An Introduction to Web Mapping & Geospatial Web Services Emmanuel Stefanakis, The aim of this textbook is to provide an introduction to web mapping and the geospatial web a fast evolving area in Cartography and Geomatics The basic theoretical and practical issues related to the dissemination of map and geographic content on the web as well as the development of map mashups and geospatial web services are examined The book can provide an aid and a reference to both students at the undergraduate and graduate level and professionals alike The content is the product of a series of continuous improvements to lecture notes distributed to university students in several European and Canadian institutes in the context of courses tutorials and seminars since 2007 Page 4 of cover

The Geospatial Web Arno Scharl, Klaus Tochtermann, 2009-02-28 The most important attribute of geospatial platforms is their unique potential to aggregate a multitude of public and private geographic data sets providing access to data from government agencies industry and the general public NASA and other organizations have a wealth of planetary science data representing the output from thousands of satellites in earth orbit and from dozens of costly missions to other planets Benefits derived from both the data and visual interfaces to access the data represent a significant return on investment for the public Integrating geospatial data with semantic and collaborative Web technology multiplies the public benefits and represents the main focus of this book The user interfaces of geobrowsers are designed for the layperson giving convenient access to all kinds of geographically referenced information. Geobrowsers hide the technical details related to finding, accessing, and retrieving such information. The daunting challenge of the Geospatial Web is to seamlessly integrate and display vastly different information modes. Nowadays it is not enough to simply display a map of some region; additional dynamic information modes need to be displayed and put into context from weather sensor readings and live aerial video feeds to daily news updates, photo collections, and video archives.

Introducing ArcGIS API 4 for JavaScript Rene Rubalcava, 2017-11-28. Learn to use the ArcGIS API 4 for JavaScript to build custom web mapping applications. This book teaches you to easily create interactive displays of geographic information that you can use to tell stories and answer questions. Version 4 of the ArcGIS API for JavaScript introduces new patterns and fundamental concepts including 3D mapping capabilities. You will learn the fundamentals of using the API in order to get the most out of it. Covering key concepts and how different components work together, you will also learn how to take advantage of the Widget framework built into the API to build your own reusable widgets for your own ArcGIS JSAPI applications. Including a series of samples you can use to leverage the API for your own applications. Introducing ArcGIS API 4 for JavaScript helps you take your existing knowledge of JavaScript to a new level and add new features to your app libraries. What You'll Learn: Create both 2D and 3D custom web mapping applications. Work with popups and custom widgets. Leverage the ArcGIS platform in your applications. Utilize custom visualizations. Who This Book Is For: Developers who need to learn the ArcGIS JSAPI for work or school. Those with some JavaScript experience. GIS or mapping experience is not required.
