can develop at any time If you don't start piano at the age of six is there any hope Is skill learning best left to children or can anyone reinvent him or herself at any time For anyone who has ever set out to play a musical instrument or wished that they could Guitar Zero is an inspiring and fascinating look at the pursuit of music the mechanics of the mind and the surprising rewards that come from following one's dreams Gary Marcus whom Steven Pinker describes as one of the deepest thinkers in cognitive science debunks the popular theory that there is an innate musical instinct while challenging the idea that talent is only a myth From deliberate and efficient practicing techniques to finding the right music teacher Marcus translates his own experience as well as reflections from world renowned musicians into practical advice for anyone hoping to become musical or learn any new skill

Sex and Cancer Saketh R. Guntapalli, Maryann Karinch, 2017-06-29 An intimate partnership has physical and psychological components both of which often take a hit when cancer enters the union The prospect and then the process of treatments tend to alter the way the two people relate to each other When the diagnosis is one of gynecologic or reproductive cancer for a woman questions of sexual intimacy and function often color relationships confuse partners and raise concerns that other cancers might not With an estimated 83 000 women a year added to the roles of those battling gynecologic cancers and 300 000 women a year added to roles of those battling breast cancer Sex and Cancer focuses on surviving and thriving more than 70 percent of women with gynecologic cancers now survive and helps readers mitigate outcomes and overcome challenges of sexual dysfunction after a cancer diagnosis reassess the priorities in an intimate relationship to support the patient's struggle healing and libido and learn to interact with the professionals tasked with saving lives and enhancing those areas affected by cancer diagnosis and treatment Sex and Cancer features stories that illuminate insights about the impact of gynecologic and reproductive cancers on relationships The stories give life to guidance that's critical in shaping the effect that gynecologic cancer has on intimate relationships And readers will find insight comfort and suggestions for addresses the questions about intimacy and sexual function that are often left unexpressed

Adult Learning and Relationships Paris S. Strom, Robert D. Strom, 2011-04-01 The communication and technology revolution presents each age group of adults with new expectations for learning This book describes how education for young adults 20 to 40 years of age persons of middle age 40 to 60 years of age and older adults age 60 can be differentiated to fulfill changing role demands emerging in response to social transformation Developmental tasks for a society of longevity are defined including why youth should be seen as essential sources of learning for adults Themes for each generation are school work family and personal identity The way to ensure consideration of cultural evolution and cultural preservation is for intergenerational communication to become a common obligation Reliance on age segregated communication is popular and comfortable because peer conversations have greater agreement and less uncertainty However this practice prevents reflection on views regarded as important by other age groups When greater amounts of time are devoted to intergenerational dialogue the usual outcomes are reciprocal learning mutual respect and harmony This book identifies and elaborates the conditions of learning needed to motivate an age integrated society This book is for several audiences Faculty and students studying development will find insights on learning at successive ages Counselors will learn about client needs across the full age range of adulthood Social service providers will recognize transition in family relationships Nurses and administrators will discover ways to help assisted living residents maintain mental abilities and build social networks General readers will understand ways to improve life for relatives friends co workers and themselves

Sapolsky, 2024-10-15 The instant New York Times bestseller Excellent Outstanding for its breadth of research the liveliness of the writing and the depth of humanity it conveys Wall Street Journal One of our great behavioral scientists the bestselling author of Behave plumbs the depths of the science and philosophy of decision making to mount a devastating case against free will an argument with profound consequences Robert Sapolsky s Behave his now classic account of why humans do good and why they do bad pointed toward an unsettling conclusion We may not grasp the precise marriage of nature and nurture that creates the physics and chemistry at the base of human behavior but that doesn t mean it doesn t exist Now in Determined Sapolsky takes his argument all the way mounting a brilliant and in his inimitable way delightful full frontal assault on the pleasant fantasy that there is some separate self telling our biology what to do Determined offers a marvelous synthesis of what we know about how consciousness works the tight weave between reason and emotion and between stimulus and response in the moment and over a life One by one Sapolsky tackles all the major arguments for free will and takes them out cutting a path through the thickets of chaos and complexity science and quantum physics as well as touching ground on some of the wilder shores of philosophy He shows us that the history of medicine is in no small part the history of learning that fewer and fewer things are somebody s fault for example for centuries we thought seizures were a sign of demonic possession Yet as he acknowledges it's very hard and at times impossible to uncouple from our zeal to judge others and to judge ourselves. Sapolsky applies the new understanding of life beyond free will to some of our most essential questions around punishment, morality, and living well together. By the end, Sapolsky argues that while living our daily lives recognizing that we have no free will is going to be monumentally difficult, doing so is not going to result in anarchy, pointlessness, and existential malaise. Instead, it will make for a much more humane world.
