Suffering in Silence Donna Mac LCPC,2015-09-29 Selective mutism is an anxiety disorder and its currently one of the most misunderstood under diagnosed and undertreated mental health conditions When children with selective mutism feel expected or pressured to speak in social situations they become terrified Therefore their level of anxiety significantly increases but by remaining silent their anxiety level slightly decreases obtaining some relief for themselves For these children remaining silent is actually an ineffective coping mechanism or a maladapted solution to create a sense of safety within themselves Hence their mouths freeze and they are silent This is temporary relief but longitudinally these children suffer in silence Due to the fact that many children will display normative shy behavior or even socially anxious behavior at times it can be challenging to discern if the childs behavior falls within normal limits or if the child actually demonstrates clinically significant behavior signifying a selective mutism diagnosis This can be confusing for parents teachers and even clinicians This manual is meant to help clarify this distinction and will also assist you in figuring out how to seek help ask the right questions and what you can expect from early intervention services school based services and holistic therapeutic and psychiatric services

Eyes Wide Open John Breeding, PH.D. PH.,2011-06-14 With integrity and wisdom John Breeding has written a groundbreaking book that deserves the attention of every responsible parent His absorbing Eyes Wide Open is a wake up call to parents whose children desperately need protection against the many forms of oppression and exploitation they are now being routinely subjected to Leonard Roy Frank Activist and Editor of The Electroshock Quotation Description Eyes Wide Open is an effort to shed some light on the amazing and seemingly unlimited capacity of our species to live and act from a place of denial and unreality It seems we humans are intensely vulnerable to conditioning and that large numbers of us misperceive reality and act in destructive ways as a result Using this book Prof Breeding attempts to explain how this happens and offers a few thoughts on a way out The book consists of two parts Book 1 A 21st Century Manifesto for Parenting is a practical confrontation of some things parents must face about our highly distressed society in order to protect their children Book 2 Eyes Wide Open is a sequel confronting the fact that protecting our own individual children is not enough that without significant change in the way humans govern the world our children will not have a future This little book tries to crack a chink in the colossus of denial and ignorance the notion being to paraphrase the great songwriter Leonard Cohen that the crack is where the light gets in About the Author Prof John Breeding is a father of two from Texas USA he was born in 1952 He is a psychology professor who became aware of the problem of modern psychiatry whilst working in mental health services He always intended to become a Catholic priest until his teens this would account for the spiritual aspect of his thinking He is extremely active in campaigning on the negative effects that prescribed medication can have on youngsters in the US
