The diagram illustrates a multi-layered system architecture. It consists of three main horizontal sections. The top section, labeled 'Input', contains a grid of cells. The middle section contains another grid of cells. The bottom section, labeled 'Output', also contains a grid of cells. Arrows indicate the flow of data from the Input layer to the middle layer, and from the middle layer to the Output layer. The middle layer's grid is more complex, with some cells having additional internal structures or connections.
