Historiography, Empire and the Rule of Law Ian Duncanson, 2011-10-06 Historiography Empire and the Rule of Law considers the intersection of these terms in the historical development of what has come to be known as the rule of law The separation of governmental powers checks and balances and judicial independence signified something entirely new in the way in which politics was imagined and practiced This rule of law cannot as it often is be traced to the justification and practice of government as originating in a social contract among the governed but rather by analogy with a popular conveyancing innovation of the era to the trust a device by which the power of ownership of land could be restrained But how could the restraint of power remain consistent with the avoidance of anarchic disagreement among those granted the task of supervision and restraint In response it is argued here the central legal and political task became one of managing disagreement and change peacefully and constructively by drawing on a colonial tradition that emphasised civility negotiation and compromise And the study of all of these qualities as they evolved Ian Duncanson contends is vital to understanding the emergence of the rule of law

Historiography Empire and the Rule of Law will be invaluable for all those engaged in research and the postgraduate study of socio legal and constitutional studies and early modern and modern history

In Praise of Cinematic Bastardy Sébastien

Lefait,Philippe Ortol,2012-03-15 Cinema may be called a bastard art in both meanings of the word because it is usually defined as a hybrid art form obviously but also and perhaps more importantly because it has been able to become formally as well as generically innovative mostly through adulterous relationships thus making illegitimacy its grounding principle by preferring a blurred lineage to a legible succession Trying to find what film is referred to in a sequence therefore amounts to establishing a clear family tree which takes no account of the illegitimate unions natural children and forgotten ancestors that are nevertheless part and parcel of film history If that quest should still be conducted its object it seems should not be one sole point of reference The aim of this book is to create the opportunity of studying and perhaps of rehabilitating those shadowy corners of cinematographic creation and film memory and to provide film studies but also literature and Arts studies altogether with a newly productive way of using such familiar notions as difference quotation reference blending hybridity miscegenation or crossbreeding
