Patent Litigation in China 2e Douglas Clark, 2015 An essential guide to litigating patents in China Chinese Patent Law and Patent Litigation in China Xiang Wang, 1998 Patent Litigation in China Brian J. Love, Christian Helmers, Markus Eberhardt, 2016 Though it lacked a patent system until 1985 China is now the world leader in patent filings and litigation Despite the meteoric rise of the Chinese patent system many in the West believe that it acts primarily to facilitate local protectionism rather than innovation Recent high profile patent suits filed by relatively unknown Chinese firms against high profile foreign tech companies like Apple Samsung and Dell have only added fuel to the fire Surprisingly given how commonplace assertions of Chinese protectionism are little empirical evidence exists to support them This Article contributes to the literature on this topic by analyzing five years of data 2006-11 on patent suits litigated in courts with the fifty most active intellectual property IP dockets in China Among other things we find that Chinese patent suits are highly concentrated in a handful of major urban jurisdictions not in smaller inland cities where protectionism is most often alleged to take place and also have rates of success and appeal very similar to those of US patent suits We also observe that foreign companies appear in Chinese patent suits most often as patent enforcers not as accused infringers and win their cases roughly as often as Chinese patentees Finally we find that patents litigated in China are generally more than five years old at the time of assertion and frequently have family members issued by foreign patent offices Together these findings contradict conventional wisdom that China's patent system has been structured to benefit domestic industry at the expense of foreign firms
