What is your educational background? I studied Business Administration and still struggle to understand the highly complicated nature of a high-level executive position. I think I've found a way to combine my background in Business Administration with my passion for technology and innovation. I'm currently pursuing a Master's degree in Business Administration from the University of California, Berkeley.

Lowest Strength in America: The study predicts widespread voter discontent. A special government panel would monitor the campaign efforts for evidence of wrongdoing in the interests of fairness. Although these results, together with predictions that the oil boom in southern provinces will be followed by government-backed protests from the Gulf, Bahrain, Kuwait, and Saudi Arabia, show predictions that will inevitably be put to a tough test, the study will be the first to predict disaster.

anthropologists and others engaged in research concentrated on the group, not groups. What they saw was the "herdman," a person usually male, presiding as master, proprietor, and inevitably politician, planning, managing. At the end of the 1970s, however, came a different view: the ability of his people to make their own decisions, the capacity of the group, the potential community towards which the herdman acted.

Race Rights Reparations Fernne Brennan, 2017-07-14 This book considers institutional racism as a problem that exists within modern societies Its roots lie with the transatlantic slave trade and slavery and the solution involves ridding society of the problem It is argued here that first there needs to be an acceptance of its existence then developing the tools needed to deal with it and finally to implement those tools so that institutional racism can be permanently removed from society The book has four themes the first considers the nature of institutional racism the second theme looks at instances of institutional racism through matters such as deaths in custody and skin lightening the third considers the concept of reparations and the final area looks at the development of social movements as a way of pushing institutional racism up the political agenda The development of a social movement is part of a social discourse which would for example push mentoring as a form of reparations There is a need for more research on the manifestations of institutional racism and this book is part of that discourse It is argued that the legacy of the slave trade and slavery is continuing and contemporary through the presence of institutional racism in society This problem has not been addressed through legislation and policies devised to combat racial discrimination Institutional racism needs to be understood as being located in the processes and procedures of societal institutions
