The Abused Child in Search of Safety Kent S. Miller, 2004 Longtime Presbyterian layperson Dr Kent S Miller emeritus professor of psychology at the Florida State University Tallahassee who had spent much of his professional life focused on mental disability law and the relations between the mental health and the criminal justice systems decided to volunteer for a couple years in the Department of Children and Families in Florida to try to understand why they were getting such bad press This book is a result of this time spent with the Florida DCF and is an analysis of the current crisis in the child welfare scene based on the author's involvement with a program that has been racked with the scandals of missing and murdered children. If as Christians we are to care for the little ones and our neighbors then Dr. Miller posits that we must address this concern immediately for we are sabotaging our nation's future by abandoning our at-risk children to say nothing of incurring the wrath of our Lord who demonstrated a preferential option for children as well as for the poor.

Another Mother Sarah Gerstenzang, 2007 The author describes her experiences being a foster parent discussing home visits intervention evaluation parenting training sessions transracial placement and other related topics African American Women and HIV/AIDS Dorie J. Gilbert, Ednita M. Wright, 2003-03-30 AIDS is the second leading cause of death among African American women between the ages of 18 and 44. African American women constitute 63% of all cases of AIDS among women in the United States. This volume brings together the collective wisdom of scholars, researchers, and social work professionals dealing with these concerns. Focusing attention on the primary population of women impacted by AIDS, this book presents culturally sensitive responses that meet the specific needs of African American women. An historical and current overview of the alarming HIV infection rate among African Americans, in particular women, introduces the crisis. Subsequent chapters highlight HIV/AIDS prevention and intervention strategies that are successfully impacting the African American population. Guided by a feminist perspective and grounded in social construction theory, social work theory, and social work practice, this volume privileges the voice of African American women, the group that is the most disenfranchised and least accurately represented in AIDS-related research and writing. This essential guide sheds light on a calamity too often overlooked, making it especially valuable for scholars, students, researchers, and practitioners involved with HIV/AIDS issues in the African American community and with women's and black studies. Children who Could Have Been William M.

Epstein, 1999 Epstein analyzes in detail the decay of the child welfare system through the case histories of Natalie and Adam, two children who have spent their lives in and out of foster homes and orphanages. BOOK JACKET Homeless Mothers

Deborah R. Connolly, 2000 Does the woman with no money, no home, and no help have any chance at all of being a good mother? This woman's voice, so rarely heard and so often ignored, resonates throughout this book, which describes the lives of mothers on the margins and asks where they fit in the model set up by our society. Book jacket Raising Government

Children Catherine E. Rymph, 2017-10-10 In the 1930s, buoyed by the potential of the New Deal child welfare reformers, hoped to formalize and modernize their methods, partly through professional casework but more importantly through the loving care of temporary substitute families. Today, however, the foster care system is widely criticized for failing the children and families it is intended to help. How did a vision of dignified services become virtually synonymous with the breakup of poor families and a disparaged form of welfare that stigmatizes the women who provide it, the children who receive it, and their families? Tracing the evolution of the modern American foster care system from its inception in the 1930s through the 1970s, Catherine Rymph argues that deeply gendered domestic ideals, implicit assumptions about the relative value of poor children and the complex public private nature of American welfare provision fueled the cultural resistance to funding maternal and parental care What emerged was a system of public social provision that was actually subsidized by foster families themselves most of whom were concentrated toward the socioeconomic lower half much like the children they served Analyzing the ideas debates and policies surrounding foster care and foster parents relationship to public welfare Rymph reveals the framework for the building of the foster care system and draws out its implications for today s child support networks

Forever Changed Linda Mornell,2015-03-01 In 1990 with no experience in the nonprofit sector psychiatric nurse Linda Mornell started Summer Search a program committed to creating one of the few opportunities in the country where adolescents from all economic backgrounds are given the chance to work and live together for an extended period of weeks or months in summer experiential education programs Most programs like this are expensive and not available to low income youth Seeing an opportunity to change that Mornell began Summer Search in San Francisco with 14 students and a budget of 30 000 Her passion and desire to change the path for these 14 students has blossomed into an even larger impact today to give the life changing experience to more than 2 200 students in the Bay Area Boston New York City Seattle and Philadelphia annually Forever Changed documents the importance of adolescents from all economic groups being able to attend the same summer programs that adolescents from more privileged backgrounds have found so beneficial It includes compelling stories of Summer Search students who each faced specific challenges such as learning disabilities and behavioral problems In the book Mornell persuasively argues how summer experiential education programs can aid in the growing need for adolescents to find their own voice and embark on a path of success

Orphans of the Living Jennifer Toth, The Least of These Ron Ruthruff,2011-06-01 Through concrete detail current statistics and qualitative insights from more than 25 years living among and ministering globally to youth mired in tough and dangerous street life Ron Ruthruff provides a tried model for serving not only troubled youth but others as well Ruthruff tells stirring biblically relevant stories of the real young people whom he and his family have loved and served and what these kids have taught him in return about truly Christ centered ministry These stirring stories compel us to reach the least the last and the lost and to appreciate what they can teach us as well Readers will hear the voice of Job from the hospital bed of a heroin addict read the story of the demoniac in Mark 5 from the perspective of an untouchable in an orphanage in Bombay India and discover that the children who sit on our city streets around the world are not just a problem to be solved but have the potential to become some of our greatest teachers in both their depravity and their dependence on God

Deciding Where to Live Melissa G. Ocepek, William Aspray, 2020-10-16

Deciding Where to Live Information Studies on Where to Live in America explores major themes related to where to live in America not only about the acquisition of a home but also the ways in which where one lives relates to one's cultural identity. It shows how changes in media and information technology are shaping both our housing choices and our understanding of the meaning of personal place. The work is written using widely accessible language but supported by a strong academic foundation from information studies and other humanities and social science disciplines. Chapters analyze everyday information behavior related to questions about where to live. The eleven major chapters are:

- Chapter 1 Where to live as an information problem: three contemporary examples
- Chapter 2 Turning in place: Real estate agents and the move from information custodians to information brokers
- Chapter 3 The Evolving Residential Real Estate Information Ecosystem: The Rise of Zillow
- Chapter 4 Privacy, Surveillance and the Smart Home
- Chapter 5 This Old House: Fixer Upper and Better Homes Gardens
- Chapter 6 The Housing Crisis and Media Sources
- Chapter 7 A Community Responds to Growth: An Information Story About What Makes for a Good Place to Live
- Chapter 8 The Valley Between Us: The methodology of racial segregation in Milwaukee, Wisconsin
- Chapter 9 Modeling Hope: Boundary Objects and Design Patterns in a Heartland Heterotopia
- Chapter 10 Home buying in Everyday Life: How Emotion and Time Pressure Shape High Stakes Decisions
- Chapter 11 Information Behavior
- Chapter 12 In Search of Home: Examining Information Seeking and Sources That Help African Americans Determine Where to Live
- Chapter 13 Where to Live in Retirement: A Complex Information Problem

While the book is partly about the goal directed activity of individuals who want to buy a house and the infrastructure that supports that activity, it is also about personal activities that are either not goal directed or are directed at other goals such as deciding in which geographic location to live, personal entertainment, cultural understanding or identity formation.
