Citizenship, Diversity and Pluralism Alan Cairns, 1999 Citizenship has both a vertical and a horizontal dimension The vertical links individuals to the state by reinforcing the idea that it is their state that they are full members of an ongoing association that is expected to survive the passing generations Accordingly their relation to the state is not narrowly instrumental but is supported by a reservoir of loyalty and patriotism that gives legitimacy to the state The horizontal relationship is the positive identification with fellow citizens as valued members of the same civic community Here citizenship reinforces empathy and sustains solidarity through its official endorsement of who counts as one of us Citizenship therefore is a linking mechanism that in its most perfect expression binds the citizenry to the state and to each other In Citizenship Diversity and Pluralism leading scholars assess the transformation of these two dimensions of citizenship in increasingly diverse and plural modern societies both in Canada and internationally Subjects addressed include the changing ethnic demography of states social citizenship multiculturalism feminist perspectives on citizenship aboriginal nationalism identity politics and the internationalisation of human rights Alan C Cairns is adjunct professor of political science at the University of Waterloo and author of Charter versus Federalism The Dilemmas of Constitutional Reform John C Courtney is professor of political science at the University of Saskatchewan and author of Do Conventions Matter Choosing National Party Leaders in Canada Peter MacKinnon is president of the University of Saskatchewan and has served as president of both the Canadian Association of Law Teachers and the Council of Canadian Law Deans Hans J Michelmann is professor of political science and acting associate dean Academic of the College of Arts and Science at the University of Saskatchewan David E Smith is professor of political studies at the University of Saskatchewan

The Transnationalized

Social Question Thomas Faist, 2019 The social question is back Yet today's social question is not primarily between labour and capital as it was in the nineteenth century and throughout much of the twentieth The contemporary social question is located at the interstices between the global South and the global North It finds its expression in movements of people seeking a better life or fleeing unsustainable social political economic and ecological conditions It is transnationalized not only because migrants and their significant others entertain ties across the borders of national states staying in touch with family and friends receiving or sending financial remittances in transnational social spaces Also of importance are cross border recruitment schemes for workers and the cross border diffusion of norms appealed to in the case of migration for example the social right to decent work as a human right Moreover migration can become an issue of inclusion or exclusion in fields important to life chances in the emigration transit or immigration states a transnationalization of national states And as in the nineteenth century political conflicts arise constituting the social question as a public concern In earlier periods class differences dominated conflicts While class has always been criss crossed by manifold heterogeneities not least of all cultural ones around ethnicity religion and language it is these latter heterogeneities that have sharpened in situations of immigration and emigration over the past decades Casting a wide net in terms of conceptual and empirical scope this book tackles both the social structure and the politics of social inequalities It sets a comprehensive agenda for research which also includes the public role of social scientists in dealing with the transnationalized social question European Citizenship and Social Exclusion Maurice Roche, Rik Van Berkel, 2018-12-17 First published in 1997 this book aims to answer if European post national citizenship provide a practical opening and a conceptual challenge to cope with the diverse and close circuiting crises of national European social models What then might a new sphere of European social inclusion look like This book also provided the first attempt to go well beyond national gridlock Old solutions will no longer do Is new land in sight With monetary integration almost implemented this is a highly relevant exploration of a central complementary common currency in Europe's future Migration, Work and Citizenship in the New Global Order Ronaldo Munck, Carl Schierup, Raúl Wise, 2013-09-13 Any consideration of global migration in relation to work and citizenship must necessarily be situated in the context of the Great Recession A whole historical chapter that of neoliberalism has now closed and the future can only be deemed uncertain Migrant workers were key players during this phase of the global system supplying cheap and flexible labour inputs when required in the rich countries Now with the further sustainability of the neoliberal political and economic world order in question what will be the role of migration in terms of work patterns and what modalities of political citizenship will develop While informalization of the relations of production and the precarization of work were once assumed to be the exception that is no longer the case As for citizenship this book posits a parallel development of precarious citizenship for migrants made increasingly vulnerable by the global economic crisis But we are also in an era of profound social transformation in the context of which social counter movements emerge which may halt the disembedding of the market from social control and its corrosive impact This book was published as a special issue of Globalizations
