Nausea and Vomiting

Vomiting, with its precursor warning signs of nausea and retching, is mainly a protective reflex, but also an important symptom.

Chronic vomiting causes severe disorders. The vomiting center, located in the medulla oblongata, is reached, among others, via chemoreceptors of the area postrema on the bottom of the 4th ventricle (chemoreceptor trigger zone [CTZ]), where the blood-brain barrier is less tight. CTZ is activated by dopamine agonists such as apomorphine (therapeutic emetic), by numerous drugs or toxins, for example, digitalis glycosides, nicotine, staphylococcal enterotoxins as well as hypoxia, uremia, and diabetes mellitus. The CTZ cells also contain receptors for neurotransmitters (e.g., epinephrine, serotonin, GABA, substance P), allowing neurons access to the CTZ. However, the vomiting center can also be activated without mediation by the CTZ, such as during unphysiological stimulation of the organs of balance (kinesia [motion sickness]). In addition, diseases of the inner ear (vestibule), such as Ménière's disease, cause nausea and vomiting.

The vomiting center is activated from the gastrointestinal tract via vagal afferents:

– on overstretching of the stomach or damage to the gastric mucosa, for example, by alcohol;
