Original Sin A Cultural History:

Original Sin Alan Jacobs, 2008 A cultural history of the idea that people are born with a predisposition to evil shares the stories of the philosophy's proponents and disclaimers citing the contributions of such figures as St Augustine G K Chesterton and Blaise Pascal

Original Sin Alan Jacobs, 2009-04-28 Essayist and biographer Alan Jacobs introduces us to the world of original sin which he describes as not only a profound idea but a necessary one As G K Chesterton explains Only with original sin can we at once pity the beggar and distrust the king Do we arrive in this world predisposed to evil St Augustine passionately argued that we do his opponents thought the notion was an insult to a good God Ever since Augustine the church has taught the doctrine of original sin which is the idea that we are not born innocent but as babes we are corrupt guilty and worthy of condemnation Thus started a debate that has raged for centuries and done much to shape Western civilization Perhaps no Christian doctrine is more controversial perhaps none is more consequential Blaise Pascal claimed that but for this mystery the most incomprehensible of all we remain incomprehensible to ourselves Chesterton affirmed it as the only provable Christian doctrine Modern scholars assail the idea as baleful and pernicious But whether or not we believe in original sin the idea has shaped our most fundamental institutions our political structures how we teach and raise our young and perhaps most pervasively of all how we understand ourselves In Original Sin Alan Jacobs takes readers on a sweeping tour of the idea of original sin its origins its history and its proponents and opponents And he leaves us better prepared to answer one of the most important questions of all Are we really all of us bad to the bone

Hudson,2023-06-01 The period between the 16th and 18th centuries witnessed the expansion of European travel trade and colonization around the globe resulting in greatly increased contact between Westerners and peoples throughout the rest of the world With the rise of print and the commercial book market Europeans avidly consumed reports of the outside world and its various peoples often in distorted or fictional forms With the consolidation of new empirical science and taxonomy prejudice against peoples of different colours and cultures during the 16th and 17th centuries became more systematic giving rise to the doctrines of race science Although humanitarianism and the idea of human rights also flourished inspiring the campaign to abolish the slave trade this movement did not hinder imperialist expansion and the belief that humans could be ranked in a hierarchy that authorized White domination The essays in this volume trace the complex pattern of intellectual and cultural change from popular bigotry in the Age of Shakespeare to the racial categories developed in the works of Buffon and Kant These essays also link changes in racial thinking to other trends during this age The development of modern ideas of race corresponded with emerging conceptions of the nation state new acceptance of religious diversity became linked with speculations on racial diversity transforming ideologies of gender and sexuality overlapped in crucial ways with developing racial attitudes In many ways the period between the Reformation and Enlightenment laid the foundations for modern racial thinking generating issues and conflicts that still haunt us today A Cultural History of Tragedy in the Age of

Enlightenment Mitchell Greenberg,2021-05-20 The period covered by this volume in the Cultural History of Tragedy set is bookended by two shockingly similar historical events the beheading of a king Charles I of England in 1649 and Louis XIV of France in 1793 The period between these two dates saw enormous political social and economic changes that altered European society s cultural life Tragedy which had dominated the European stage at the beginning of this period gradually saw itself replaced by new literary forms culminating in the gradual decline of theatrical tragedy from the heights it had reached in the 1660s The dominance of France s military and cultural prestige during this period is reflected in the important almost exclusive space dedicated in this volume to the French stage This book covers the tragedies of France s two greatest playwrights Pierre Corneille 1606 84 and Jean Racine 1639 99 which would dominate not only the French stage but through translations and adaptations became the model of tragic theater across Europe finding imitators in England Dryden Italy Alfieri and as far afield as Russia This dominance continued well into the 18th century with the triumph of Voltaire s tragedies This volume also examines how the writings of Diderot and Lessing changed the direction of theatre and how after the Revolution in the writings of Goethe Shiller Hegel tragedy and the tragic were reimagined and became the sign of European modernity Each chapter takes a different theme as its focus forms and media sites of performance and circulation communities of production and consumption philosophy and social theory religion ritual and myth politics of city and nation society and family and gender and sexuality A Cultural History of Comedy in the Age of Enlightenment Elizabeth

Cryptography Manuals Katherine Ellison, 2016-06-10 While there are many surveys of cryptography none pay any attention to the volume of manuals that appeared during the seventeenth century or provide any cultural context for the appearance design or significance of the genre during the period Through close readings of five specific primary texts that have been ignored not only in cryptography scholarship but also in early modern literary scientific and historical studies this book allows us to see one origin of disciplinary division in the popular imagination and in the university when particular broad fields the sciences the mechanical arts and the liberal arts came to be viewed as more or less profitable Making Sense of Health, Disease, and the Environment in Cross-Cultural History: The Arabic-Islamic World, China, Europe, and North America Florence Bretelle-Establet, Marie Gaille, Mehrnaz Katouzian-Safadi, 2020-01-01 This book has been defined around three important issues the first sheds light on how people in various philosophical religious and political contexts understand the natural environment and how the relationship between the environment and the body is perceived the second focuses on the perceptions that a particular natural environment is good or bad for human health and examines the reasons behind such characterizations the third examines the promotion in history of specific practices to take advantage of the health benefits or avoid the harm caused by certain environments and also efforts made to change environments supposed to be harmful to human health The feeling and or the observation that the natural environment can have effects on human health have been and are still commonly shared throughout the world This led us to raise the issue of the links observed and believed to exist between human beings and the natural environment in a broad chronological and geographical framework

In this investigation we bring the reader from ancient and late imperial China to the medieval Arab world up to medieval modern and contemporary Europe This book does not examine these relationships through the prism of the knowledge of our modern contemporary European experience which still too often leads to the feeling of totally different worlds Rather it questions protagonists who in different times and in different places have reflected on their own terms on the links between environment and health and tries to obtain a better understanding of why these links took the form they did in these precise contexts This book targets an academic readership as well as an informed audience for whom present issues of environment and health can be nourished by the reflections of the past
