Narrative Hermeneutics, History, and Rhetoric, 2024-12-23 David P Moessner has pioneered the study of early Christian narrative both through the investigation of the principles and methods of good storytelling outlined by ancient authors and through the demonstration that Christians, especially the author of Luke Acts, used these principles and methods in crafting their own stories. The contributors to this volume recognize Moessner's enormously valuable research and warm collegiality with twenty-one essays on narrative hermeneutics, characterization, genre, intertextuality, and reception history. Several focus fittingly on Luke and Acts, while others press the implications of Moessner's work for comprehension of the wider world of Jewish Christian and Greco-Roman storytelling. David Lowenthal's Archipelagic and Transatlantic Landscapes Kenneth R. Olwig, 2023-07-31 David Lowenthal was well known for his historical and geographical contribution to conservation and environmental thinking, his understanding and appreciation of landscape, and his critical public and scholarly contribution to heritage debates as a founder of heritage studies. He was a public intellectual and academic scholar who worked with scholars and practitioners as well as within public fora. His contribution can only be fully grasped in the light of his research and his practical and political engagement with islands, particularly Caribbean islands, as a geographer, historian, and scholarly activist. This engagement with material islands was also linked to his more abstract concern with the archipelagic quality of knowledge as it straddles the humanities and natural sciences. Of importance was furthermore his felt need to engage actively in both public and scholarly debates deriving from his family's background in law, public service, and social activism. The integrated chapters in this book, authored by prominent scholars together, illuminate the many facets of Lowenthal's biography and written works. With an updated Editor's introduction and a new afterword by Charles Saumarez Smith, this book will interest students, scholars, and academics in Landscape and Planning Heritage Studies Conservation History and Caribbean Studies The book was originally published as a special issue in Landscape Research Geographers Elizabeth Baigent, André Reyes Novaes, 2021-08-12

Tourism of Early America Cathy Rex, Shevaun E. Watson, 2021-10-20 This book addresses the interconnected issues of public memory race and heritage tourism exploring the ways in which historical tourism shapes collective understandings of America's earliest engagements with race. It includes contributions from a diverse group of humanities scholars including early Americanists and scholars from communication, English, museum studies, historic preservation, art and architecture, Native American studies, and history. Through eight chapters, the collection offers varied perspectives and original analyses of memory making and re-making through travel to early American sites, bringing needed attention to the considerable role that tourism plays in producing and possibly unsettling racialized memories about America's past. The book is an interdisciplinary effort that analyses lesser-known sites of historical and racial significance throughout North America and the Caribbean up to about 1830 to unpack the relationship between leisure travel, processes of collective remembering or forgetting, and the connections of tourist sites to colonialism, slavery, genocide, and oppression. Public Memory, Race, and Heritage Tourism of Early America provides a deconstruction of the touristic experience with racism, slavery, and the Indigenous experience in America that will appeal to students and academics in the social sciences and humanities.

Narrating Heritage Veysel Apaydin, 2023-11-02. Narrating Heritage critically examines the links among heritage, rights, and social justice. This book brings important original ethnographic research and unique case studies together in a coherent and cohesive way to examine patterns and differences of approaches to heritage. It exposes discourses of the uses and abuses of heritage and provides narratives of persistence, demonstrating the importance of heritage in securing human rights and social justice. Drawing on over ten years of research and ethnographic fieldwork based on six complex case studies from Turkey and comparing them with case studies from across the world, the book explores a variety of social, political, cultural, and economic heritage discourses, making explicit the relationship between cultural and natural heritage. This book expands on these discourses by examining the role of violence in heritage, expanding on the concepts of both direct and slow violence. It situates heritage discourse within the sphere of human rights and lays out redistribution, recognition, and representation as dimensions of social justice in a heritage context. The case studies in this volume explore multiple themes: from the links between cultural performance and the construction of collective identity and sense of belonging to the roles of education, learning about other cultures, and nationalist use of education. They also discuss the relationship between construction of heritage space and access and exclusion, as well as the impact of authoritarianism and heavy neoliberal policies on heritage making.
