Organisatie En Techniek Van De Handel:

Organisatie en techniek van den handel M. van Overeem, 1926 The Rise of the Amsterdam Market and Information Exchange Clé Lesger, 2016-12-05 Most scholars agree that during the sixteenth century the centre of European international trade shifted from Antwerp to Amsterdam presaging the economic rise of the Dutch Republic in the following century. Traditionally this shift has been accepted as the natural consequence of a dynamic and progressive city such as Amsterdam taking advantage of expanding commercial opportunities at the expense of a more conservative rival hampered by outmoded medieval practices. Yet whilst this theory is widely accepted is it accurate. In this groundbreaking study Clé Lesger argues that the shift of commercial power from Antwerp to Amsterdam was by no means inevitable and that the highly specialized economy of the Low Countries was more than capable of adapting to the changing needs of international trade. It was only when the Dutch Revolt and military campaigns literally divided the Low Countries into separate states that the existing stable spatial economy and port system fell apart and a restructuring was needed. Within this process of restructuring the port of Amsterdam acquired a function radically different to the one it had prior to the division of the Netherlands. Before the Revolt it had served as the northern outpost in a gateway system centred on Antwerp but with access of that port now denied to the new republic Amsterdam developed as the main centre for Dutch shipping trade and crucially the exchange of information. Drawing on a wide variety of neglected archival collections including those of the Bank of Amsterdam this study not only addresses specific historical questions concerning the commercial life of the Low Countries but through the case study of Amsterdam also explores wider issues of early modern European commercial trade and economic development.

Ministerie van Binnenlandse Zaken, 1923 Shopping Spaces and the Urban Landscape in Early Modern Amsterdam, 1550-1850 Clé Lesger, 2025-10-01 In this study the appearance and location of shops in Amsterdam during the early modern period is linked to major changes in the urban economy the size and socio spatial distribution of its population and the structure of the urban grid. Not only is there ample attention for the spatial distribution of shops across the urban landscape but for the first time it is also accurately charted what the exterior and interior of Amsterdam shops looked like and how they changed in the course of the centuries. Partly as a result of this it has proved possible to give an impression of the ways in which retailers and customers interacted. Verslag der handelingen der Staten-Generaal Netherlands.
